Generic QQ

QQ: a forum where lewdness is accepted, embraced, groped, and then fucked. As a Jumper, you will be a member of this forum for the next ten years. Or else. If you get banned, you fail the jump. Fortunately, you don't have to worry about other forms of jump failure, as you have heavy plot armor to protect you from everything except the site mods.

As a gift, take these +1000 CP. You start in 2013 when QQ is founded and will go for ten years.

Origins

Each party member selects one

Reader

As a reader, you consume stories. You are also a quester, one who discusses, votes, and otherwise participates in quests.

Author

You write stories. While you might be influenced by your audience, that relationship is far less clear than for a QM. Despite this, you are well liked and popular.

QM

A Quest Master, or QM, runs interactive fiction. Questers control a person, faction, or nation, voting as a whole on what actions to take.

Demographics

On the internet, no one knows your name. Your legal age must be at least 18 for legal reasons, but aside from that your age, gender, sex, and so on are all up to you.

Perks

Perks in a subsection for an Origin are discounted by 50% for party members of that Origin. 100 CP perks discount to free.

General

Why Yes, I Am This Hot IRL (free)

It's a well known fact that all members of QQ are highly attractive. You are no exception. You're a perfect 10/10, attractive in whatever way you think is most suitable. The details of your parts are up to you, but we can stretch biological limits slightly for those. And also get some actual stretching for minor porn physics going. You don't have to worry about lubrication, and holes can stretch to fit things they otherwise couldn't.

"Degenerate" Is A Compliment (100 CP)

"Okay, which one of you degenerates likes handholding?"

Was that an inquisition, a proposition, an honest question, or a joke? You are a social chameleon, capable of immediately determining social rules, context, and other parts associated with any interaction. You will never be confused by a shibboleth again.

“Tax Return” Folder (100 CP)

You keep your porn in a secure location, hidden with a label that will detract interest. Like, you know, calling it “tax returns.”

This prevents the unauthorized from tampering or reading with these important files. Fortunately, your own memory has the same protection. It can’t be read or altered without your express, active, non-mind-controlled consent. As a bonus, I’ll add in perfect, unlimited storage, improving indexing and cross-referencing, and complete storage for all sensations, so you can remember exactly what it felt like when you had that wonderful encounter a while ago.

Moderator (200 CP)

No, this doesn’t make you a moderator on QQ. That’s too much power for me to offer for so little price. Instead, this gives you two powers derived from that.

First, you have the “Rule 8” toggle. When active, it prevents political conversations from happening except in intended places. If you walk into a government building, don’t expect this to do much. If two people meet up to discuss politics on a regular basis, don’t expect much either. Still, at least it prevents politics from being pillow talk.

Then there’s the “Rule 5” active skill. By calling out “Rule 5” you can force a conversation to return to a previous topic and stick to it for significantly longer, discarding the “tangent.”

One-Handed Typing (100 CP)

You can write, type, and draw a dozen times as fast as you would otherwise, and are now ambidextrous.

In addition, the penalties for doing something one-handed, when normally doing it two-handed is the only way for full effect, are about a quarter of what they would otherwise be. So if normally it would take you one minute to type something with both hands and five minutes with one hand, then those additional four minutes are reduced to one additional minute.

Vivid Imagination (300 CP)

When you read stories, you can visualize the events. Not exactly like you’re there, but similar levels of detail. You can do this with sight, but also your other senses.

In addition, this works not only with stories but also people’s memories, letting you “view” the past and follow along with someone when they describe what happened, though in that case everything not in the teller’s immediate sensorium will be fuzzy and indistinct.

Reader

Rallying Presence (100 CP)

Your presence and actions are encouraging, and moreso than normal. Posting in a thread encourages others to post, liking posts make authors and QMs more motivated to write, and getting it on makes other people horny.

96K Words, 69 Seconds (200 CP)

You can read at a pretty nice speed. You can read and process text at up to 6.9 times as fast as otherwise, allowing you to drop comments showing you read a chapter within minutes of it being posted. You can also read slower, if you want to savor the reading (like with erotica.)

Incognito Mode (200 CP)

Ever get tired of fame and attention? I know, it’s something you QQ members constantly have to deal with. This helps with that.

When active, this makes everyone treat you like an ordinary “peer,” not giving you any real special treatment and ignoring any fame you might have. It anonymonizes you even as it lets you use things that require your identity. You can still use a credit card, but any transactions made with this active will effectively not have your name on it. If a police officer tickets you, the points don't go on your license.

This can also be used to suppress your beauty and aura effects. You won't be ugly, but you can tone yourself down to "normal" levels of attractiveness, and even make yourself unremarkable.

Incognito Mode is also targetable, so you can exclude certain people from the effects.

Semi-Canon Omake (400 CP)

One of the ways in which questers attempt to influence quests and stories is through omakes, in which they write short stories of what they want to happen, what they think might happen, and just what they think is funny.

And now that's how you can influence the world. Writing an omake will ever so-slightly adjust the course of the world towards a goal of yours related to the omake. The quality and length of this affect the scale of this - a short, poorly-edited paragraph does little, but 12,000 words of eloquent and well-constructed pose does much more. (Still an effect that takes careful observation to notice, though.)

This is far more effective in support of your other actions. Write an omake about your seduction target furiously masturbating about you after a meeting, and you'll make notably more progress.

Tag Filtering (600 CP)

We all have fetishes we don't like at all. NTR, fat bastards, and so on. Fortunately, with this blessing, you can eliminate those tags from the world. Or rather, you can eliminate it from porn, and then it fades from being a thing after that.

Simply designate a fetish, and over the course of a month, it fades from being in pornography over the course of a month. Works featuring the fetish are revised to no longer have that fetish, and no new works will be created with that fetish. After that, you can designate another fetish to "filter." In the meantime, any fetish completely removed from porn will fade in the minds of people over time, no longer attractive at all.

You may carry over any fully filtered fetishes to future jumps, making those fetishes already gone in the next jump.

Author

Breasted Boobily Down The Stairs (100 CP)

There's amateur, trashy smut that gets sold in cheap paperbacks. Then there's what you write. Elegant, refined (at least in style) and effective. Balancing detail and pacing for maximum arousal, your sex scenes are very effective at getting people off.

Tentacle Monster In Shining Armor (200 CP)

"If QQ had an avatar, it'd be an omnisexual tentacle monster with breasts...and it'd be wearing a suit of gleaming white plate mail." - Higure, 2016

Despite focusing your attentions on a forum filled with degeneracy, illegal and immoral sex acts, and power fantasies, you still remain pure. Your heart remains unclouded by any darkness around you, and no matter what acts you indulge in (either imaginary or actually) you remain pure by the standards of both people and magical judgment.

In QQ, Awkward Feels You (200 CP)

This is QQ. You're not allowed to feel awkward. Instead, it feels you, and it likes the way you feel. The incredible freedom of a forum where kink-shaming is against the rules results in some pretty freeing stories. You are immune to being shamed, prosecuted, or persecuted for expressing yourself, and also immune to guilt for expressing yourself.

Logical Crack Fic (400 CP)

Good crack takes one absurd premise and plays it completely straight. Extrapolation from that one bit of absurdity and everything else happening from people behaving like people, you get an absurd yet realistic tale.

By internalizing the dao of logical crack, you have gained some benefits. It is much easier and faster for you to predict or extrapolate the consequences of a decision or event, and you can accurately follow the chain of consequences for several times longer with ease.

In addition, you are immune to cognitohazards. In fact, you disarm them, and if you tell a cognitiohazard to someone you can block the harmful effect of it through your transmission, making a new “meme” with the same information that is safe to disseminate.

Thoughts Over Thots (600 CP)

There’s this weird paradox when it comes to writing porn. You need to imagine the scene so you can get it right, but being horny distracts you from writing.

You have gained mental self-control. You can maintain your emotions while keeping your decision-making and other capabilities unimpaired from those emotions. You can be incredibly horny but still able to write just fine. Be angry, but still able to think clearly.

This also makes you immune to “assisted” seduction and other types of mind, body, and spiritual manipulation.

QM

In-Character Decision-Making (100 CP)

For most people, getting in-character for role-playing, whether for questing, RPGs, or for sex is hard. Fortunately, you’re very good at keeping people on track and in-character. It’s not anything supernatural in results, but your word choice, your facial expressions and tone of voice, all of that combines to make a pull that keeps people in-character.

Nonintrusive Systems (200 CP)

Quest systems are heavily exposed to the playerbase, in order to allow them to predict the results of your actions. Too much crunch makes it annoying to predict what will happen even without twists and can distort the narrative, while too little can make anything going wrong feel like railroading or the QM jerking around the players. Those aren’t the only factors, either.

Fortunately you’re good at game design, allowing you to make systems that balance verisimilitude, crunch, player contribution, and ease of use. Your players will easily be able to predict whether they have the combat edge needed to ravish an opponent right there, or how likely their research project is to be finished next turn.

You also can’t lose track of something created by or running on your systems - you won’t forget to add the effects of the cursed panties to a character’s rolls even if they haven’t had an effect for the past seventy turns.

Orgy-Ready (200 CP)

Endurance and pacing are important to complete a quest. They’re also useful in other endeavors. In that note, you have several times as much stamina, and it recovers much faster. This isn’t just physical stamina, but also mental stamina. You can write for far longer, and your five-minute coffee break refreshes you equivalent to a three-hour nap.

And yes, that applies directly to sex as well. You can go several rounds back to back before needing a quick break to get back in the fun.

This also makes you better at scheduling and pacing.

Actually Kinda Hot (400 CP)

Whenever you write something focusing on a less-popular fetish, there's always a few comments like this: "That's actually kinda hot." You are a decent manipulator, especially when it comes to the written word.

So yes, that means you can manipulate the masses decently well, but in your case you can also add fetishes to your readers. Want everyone to like futa? A couple lemon scenes should increase the number of people fapping to that by a bit. If you want to manipulate the world without getting flagged for NSFW content, you can do that too. It'll just take far longer and have a lower yield if you don't even mention what you want to change people's tastes on.

Quest Grandmaster (600 CP)

QMs should also remember the saying about enemies in war: they won't be where you expect, and will instead be 200 miles behind your front line, doing unpleasant things to your logistics. While this doesn't mean surprise anal sex, it does mean you need to be prepared for your questers to go in a direction you didn't prepare for.

Fortunately, you're very good at improvising plans. Not only can you pivot plans like a wasp-waisted ballerina on a lubed floor, you can make it look planned. Of course, it looking planned involves investing time and energy into seemingly unrelated details. 95% will probably wind up being useless, but those 5% are the anchors around which your quest pivots. Yes, it was totally planned that you would try to seduce your guardian angel. And you can tell that because I mentioned her carrying in a separate bag after shopping, which I later revealed to be lingerie. See? Totally planned!

This also applies to any plan you carry out, though with more investment of time and other resources into these potential anchors. So you send people out on surveillance (and they might be in position to catch a runner that you had no idea was even working for your enemies) or have them get extra supplies (that turn out to help because your enemy had a tank out of nowhere.)

And yes, this does apply to seduction. Looking like you're always on top of things is pretty attractive to a lot of people.

Items

Items are discounted the same way as Perks. In addition, all purchased Items may have one pre-owned item of the same type imported and merged into them. Items will be replaced after a week if destroyed or lost, or repaired in a proportional amount of time if damaged.

General

Pr0nbox (100 CP, first free)

This is a very nice computer, with very high specifications. It can either be a portable laptop or a fixed workstation. (It's not branded "Pr0nbox," though if you really want I have a sticker with that you can stick on it.)

The laptop can have a screen size of anywhere from 28-50 cm, is lightweight even for a netbook or tablet, and is durable enough you can drop it off a skyscraper or run over it with a tank and it'll still work. A wireless mouse is included, which is always available whenever you use the laptop.

The workstation has the advantage of coming with multiple monitors, very good speakers, and a nice chair.

All Pr0nboxes come with their own internal lifetime power supply. This is good enough to power any attached accessories like monitors. The fans are whisper-quiet because there aren't any - instead, I simply forbade the laws of thermodynamics from functioning inside the case so it won't overheat. Free internet access is provided as well, though it won't do anything in settings without an internet.

The OS is my own custom blend, capable of running any software on any media that can be attached to it, so you can run whatever eroges you find on it. The antivirus will be able to keep viruses from running on it. The password prompts will only work for the correct users, as well.

For an additional 100 CP, more security is integrated. No one can use the computer unless they have the permission of a user, and only then as that user. Even then, access to any files or folders is only on an as-needed basis, so your porn folders will be straight-up invisible unless you want to share. Internet history will be similarly hidden.

The security upgrade applies to all purchased Pr0nboxes.

Getting the advanced security also gets you 100% off a lifetime subscription to JumpVPN with the code TENTACLE. This VPN service allows you to seamlessly access region-locked content, hides your location from all web services, prevents your data from being sold even from web services you use, and even prevents browsers and browser extensions from using your personal data. You'll still have your internet history, but no one else will unless you share it. You can download the client on any other computers you have to get the same features on them.

Bare Necessities (100 CP)

You have a trust fund with $200,000 or equivalent in it. An additional $10,000 is added each month. The trust fund is refilled to full each jump, as well. All taxes and fees have already been paid for it, and you can integrate any other source of wealth through this. Additional purchases double the amounts each time.

However, there is one restriction: the money originally in the trust fund and the monthly refills can't be used to purchase clothing, unless it's revealing or very erotic. This is "bare" necessities, you see?

Premium Hentai (100 CP)

Online repositories of pornography often have some gatekeeping to them, whether that's a simple age button or a paywall. Fortunately, you don't have to worry about that any more. Age checks just don't happen for you. In addition, no one will charge you for porn ever again.

As a bonus, I'll improve the technical quality of any porn you do encounter.

Reader

Old Spice (100 CP)

Well, it might not be specifically that brand, but this is a few boxes, full of various hygiene and cleaning supplies. And they stay full, unless you're using the supplies at the time. Because despite what haters say, QQ members have excellent hygiene. You have control over the scents and types (gels, packets, etc) of products you have.

The hygiene supplies bring out your natural beauty and make you smell good, and provide a bit of a protection from getting dirty again.

The cleaning supplies will actually undo wear and tear on whatever they clean. Your clothes will un-wear-out when you use the laundry detergent and dryer sheets, and wiping down furniture with the cleaning cloths will, over several dusting or cleaning sessions, restore it to peak condition.

Audible Presents (200 CP)

Maybe your hands are busy, or your eyes are tired. Hell, maybe that myth was true and you've gone blind!

This screen reader is for you then. You can set it to read an e-book, a dead tree book, a forum thread, scanned images, or pretty much any other form of text. It will create appropriate voices for a narrator and any characters, based on both you and the content, and will also do sound effects. So be careful when listening to porn stories (or at least use headphones) unless you want everyone around listening in on your erotic audiobook and thinking you're actually having sex.

The program is also capable of filtering out various sorts of content from what it's reading. Like removing captions and image descriptions from a textbook, or only reading story posts from a forum thread.

Next Button (400 CP)

Have you ever found a story that was canceled right as it was getting good? With the power of the next button, you don't have to worry. This button will cause a new chapter to have been written by the author, and be immediately ready for reading. In fact, this works even if the author is dead or otherwise out of action, and will try to resolve that permanently. That might take a few uses of the button, though. The new chapters are written in the same style as the original and with the correct backstory and history, as well. Obviously, because they were written by the original author.

However, there's a cooldown, and a cooldown per story. The next button works only once per five minutes. Per-story, the cooldown is 24 hours per 1,000 words (minimum 24 hours) in the latest chapter.

Author

The New Renaissance Patron (100 CP)

Sometimes you want art for your story. Fortunately, you have this list of artists. For each one it has style, speed of working, contact information, what type of art they specialize in, and a few other bits and pieces of information. You should have noticed that price wasn't listed. That's because the list takes care of paying the artist for their time. The wide range of artists on the list can create anything from scenic landscapes, erotica, icons, covers, maps, all sorts.

Just remember to clearly articulate your thoughts and take the time to give feedback as they create your art, and it will wind up fitting perfectly, both for you and your audience.

Muse Robes (200 CP)

According to tradition, muses are highly attractive, and yet the artists they inspire don't get distracted by the sexy. Maybe that's because muses have clothes like these.

These three outfits are for someone else to wear. They shift to fit their wearer, accentuating their style and personal manner of sexiness. However, the real magic is what it can do to other people who can sense the wearer. It translates their horniness into inspiration, so the more turned on they are the more inspired they are to do art. The horniness is still there, just not actually working as horny. This also means that nearby people won't orgasm and can become incredibly horny, especially if the wearers actively try to encourage that.

Once the wearer strips from the outfit, that effect stops very suddenly. Good way to decompress after a day of writing.

Get Out Of Ban Free Card (400 CP)

What did you do? Come on now, why can you not just follow the rules? Or perhaps the people in power just have it in for you? Well, this card is the right thing for you then. Once a jump or every ten years (whichever is sooner) you may use this card to escape punishment. Oh, people involved will still remember it and perhaps even bring it up, but you will not suffer the consequences from the authorities. For this jump this only covers non-legal punishments such as online banning, but post-jump this expands to all punishments from people in official positions of power (so literally a get out of jail free card). This can only be used for infractions for one set of rules at a time (e.g. cannot be used for both QQ and Reddit, even if banned from both), but can apply to any number of charges as long as they are processed together.

Beware though, anyone you personally wronged might still try to take "unofficial" avenues of retribution. Nonetheless, you can be assured that the system itself will not come down on you, even if those people are the highest ranking officials in the land. People who were not directly involved in the case will not be particularly offended and it will quickly drop off the community's radar instead of nucleating public outrage at the miscarriage of justice. Note that this covers cases of "double jeopardy" and the like, where anything included in the charges that were dismissed by this card will never be officially used against you again. It is settled as far as the authorities are concerned.

QM

Mega DropImageBoxLoad (100 CP)

This file and image sharing site is yours to keep. It has infinite storage, no content rules, no bandwidth limits, and 100% uptime. It automatically connects to the internet in any world you are a part of, and registers its own domain unilaterally.

In addition, you have administrator access to the system, allowing you to remove content, prevent certain parties from uploading content, and set the appearance of the website.

This also grants all of your electronics and digital devices unlimited storage.

Informational Threadmarks (200 CP)

You have your notes on your quest (mental or not) and you want to make sure that your audience has access to some of it. That’s where this comes in. This is both information compartmentalization and distribution in one item.

It allows you to sync up your notes and plans with external repositories, such as informational posts in your quest thread, and even works on mental notes as well.

The main feature is the advanced access control. It is a powerful tool to allow you to automatically censor information you don’t want to get out, and even seperate or otherwise doctor information if you want to, for example, disguise that two characters are actually the same ones for surprise incest.

Akashic Discord (400 CP)

QQ is a place where a story can veer from talking about a character’s fine ass to physics lessons to certification for car mechanics. And the readers take their knowledge very seriously.

Fortunately, you have access to this private chat server. The members have a wide variety of hobbies and professions, and are happy to share some information about it with you. Well, at least for public matters. Spies, nuclear weapons technicians, and other such persons with classified information will keep quiet about the details of their jobs, maybe giving a few bits of information on less-sensitive parts at best. This server includes quite a few people very interested in historical topics. If you want to know how exactly the Romans made mortar, ask here.

The members don’t have an unlimited amount of time to spend chatting with you, but they’ll send you specialized documents like training manuals, raw data, and handbooks if you ask for more information.

In addition, this chat server has members from all of your previous worlds in it as well. No one specific, but you can still get information on things from previous worlds if you want.

Companions

Logins (100 CP)

Import up to 8 companions. They may choose an Origin and get 600 CP to spend on Perks and Items.

Logoff (50 CP)

You may recruit QQ members who have given permission and take them on your Jumpchain with you. Upon the end of the Jump, they may select an Origin and get 600 CP on Perks and Items.

Internet Girlfriend (50/100 CP)

Yes, your internet waifu/husbando. Turns out that they're actually real. This individual has been created to complement you perfectly, and their appearance is a 10/10 according to your tastes. They love you with their entire heart, their fetishes are the counterpart to yours, and their other tastes are just different enough from yours to be good.

For 50 CP, they're otherwise a mundane person, but for 100 CP they have some amount of power and/or equipment. Not as much as you have, but still there. They'd start at half of a normal party member if their powers are in-genre with what you already have, or half that if out of genre. (For example, if all your powers were "fantasy" types, then if you get a gadgeteer genius then their metaphorical character sheet has a quarter of the points.)

Waifu Catalog (200/300 CP)

Oh, was there a character from here you wanted to take? Sure, go ahead. This character is from a QQ story or quest. While they maintain their powers, these powers will be hit by the nerfbat until they are appropriate for your party's current power level. Increasing the power level will undo an appropriate level of nerfing, and if the rest of the party gets powered up enough, the nerfing will be completely gone.

In addition, if this character is out of line for your past Jumpchain experience, if you couldn't have gotten something like their powers before, then this costs 300 CP.

Drawbacks

Just A Perv (+300 CP)

You're not a pervert who can control lightning, has a spaceship, or is actually a giant robot. You're just a perv. Your previous purchases are suppressed and locked down, like you don't have them, during this Jump.

Rub One Out (+100 CP/+200 CP)

You can't have sex with anyone else. If you want to deal with your libido, you're going to need to masturbate. Rub one. Plumb your depths. Beat your meat.

For 200 CP, your libido is high enough you'll need to get off two or three times a day, or wind up frustrated and pent-up enough that focusing is difficult.

Permanent Post-nut Clarity (+100 CP)

The clarity that comes after orgasm makes arousal difficult, as you consider just what happened in a more reasonable light. This clarity will never fully leave you during this Jump, making it harder to engage in lewdposting or get it going.

Lukewarm (+100 CP)

Everyone has fetishes that really get them going. The ones that make them go “oh yeah” and turn them on all the way. And you can’t come across them. The best you can get is “alright, this has sex in it. Let’s rub one out.”

Ice Bath (+100 CP)

Requires Lukewarm

So, it turns out that any porn you find will have fetishes in it you hate. Everything. Expect to have the mood killed often when reading porn.

Punch You Through The Internet (+100 CP)

You enjoy irritating people on the internet a bit too much.

Any time you irritate someone enough that they would punch you if they didn’t have to worry about lawsuits or the cops? You’re getting punched. And you’re going to feel it like a normal human would.

Naturally, you will post at least as often as if you didn't have this drawback.

Wholesome Family Time (+200 CP)

Ah yes, Jumpchain, an idea of freedom and empowerment. So what better way to tortue by making you move back in with your family. Your super-puritan family who will have no part in anything resembling porn. For them, the only acceptable form of sex is the missionary position, through a hole in the sheet, for the purposes of procreation. They’ll harass you for wearing skimpy clothes, try and destroy anything remotely pornographic they find, publicly shame you if they catch you having sex, and so on.

You’re always going to be living with them, and they’ll always be super-puritan. No getting around it.

Supplement Mode

You may supplement this Jump to another one. In doing so, you sacrifice the plot armor you have, but you no longer have the fail condition of getting kicked off QQ. Keep all CP separate between the two documents, and use the other Jump’s duration.

If supplemented with SB/Youtube, there is still plot armor, but you only have to maintain a presence on one site.

Conclusion

Well done on staying online for ten years.

You get permanent access to QQ, and it updates too. Both reading and posting. (As for how that works, technobabble!)

Now, everyone decide what to do next:

Search

Continue on to another Jump

Read On

Remain here, in this world, and end your Chain.

Reread

Return to a previous world, and end your Chain.

Notes

Acknowledgements

Walkir, Daemonflayer, BetweenTheLines, ir_fane