Introduction

The ruined world of the sky possesses wondrous vistas, and terrible depths. The fauna has the flying manta, and the dangerous dark dragons. Your journey here will have you explore this place, perhaps uncover the cause of the world's state, and maybe even avert it or recover from it. Alternatively, you may spend your time gently relaxing with those you find on this journey.

However your path in this kingdom in the clouds takes you, it will be for you to decide. Afterall, You are about to be reborn.

+1000 CP

As a special consideration, due to a cycle of reincarnation being an important part of the lore here, dying while going through this cycle does not count as a chainfail.

Locations

You may either roll, or choose your location freely.

Isle of Dawn

This pristine beach is surrounded by dense fog and clouds. Most new arrivals will appear here, and explore the nearby sands and clouds. A few stones rise from the sand and a boat or two can be found. Beyond a small cliff a temple can be seen that acts as the gate towards the rest of the kingdom.

It is said that the Cave of Prophecies can be found here for those who wish to challenge the trials held within

Daylight Prairie

The meadows here are home to many swarms of butterflies. where the clouds are thin, you can see the bottom of the floating islands that make up this area. There are the occasional manta rays that can carry a friendly traveler for a time.

Within the meadows there are caves that can be explored along with the Sanctuary Islands.

Hidden Forest

The perpetual rainfall of the forest will slowly whittle the strength of the sky kids that are out in the open here. The buildings here have a few mechanical operations like auto-opening doors that are in need of a little maintenance but are still functional.

Traveling spirits have a treehouse that was built in this area, along with having made a small kitchen that feeds travelers who stop by.

Valley of Triumph

A snowy mountaintop with a number of slopes perfect for sliding down. A few of these slopes are set up for races. At the bottom is a coliseum to celebrate the competitors and performers of these lands.

The Village of Dreams can be found outside of the coliseum for those wishing to visit.

Golden Wasteland

While the other locations have some idyllic components, this does not. The clouds overhead are a powerful storm, and dark creatures patrol the area below for any traveler. It is recommended to leave the place as soon as possible. Swords, spears, and shields litter the area from a long ago battle, and the waters here are thick and are poisonous to those who travel through.

By hidden routes by boat the Forgotten Ark and Treasure Reef can be found here.

Vault of Knowledge

This tower acts as the gate to the Eye of Eden, but also is a repository of an ancient civilization's knowledge for those who wish to learn about the world. An elevator will take people to the top of the tower while teaching those riding it a little of the history of the world before leaving them at the final gate.

A hole in the wall can lead wanderers into the Starlit Desert.

Origins

You may choose your age and gender freely.

Sky kid

A sky kid is a being that is sustained by heat, its heart is a candle that it can use to share its warmth. Their minds are quite malleable, able to learn new things quickly, and possess inborn curiosity. Their existence seems to be a kind of bridge between the ancestors of this world and the creatures of light, as they are capable of flight using light but also are able to survive, albeit greatly weakened without it.

Spirit

The Ancestors have long since passed on, however many of their spirits remain. These grounded beings are susceptible to the darkness; it is capable of locking them in place and preventing them from acting. Despite that they are quite capable of sharing their experience and knowledge with those who ask.

While the Ancestor Spirits are more capable of giving knowledge and serve an Elder, the Traveling spirits have more direct influences on the world as you can build, provided you have the materials and are part of a tight knit group with a leader.

With this origin you can choose either option.

Perks

Perks are discounted per origin. Each tier of perk gets a single discount per origin. Discounted perks are discounted 50% of their cost, 100 cp perks are free instead.

General

Adorable - Free

You have an adorable appearance. Generally, this isn't going to make others have amorous feelings towards you, but they will likely want to pinch your cheeks.

Emotive - Free

You are capable of conveying emotions through various movements such that even while wearing a mask someone can easily know what you are feeling.

If minor extra effects are needed you can create those with a minor bit of extra effort, if you want to cry so hard water pours out of your eyes, or you need small fireworks to convey your excitement, you can manifest these effects.

HONK! - Free

While the denizens of this place don't communicate with speech, they are capable of vocalizations that replicate various creatures to get others' attention. You are capable of this too. By listening to a creature for a time, you are able to vocalize noises similar to the ones they can make.

Wings of Light - Free

The sky kids aren't naturally buoyant in air, given their ability to dive with ease. As such it comes from a manipulation of their internal heat that allows them to flap their capes to get lift and float. You possess similar abilities; so long as you have some heat even without a cape you can float, but with one you can gain height by expending your internal heat and flapping.

Strangely, this internal heat can also act as a substitute for oxygen when underwater, not particularly efficiently, but it can extend your time underwater greatly.

Sky kid

Guidance of the Stars - 100

The Sky kids were placed here with a purpose, and while they didn't know what it was, they were easily able to find their way to it. This basic ability of theirs manifests as an internal compass that points them towards their goal.

You possess a similar internal compass, though in future jumps, instead of just guiding you through the cycle of reincarnation, you can have it guide you towards more personal goals. While potent, this ability can't guide you past things kept with sufficient secrecy, so it can't guide you to a long lost key, unless enough people know where it is as public knowledge.

Warmhearted - 100

Sky kids are inherently powered by heat, and despite exuding it constantly don't seem to lose it quickly. More than that they are able to collectively gain heat by being in close proximity with each other, moreso when they hold hands.

What this means for you is that, like them, even when you are losing a small amount of internal energy passively it doesn't diminish your reserves, and your friends near you can absorb this radiated energy to replenish their reserves. This effect is more potent with direct contact.

Burn the Corruption - 200

In this land there are plants made of darkness that trap the creatures of light and absorb their inner light. Most are unable to remove the plants as they regrow too quickly, however while they absorb light, it seems that the light from the sky kids can burn it away.

Similarly, you are able to burn away corruption, so long as it has a physical form by it being in the presence of your inner light and heat.

Deep Cry - 200

If you watch a group of sky kids long enough you will usually hear one of them make a shout and have the others return the call. While this may seem to be just a form of communication, it has a second function in that it also allows them to replenish their nearby allies' heat and light.

You can do this by building up some of your internal energy and imbuing it into your voice before crying out. The energy in the shout will be granted to your nearby allies restoring their reserves.

Lights Out - 400

While most creatures of light perish if they lose all of their light from trauma, the sky kids are a little different, when they are completely exhausted, they are reduced, but not dead. They will crawl upon the ground while they recover from their recent trauma, but once the blow fades they will be able to walk. Though it won't be until they recover enough heat to reignite their heart candle that they will regain their other abilities. While in this state they are especially vulnerable and can lose some of the strength that they once had if it came from an external source and they are struck again.

You have a similar ability, in that when you take a blow that would ordinarily kill you you can choose to remain alive in a reduced and vulnerable state. Given proper treatment you will return to normal quickly.

Psychopomp - 400

The creator of this world had a specific purpose for the sky kids given this ability of theirs. Their inner light can guide spirits onwards and act as a vessel to contain spiritual beings, doing so increases their abilities little by little.

This is a trait you share, guiding spirits onward grants you the ability to commune with them, doing so can grant you costume pieces and minor expansions in your capacity to store your inner heat and light. Alternatively there are spirits that must be returned to their bodies, and by acting as a vessel for them you get the same benefit while hosting them, but at a faster rate.

The Ascent - 600

In this world, life is a cycle, you are born, you live, you die, and then you are reborn. The actions of the ancestors have broken this cycle. This broken cycle is why the sky kids appeared here, acting as vessels to carry the spirits through Eden which has become perilous for the spirits to pass through.

While you have the ability to do this as a sky kid while here, by purchasing this you gain a similar ability. Once per jump or ten years, whichever comes first, when you perish, you can become a winged being of light and take the souls of any recently deceased allies and guide them through the cycle of reincarnation, allowing them to reincarnate into forms similar to their old ones, with all of their physical scars mended.

Starborn - 600

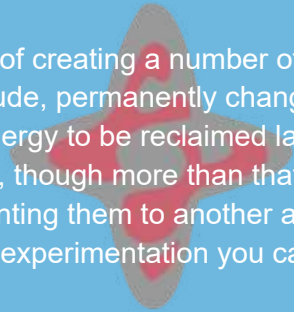

While both the Elders and the sky kids were born from the stars, they are both the same and yet different species, each created with their own purpose. Being born from the stars they possess a connection to them, being able to see the number of spirits yet to guide in areas by looking at the sky and viewing a constellation for that region. That isn't their most impressive ability with these constellations though. As they form bonds with others they can create a new constellation that only they can see, each star representing a single ally they have made. By observing this constellation they can gain a few pieces of information about them, brightness might represent their health for example. If need be they can even use this constellation to appear in the area of an ally, provided they have been in that area before themselves.

You possess these abilities yourself. Don't worry about not being able to use this ability during the day, by looking where the constellations should be with your eyes closed you can still see it with perfect clarity.

Spellcasting - 400

The ancestors were capable of creating a number of spells, with various levels of usefulness. A few examples include, permanently changing one's height, creating illusions of different outfits, and storing energy to be reclaimed later, amongst other similar options. You are capable of similar magic, though more than that, you are also capable of condensing these spells and granting them to another as if they were single use items. Perhaps with some practice and experimentation you can use this trick with other magics.

Ascended - 600

The cycle of death and rebirth that is present here, doesn't completely strip away everything from those that go through it, in fact some unusual energy is imparted to those that go through the cycle.

Your body is imbued with this energy making you more lively as a spirit, far more physical, and more resilient to corruptive effects. The more important effect of this is that you are more resilient to any effects that would reduce you in any way, not necessarily immune, but more resilient. With those intrinsic abilities as a base, you also have any of your spiritual abilities increase from this energy.

This energy also slowly grows within you, not necessarily making you any greater, but granting you the ability to impart this excess energy onto another without reducing yourself, should you choose to do so.

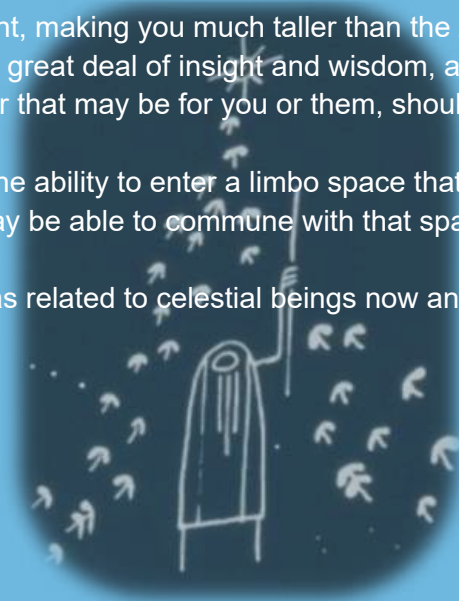

Elder - 600

In ancient times, the ancestors called to the stars for guidance, and the elders descended and led them. Originally, there were eight, though that seems to have been inaccurate as you were not in that count.

Physically, you gain a great deal of height, making you much taller than the Ancestors. Mentally however, you have been granted a great deal of insight and wisdom, allowing you to guide others into the next stage, whatever that may be for you or them, should you guide them well.

Beyond these basic abilities, you have the ability to enter a limbo space that is outside of time, and link it to a space so that others may be able to commune with that space and meet with you briefly, should you allow it.

As a final boon, you will be recognized as related to celestial beings now and in the future.

Held Props - 50

From a flute, to a parasol, to a warhorn, any item from this world that can be used in one's hands can be found here. If an item appears here and in another item, purchasing this version limits it to its in-game effects.

A Lifetime Supply of Candles - 50

This bag appears to have a dozen red and white candles in it. The candles seem to immediately replenish themselves once they have been taken out. As you put new candle colors or shapes in you find you can pull out candles of the desired shape and color as you desire. Unfortunately, these candles are worthless in terms of the currency of this world.

The white candles can also have a short message attached to them that whoever lights them will hear along with seeing an illusion of whoever is making the message.

Placeable Props - 50

There is a peculiar type of furniture that can be found here, a small version is made that can be worn like a backpack, then when a full sized piece is needed it grows to the size needed. Each purchase of this grants a single prop, even ones that are made of multiple components.

Menagerie - 50/100

This option comes in two options, both with similar effects. First, for 100 cp you get a swarm of butterflies, a few jellyfish, and a few crabs. The butterflies and jellyfish can help you fly by recharging you mid flight should you be close enough. While the crabs are uncorrupted by the darkness, so they won't attack you.

For 100 CP, you get all the previous, plus a few baby manta rays. While they start out being on a similar scale as the butterflies, they possess the ability to grow quite large over the course of their lives, becoming large four-winged creatures, before taking on a much larger whale-like shape. As they grow larger, they also grow stronger, all you need to do is take care of them and they will happily work with you.

Darkness Seeds - 100

This bag of seeds can be used to grow darkness plants, while not inherently dangerous, they do feed on lifeforce rather than light and water like most plants. By planting them in places with a great amount of lifeforce to absorb they can form darkness trees.

Colored Lights - 200

This set of six colored lights are capable of terraforming a location into an oasis and keeping it in that state even if external forces would slowly be whittling that away. The Red Light controls the temperature. The Blue light purifies water, including what is in the clouds above. The Cyan Light cleans the air and helps sunlight shine in the area. The Green Light helps plants grow and will create basic plants suitable for the area. The Purple Light will create a synthetic day-night cycle. The Orange Light will attract safe animals into the area.

Upon purchase you get a set of these lights, however, if they are consumed, they are replaced after a year, rather than a week.

Personal Island - 200

Choose either a floating island or an island in the sea, in either case you become the owner of such an island. You are free to choose its ecology and biome.

The full size of this island doesn't exceed the size of Sanctuary Island, but it can be divided into multiple smaller islands as you'd like.

In future jumps you can import this into the world, or attach it to another property you own.

Personal Temple - 200

Each of the elders have their own temple that spirits travel through to travel more inward to the Kingdom of Sky. In the center is a statue in their honor that those passing through can use to contact the elder by meditating before moving onward.

Such a temple has been either built in your honor or discovered and claimed by you. It counts as a place of power for you and allows others to get in contact with you, should you permit it.

In future jumps you can import this into the world, or attach it to another property you own.

Companions

New Friends/Old Allies - 100/400

For 100 cp, you can either create a new companion, or import an old one. Either case, they receive a 600 cp stipend to buy their own options here.

For 400 cp, you instead get six new companions, or imports for old ones, in any mix, as above.

If you build a companion that is the equivalent of a character as a new companion, you can take the person they are an equivalent of.

Sky Grandparents - 100

Most Sky kids are quite spry and young, seemingly perpetually so. These two seem to be a bit of an exception. Both appear quite old and use canes while walking around. Despite their frailty, they are still able to complete their duties as Sky kids quite competently. They are quite happy to tell stories of their adventures and share their experiences. They also somehow know when they are going to encounter people they know and will produce freshly baked snacks seemingly from nowhere that are personalized for their visitor. They are remarkably competent and capable in almost every situation, so much so that it is suspicious.

Whenever they are imported, they can be imported in the place of grandparents or caretakers at your discretion. They also seem to maintain their levels of competence even after being imported.

Swarm of Moths - 200

This group of seven Sky kids are identically dressed, all wearing Moth Chic, and possess the freebies of the Sky kid perkline and general perks. They are all a little lost here, but they have attached to you like ducklings following their mother. Take care of them won't you?

In future jumps, they can be imported as a group, or individually, but if they are imported individually, the ones imported individually cannot be imported as part of the group in the future.

Toggles

Gilded Age

(Restricted to Spirit)

Instead of the time after the sky kids arrive, you instead join several years before the calamity falls that will ultimately lead to that time. During this time you will have a physical body. Perhaps this will give you the opportunity to make the world avoid that fate.

Proto Sky

Make the world much more like the concept art, there are creatures that guard the path towards the elders. Some of the elders themselves do not want you to proceed and the King has fused with Eden itself as your final challenge.

Drawbacks

You can take any amount of drawbacks, but cannot take the same drawback more than once, unless otherwise specified.

Scrapes and Bruises - 50

(Can only be taken if you have 50 CP left)

Learning to fly is a difficult process if you aren't naturally aerodynamic, this will make it so that there is a bit of a learning curve to the flight offered here. Be prepared for a few rough starts and landings until you get the hang of it.

Full Speed Drifting - 100

Somehow, it seems you lack a certain finesse when it comes to short movements. Whenever you are going across a room you won't have problems, but when you try to take a few steps forwards you will find yourself sliding forward at full speed frequently. Similarly, when you just need to make a short hop, the winds will pick up just enough to push you an extra ten feet ahead. This won't normally put you into danger, instead just being quite annoying.

Moth Flame - 100

There's something about you that makes people think you can help them with their problems. This effect seems particularly strong with people less experienced than you. You will frequently find yourself interrupted by people asking for help, enough that by the time you help one you will likely have gathered a second waiting their turn.

Report for Duty - 200

Pick one day every week. By selecting this drawback, you will need to go through the process of reincarnating on that day every week while you are here. This won't inherently inhibit you in any other way, but having such a specific schedule tends to ruin the majesty.

Turbulence - 200

While normally the skies here are fairly calm, something seems to have caused some pretty chaotic winds. Close to the ground, all you will need to deal with are some strong winds, the higher up you go the more chaotic they are until it isn't worth trying to navigate when they are like this.

While most days will be normal, the weather will be like this a few days out of the week, so be prepared.

Extinguished - 400

Ordinarily, having some energy will protect you from some hits from smaller creatures. With this though it seems that every solid hit you take will completely exhaust you leaving you crawling on the ground hoping someone nearby will rekindle you.

Mutant Crab Rising - 400

The crabs of this world come in a few varieties, the harmless normal crabs, the violent dark crabs, and the mutant crabs. The normal and dark crabs can be rendered inert by flipping them over quite easily, not so much their mutant cousins.

By taking this drawback, all dark crabs are replaced by mutant crabs, and all normal crabs are replaced by dark crabs.

Krilled - 600

Before, the krill (or dark dragons) mostly dwelled in the most dangerous places like the Golden Wasteland, and Eden. By choosing this it seems that they are far more prevalent, being in every area, and frequently in multiple numbers. They will be just as dangerous as they were before too.

Dark Lamplighter - 600

It seems that someone has taken offense to all of the fires being lit around. Many of the candles have been cleaned up, and all of the torches have been extinguished. Whoever is doing this is so efficient that even if you relight these torches, they will be around to put them out in not too long.

Scenarios

You can select any number of scenarios, provided they are compatible with each other

Unshattered

The world wasn't always like this. Before, the spirits could easily go through the cycle without any interference. That is, until the giant diamond was made in the center of Eden. The King created this diamond to use it as a massive battery to power the civilization he ruled, but once it was put in place, it shattered and turned the capital of his lands into the wasteland it is today. In the shattering, the King was consumed and is believed to be beyond saving.

The new massive lodestone choked the entire system of reincarnation, necessitating the Sky kids appearance in this world to guide through the blockage. While this has helped the world quite a bit, it hasn't done much to resolve the issue. That responsibility now seems to fall to you.

You have been tasked with clearing the diamond from the center of Eden and cleaning up any residual effects from clearing it.

This isn't as straightforward a task as it may seem, as the diamond absorbs energy quite hungrily allowing it to spew forth more stones and produce a stronger maelstrom. In fact, it has recently been throwing meteors into the world outside of Eden causing problems for the ecology wherever they land. Simply shattering it will leave you with a large number of gems in the location that chaotically interact with each other, a state that could easily be worse than if you had done nothing at all.

If you manage to complete this task, you get the following Item and Companion:

King's Crown

This simple three point crown is the same as the one worn by the now lost Elder of Eden. Wearing this marks you as a ruler of some obscure kingdom that everyone is sure they have heard of. It also marks you as a friend of nature, to whatever beings care about such a thing.

Megan

As you finish this task, a tall Sky kid wearing a bird mask with an orange cape will fly down next to you leaving oddly long and vibrant orange cloud trails behind them. They will thank you and offer to come with you on your future journeys if you will let them. They possess every general perk and perk in the Sky kid perkline, along with the Elder Blessing Item. Despite their current appearance, they seem to be more than just a Sky kid, they possess an innate grasp of life, death, and reincarnation making them quite capable in any skills that are related to those ideas.

Who is the Dark Lamplighter

(Requires Dark Lamplighter Drawback)

Clearly there is something sinister going on, and now it is up to you to discover who is putting out all these lights. Skykids and spirits will talk of a shadowy figure with glowing orange eyes that elicit a primal fear in them when seen before the figure vanishes.

While it is easy to see the effects the unknown figure has, they are quite difficult to catch. More problematically, even if you are keeping up they seem to be able to extinguish the light inside a Skykid as easily as any lamp they have found, so special preparations must be taken.

Other than vague rumors of the Lamplighter's whereabouts, there is a smaller rumor that the Prophet of Fire may know something that you will uncover if you look hard enough. The Prophet themselves will be unlikely to reveal anything unless you press them about it enough. This will reveal that one of the Shadows from his trial has escaped and taken the shape of a Sky kid for reasons unknown. The Prophet will ask that you capture, but not harm the creature, and return it to him.

If you complete this scenario, you keep the cp from the drawback, but no longer suffer the effects of the Dark Lamplighter Drawback. In addition, if you manage to capture the creature, you will get the following Perk and Companion, otherwise you only receive the perk:

Reinforced Inner Candle

The extended time in the dark, while chasing a creature that can snuff out even inner light has made your inner light heartier than most. While there are a number of creatures that can affect your inner reserves in various ways you have an innate resistance to their effects. Even other sources of power you possess are now harder for external forces to drain away from you.

This doesn't reduce the cost of any abilities you use, only reducing the effectiveness of effects that would drain or reduce your reserves.

Dark Lamplighter

Should they still be alive the creature will indicate that it would like to join you. It has taken on the form of a Sky kid, except that its attire is completely black. Though the two disturbing features it has are its eyes which seem to ripple out with a malevolent orange light, and its voice that sounds like a number of spirits wailing.

In their time outside of the trial, they slowly gained an intellect like a Sky kid. Now they want to learn even more about the world. They are predisposed towards dark powers, but are capable of learning anything a normal Skykid is. Be the guiding hand for them and they could become anything.

Notes/Anticipated Questions

What is a Sky kid

As far as I can tell, the ancestors were beings of the world itself and they prayed for guidance. Their prayers were answered in the form of the Elders that came from the stars. The Elders were similar to the Ancestors, to be able to integrate with them. The Elder of Eden (the King) then screwed up hard and the creatures of Light couldn't go through their normal cycle. After a while the stars sent down the Skykids, creatures that while like the Elders, were also more like the the creatures of Light, making them a hybrid creature. They were sent with the purpose of restoring the world and bringing a balance.

So do they have charcoal bones and are made of wax? Maybe, it isn't really elaborated on. They have a special candle that they store inside of themselves where other creatures store a heart, so that is probably symbolic.

Who/What/Why is Megan?

There is a creature in the lore called the Megabird, think of it like the source and destination of all souls. It is basically the god of this world. Megan is a fragment of that. The name Megan is the community name for the Megabird.
