

BLACK CAT

Black cat jumpchain

By Faucheusestar

In a world largely controlled by secret societies like Chronos, the battle is fierce between criminals and sweepers, bounty hunters who, for pay, take it upon themselves to capture criminals. But in the shadows, a mysterious organization called the Apostles of the Star, controlling the equally mysterious power of the Tao, begins to grow, challenging Chronos. Which of the two will take over the world is still up for grabs or perhaps a new faction coming out of nowhere will take it over.

Professional: [100 CP | Free for Drop in]

You're a professional and if you follow the rules, so must others if you hold a bounty with a dead or alive registrant won't be invalid for killing the target, a customer won't be able to double-cross you at the last second without some great misfortune befalling him and forcing his hand.

These numbers... It's the black cat! [200 CP | Discounted for Drop in]

Sweeper

Sweeper Ability [100 CP | Free for Sweeper]

You may not be able to match Black Cat's shooting skills with this, but you do show certain ingenuity specific to this profession. Not only is it easier for you to follow a target, but you also know how to use the environment and see what might be useful in it, like shooting at the ceiling to make it collapse on an unusual target.

Sing [100 CP | Free for Sweeper]

You sing incredibly well, and your song can make with time even a hardened murderer question his methods and return to the straight and narrow. Let's hope your target doesn't have a yandere chasing him.

Informant [200 CP | Discounted for Sweeper]

And unlike the eye of vision, it doesn't cause noticeable exhaustion, but can only be activated for five seconds at a time.

Inventor [600 CP | Discounted for Sweeper]

Like Sven, you're good at inventing and building weapons and other innovative equipment, including special bombs and bullets or a certain suitcase. Your technology is strange, to say the least, because while it resembles a container, the space inside seems infinite. You could fit dozens of gadgets that wouldn't fit inside, and the weight would remain as low as if it were a normal suitcase.

Tao Master

Tao power [400 CP | First Free for Tao Master]

Choose only one of the Tao's powers, the examples given here are only examples, you could very well find a different use for these powers.

List of Tao power:

- Imagine Blade: By concentrating your ki on the hilt of a sword, you can create an invisible blade capable of stretching and sending out waves of invisible cutting energy. The sword reacts to your emotions and can take on a living form, further enhancing its ability to deform and bite your enemies, or absorb bullets and send them back. At a higher level, you can merge the sword with one of your arms and grow a third, demonic-looking arm.

- Insects: With the help of talismans, you can create and control insects and give those powers, whether they're small insects that you can see through their eyes to explore, giants that serve as mounts, insects to hinder your enemies, butterflies with anesthetic powder or bees with venom that turns people into puppets.

- Fire: You can raise your body temperature, protecting you from fire and explosions and charring your targets on contact. You can also spit flames hot enough to melt a military vehicle with ease.

- Blood: You can control your own blood as long as it's connected to you, using it as an attack or to create blood constructs. You can also absorb your victim's blood by touching it with your own, making any wound inflicted in this way fatal. What's more, you can store as much blood in your body as you can find, making it virtually impossible to kill you from blood loss, and you can turn your blood into acid to make it fall like rain.

- Gate: His power allows you to link two or more locations via a portal, either to move around or to attack simultaneously from several angles with the same attack.

- Gravity: Allows you to manipulate gravity and thus knock down all projectile attacks before they reach their target, or increase the weight of an area or your strikes

- Wind: the power to manipulate and control air, whether it's suppressing it to prevent your opponents from breathing, generating cutting winds or using gusts of wind to fly on a snowboard.

- Shot: Channel its ki into a firearm to replace bullets, the latter can bend or produce violent ki explosions.

• Decay: allows you to reduce everything you touch to powder/melt, with the exception of a few materials, making you technically invincible to the projectile, but enough materials in one go can exceed your limits and still hit you.

• Plants: Thanks to the power of tao, you can create plants, be they giant carnivorous flowers with blinding pollen, lianas or other plants, and also control them.

• Copy: you can project your soul to touch a person if you succeed you can transform yourself into them with all their power and knowledge

• Freeze : You can use this power to chill the air around you and create spear-shaped blades of ice, or grab your enemy to create ice that spreads over his body bit by bit until it covers him completely and freezes him to death.

• Warp World: this power literally creates an alternative world where everything you imagine becomes reality. You can also extract memories from the minds of people trapped in Warp World.
