MERRY XMAS /CYOAG/

"I thought I warned you people not to cross the streams, and now apparently you've decided to go and do it anyways. Well, whatever, you've gone and done it…might as well see what happens now."

Snow falls from the sky, and all manner of folk gather round the hearth. It's that time of year, traveler, and while ordinarily you'd expect to see your Benefactor and an assortment of shiny new options and selections, they're nowhere to be found. Your friends are out shopping, maybe a few are in the kitchen cooking, but for the moment you're alone. The quiet begets introspection and so you reflect on where you came from and all you've done since you left home. A torrent of memories, good and bad, fill your mind but the experience as a whole leaves you fair glowing.

No, wait, you're actually glowing. The fuck?

Your new condition hasn't gone unnoticed by the old man near you, who may or may not be partly responsible for your condition – or at least aware of what's going on. He's doesn't hesitate to talk to you at any rate, despite the fact that you could beat Rudolph at his own game right now.

"Oh hello there…uh, well, regardless of where you come from, I hope that you're having a wonderful Xmas. Frankly I'm not quite sure why you've shown up now of all places, but at the very least, you might as well stay and enjoy a nice festive decade with us while we take a tour to this bizarre realm called /cyoa/. We're not all too sure why we're here frankly, but a job is a job, so…oh, before I forget.

You might want to take these."

+1000 Christmas Points

We had an excess you see, season of giving and all. But some of my colleagues are into collecting these odd Christmas Points, so if you want to trade some of it with them, I'm sure they might give you odds and ends that could be of some use to you. No guarantees on that though.

[Making Your Acquaintance]

Well since you're here anyways, we might as well put you through the basics. Things like gender and age? Heck I'm feeling generous, so you can choose those at will, you can even become a reindeer if you so wish since tis the season!

What is important however is figuring out how you're going to fit in, and for that…I have a small book here with some of the backgrounds you can choose from. (It's probably best to play along with this old geezer even if you're not all too sure what's happening right now)

Background	Description
Drop In	You are the master of "wouldn't it be cool if…?" Coming up with ideas and translating them to something tangible are your bread and butter. You're accustomed to working with a small but active community, but really you're just there to make cool stuff
Xmas Caroller	Who doesn't love music? Communists, that's who, and you're no commie. I don't know where that came from, but regardless you've got a measure of musical talent and a desire to share that talent with the world. Go deck the halls, why don'cha?
Hallmark Protagonist	The holidays are about many things: family, friends, food, and horribly over-the-top sappy emotional made for TV movies. You are now a living embodiment of the latter. There is no emotion you do not feel with piercing depth, and in all likelihood you're probably full of heart-warming wisdom.
Mall Santa	Saint Nick, jolly 'ole elf, who doesn't love him? Didja know that Saint Nicholas was actually Greek? I've always wondered if that makes Greeks el. . . Nevermind. You're a mall Santa, a dude who gets paid to dress up like Santa and provide children with a great memory and parents with a photo-op.

[Locations]

Where will you go? Who will benefit from this good cheer? Roll 1d8 to determine the outcome. Don't like the outcome? Pay 50 of your Christmas Points to choose from the list!

Your Roll	Your Location
1	/cyoag/ The place where it all began, a land of infinite mystery and adventure. Hell, adventure is even in the title.
2	Stardust . The endless ocean of stars, filled with ships, and pirates, and occasional waifu
3	Magical Realm This is either a series of dimensions of infinite creativity and wonder, or a swirling pool of depravity. Crossing the threshold has been known to cause mild to severe PTSD. Dare you enter?
4	Hidden Fantasy World This is a quiet place, and to be honest nobody quite knows what it's about. Plenty of people seem to visit, though I'm not certain they leave afterward. I'm sure you'll be fine.
5	Power Armor Like fire from the hand of Prometheus, suits of hyperadvanced armor fell from the sky. The inhabitants of this land took up the technology and now work to influence the world around them. Tread lightly, gift giver
6	Accidental Magical Girl

	What if someone offered you the chance to become the little girl? Would you take it? Would you take it if there was a catch? The inhabitants of this place took the offer, were transformed and now battle with arcane, eldritch powers against the dark and one another.
7	Traveller's Tale Welcome to Traveler's Tale, where it seems that every single piece of fiction has collided into one massive clusterfuck of a universe.
8	Well, it looks like the dice favor you! Choose any place on this list or any other adventure filled venue to visit and spread your cheer.

[Do We Really Need Perks For This?]

Perks for their respective origins are discounted 50%, while 100 CP perks are free for the given origin.

CONTENT CREATOR

Generate Hype! 100

While we all might say that we create in a void, the truth is that half the fun is seeing someone face light up when they play with what you just created. Sometimes though people don't know what they want until you show it to them. Now you can do just that. You have an uncanny ability to make people excited and interested in your projects and creations.

Fast Crafting 300

Second only to the tyranny of the blank page is the terrifying march of time. You know what you need to get done, but it seems as though there's never enough hours in the days or days on the calendar to get that project just the way you want it. At least, that's how it used to be. You now have the ability to work outside of time. When working on a creative project, the clock ignores you. So long as you are working on a creative project, you exist slightly outside of reality; just enough that you find you have exactly enough time to get your project done precisely how you envisioned in the time allotted.

Hyper Creativity 600

Is there anything more obnoxious than the desire to create without the vision and talent to bring those creations to fruition? Like an itch forever out of range, it burns and gnaws in the most inconvenient of places, reminding you of your lack of reach. Well, that's how it used to be. Now you'll find that whenever you're in the mood to create, you've got the ability to scratch that itch. This doesn't guarantee you'll be cranking out masterpieces, whatever your skillset, it remains unaugmented by this ability, but this will ensure that you can use those skills in new, interesting, creative ways.

XMAS CAROLLER

Basic Singing 100

While carols aren't particularly challenging to sing, there is something to be said for what a talented individual can do with something simple. By selecting this option, your voice becomes clear and strong, your pitch perfect. In short, you will have the perfect voice for a cappella.

Engender Hospitality 300

Not everyone appreciates that arts, and having people come to your door unbidden can be a bit disturbing to some. For some reason, though, that never happens with you. There's just something about you that makes people want to welcome you. If you've got something to offer them, this effect will be increased substantially.

On the Fly Composition 600

Music is ephemeral; it is a strange, wonderful combination of math, emotion, precision and passion. While most musicians require hours of practice to learn a piece, you can create perfect, albeit simple, songs off the cuff. Drawing on the surroundings, the seasons, and the emotions of those around you, you will always be able to create new music, perfectly suited to the situation.

HALLMARK PROTAGONIST

Pithy Statements 100

It can be hard to find the right words to express complex feelings and emotions. But sometimes the simple and succinct can convey what a preponderance of prose cannot. You now have the ability to say in a few words what others cannot say with volumes, you can perfectly express your thoughts and emotions in a few short lines.

Aura of Comfy 300

Comfort calls to us all, not all the time and not in the same way, but all the same each person desires a measure of comfort. You may now, at your choosing, radiate a sense of comfort and succor. Your presence will inspire in others, and yourself if you wish, feelings of well-being. Just what each individual thinks of comfort you may never know, but if that individual is in the same room as you, they'll feel warm, safe, and at ease.

Emotional Manipulation 600

There are moments that tug at the heart-strings, events that compel individuals to experience a set point on the continuum of human emotion. A word at the right time can turn melancholy to cheer, and loneness to belonging. You know just what to say, and how to say it, to compel a person to feel a set emotion. A person so influenced by you will feel that emotion fully and completely. Try not to abuse this, eh?

MALL SANTA

Heart's Desire 100

Christmas is a special time of year. Yeah, yeah, Chanukkah and Kwanzaa too. Back off, I'm working here. Regardless, it's a special time of year filled with magic, hope, andconsumerism. The heart is a fickle thing, but even so you hear its individual beat and know what it yearns for. By talking to someone for a few moments, you can divine the true want and desire of their heart.

Crowd Navigation 300

Celebrations tend to bring people out of the woodwork, and no wonder. Who doesn't like lights, free music, and festive atmosphere? That isn't to say that push and press of humanity is without its drawbacks. Namely, you get enough people together in a group and there's plenty of pushing and pressing. Not only does that make moving through crowds difficult, it can also be a little. . . weird. Thankfully, you've figured out the trick of how to navigate a large crowd unmolested. Is it your demeanour or perhaps are you just that light on your feet? Who knows, but whatever it is it lets you move through a crowd with the ease of a fish moving through water.

Sainted Superposition 600

So many hearts, so many hopeful faces, and there's just not enough time for you visit all of them. Well, I can't help you with the time but how about space? You can now exist in limited superposition, your one body in multiple places simultaneously. This does require some preparation. The immediate area of all areas where you instantiate must be somewhat similar, not so much in terms of geography but in theme. Get someone to build an altar or something similar, doesn't have to be that expensive, and you're good to go. Oh, you won't be able to do much, talk, listen, and smile mostly, but you'll physically be there. As an added benefit I'll provide your cognitive and perceptual capacities a buff so you can handle all that information.

SPECIAL MODIFICATIONS

The Spirit of Christmas 500

Family, it's a pain. You've got your cousins who you kinda hear about throughout the year, but you don't care about them. Then there's your uncle, /that/ uncle. Yeah, he's still creepy after all these years. Anyway, family is messy and there's always a good bit of fighting, but at the end of the day family is family. So by invoking the spirit of the season, you can make family not only tolerable, but also enjoyable. Oh, and the Spirit of Christmas boosts your capstones in the following ways:

Hyper Creativity

The Spirit of Christmas now flows through your sense of and capacity for creativity, allowing you to reach out to other creative individuals and impart them with your own atemporal creation abilities.

On The Fly Composition

Beyond the ability to compose off the cuff, the Spirit of Christmas has endowed you with the ability mix your music on the fly as well. Want to insert some classic movie lines into your song? Done. Feel the need to compose something and have classic Disney princesses sing along with you? Done.

Emotional Manipulation

In addition to being able to effect the emotions and moods of others, you can now perfectly sense when someone is trying to do as much to you or someone else in your immediate vicinity. Never again will you be caught unawares when a 3rd party tries to influence your interactions with another.

Sainted Superposition

Not only do you have the ability to be in several places at once, in effect ignoring political borders, now you have the ability to reach across cultural borders as well. Your sainted abilities create a bridge allowing you to work with and understand people from all over the world. Well. . . maybe not Canadians. Seriously, never trust a leaf.

[What the Hell are Companions?]

Companions – you know, the folks who travel along with you so you don't need to be so lonely on your way through the ~~multiverse~~ festive season. Yes, if you happen to have friends, we can help you bring them in for the party.

Where are you waifus, pal? 50 CP

Yes this is the option where you can go and grab your fellow friends and bring them in for the same option of Christmas cheer. They'll get all of the options that you do, but of course, they won't get the same amount of budget to work with – too bad, so sad right? Still it's not about the budget, but rather the fact that they're here!

Import a companion for 50 CP; they gain 400 CP to spend on perks and items.
You may import in a batch of 8 for 300 CP, with the same benefits.

From a cyoa far away… 50 CP

Upon your travels you may find somebody from one of these realms that you would like to make a companion for your future adventures, well, if you can convince them to come along with you, why not go ahead and give it a whirl? Succeed in convincing them, and they'll come along, with some of the same benefits that a normal companion might gain.

So long as you can convince them to join you, you can find a companion from any of the locales in this land. While they gain 400 CP to spend on skills along with a free background, choices made to help them won't take effect until you can successfully convince them to join you. Their choice of background won't override their existing identity and only applies for perks.

[Items or Presents?]

It isn't so much a store as it is a giant pile of presents, but thankfully for you they all have price tags on them – evidently these presents aren't going to be for free. If you're so inclined though, you can trade some of those turkeys you have for these things.

A Keg of Eggnog 50 CP

It's a bloody keg of eggnog that refills when it runs out; I don't think you really need much more to go by beyond that, right? That being said, if you care enough, you can spike the keg with a little bit of alcohol, and the eggnog that comes out thereafter will be forever spiked.

…Wait that might not be a good thing.

You can – at will, replace this with either mead, cocoa, hot chocolate, coffee, blood or…wait, did I say blood. Well if your tastes lean that way I guess! But yes, you can replace the contents of the keg just by specifying it – just note that it's permanent, wouldn't want to risk contamination right. There's nothing stopping you from buying multiple kegs though.

THAT TRASH GIFT THAT NO ONE CARES ABOUT 50 CP

No one ever takes 50 CP options alright, that's the bottom line.

Alright I jest, but this present box doesn't really have anything notable inside. I mean sure it has a couple thousand bucks, but no one cares about that right? It's Xmas! Money isn't a problem during Xmas! Right?

On second thought, the small sum of cash within the present box can probably go towards making your Xmas party all that much better, so maybe this isn't too bad to consider.

Festive Pokeballs That Are Strictly Ornamental 50 CP

Well having pokeballs as toys isn't really anything out of the ordinary, and the red and white color scheme really does match the festivities – so maybe you can use these as decorations for your Xmas tree later on? No, before you ask, I was serious about the ornamental part, these things don't capture Pokemon. Besides where are you even going to find Pokemon out here?

They do work if you throw them, but instead of Pokemon coming out, an airdrop of presents, randomly selected from your nearest vendors, will be scattered all around where the balls land. Hopefully you're not near a home improvement store – some of those presents could make for dangerous falling objects.

A Really Great Potato Recipe 50 CP

It's a recipe for potato casserole. Frankly, this has a bit of history to it, carrying on the legacy of many chefs, content creators, and jumpers alike. Except well, at the end of the day, it's still just a potato casserole, and it's really only best if you eat it all by yourself. There are times when sharing is caring – this isn't one of them.

A Portrait of some Dragon in a Santa Costume 50 CP

Anybody can be a Santa right? Well, we have some folks called "jumpers" who seem to think so. We have portraits of them too – this one in particular, well you can see that it's a dragon who believes in the legend of Santa. At least he's out doing charity work instead of burning down a village.

Why are you even buying this portrait? It's not really worth anything, other than the fact that the dragon who had this painting commissioned took so many vanity options that even his painting is enough to put innocent bystanders in a trance by looking at it.

Well, as long as everyone gets a happy ending at the end of Xmas I guess…

Xmas Carollers from /jc/ 50 CP

A group of eldritch beings, a dragon, a giantess, and a good load of other bizarre entities who have all come together to wish you a merry Xmas and sing for you until you're satisfied…except given the wide variety of carollers here, it's very likely that there's going to be a bit of internal discord.

For one thing I'm not all too sure that they all speak the same language, and some of them seem to have had their voices modified so that their singing is enough to mentally affect people. Maybe if you had them sing for other people instead…

Alternatively, Xmas Carollers from /cyoag/ 50 CP

I figure that having familiar faces to sing you carols is probably better than folks that you've never seen before, so having this group of folks from your own locales is probably more reassuring. Just like the carollers from /jc/ each and every one of them will sing carols that they know in whatever language that they know…so they might not necessarily be the most harmonious group.

On the other hand though chances are they'll at least look a fair bit more normal than the carollers from /jc/.

The Tree that came from a Jumper's Garden 100 CP

Don't ask where we grabbed this Xmas tree, because trying to survive that Garden took out a couple of my colleagues and we barely got away from the dragon and the ants nesting underneath. Still, the tree is at least a good several hundred feet tall, probably reflecting the owner of the garden in any case.

Be wary though, that while it'll make for a great Xmas tree and a terrible pain to adorn with ornaments, the tree may or may not actually be alive. I think it was trying to speak to us as we dragged ourselves and it away from there with airships.

The Wand of Uplifting Xmas Turkeys 100 CP

Magic is a very common thing around here, and unfortunately lots of folks have a tendency for bringing things to life that they probably shouldn't. From living candy to living pies, sometimes it's enough to make you wonder if they have any regard for the sanctity of life at all. Well who cares it's Xmas! We might as well celebrate it by joining in the fun right?

Well this wand is unfortunately tuned to a very specific frequency – that is, it uplifts turkeys and basically does this en masse. Just assemble enough turkey and soon you'll have a veritable turkey army, ready to hand out presents to every child and waifu in the…uhh…well they'll go places, let's leave it at that. If you'd like however, we can attempt to retune the wand – so that it'll animate pigs instead of turkeys, I know some people are into that sort of thing.

The Troop of Bunnies with Shovels 100 CP

Chances are, depending on where you go, you might come across a very substantial amount of snow, and you know, nobody ever wants to deal with snow. Thankfully, these eager diggers are up for the task – provided that you're willing to give them a bit of "incentive" of course. I've heard that they can be highly motivated by the presence of…well…attractive individuals. Of course, this doesn't have to be you…a picture should suffice right? Reminds me I should probably sell a stack of waifu pictures along with this…

In any case, they'll devour anything at a voracious pace, be it snow, carrots, money, TV dramas, or heck, really anything in general. There's no clue where any of it actually goes though so…yeah you probably don't want to ask.

An Angel Locust Swarm Sleigh, Carrying a Sleeping Divel 100 CP

They're not reindeer, they're not actually locusts, they are quite literally a flock of angels, all dragging a sleigh behind them as they fly about. You don't need to worry too much, given that despite their appearance, they're perfectly content to just fly about the vast reaches of space – heck they're even capable of short term FTL transportation…even if you have no clue where you're going to end up. Heck maybe this is what Santa uses to get his deliveries done on time…

Don't worry about the Divel in the back. As long as you don't actually call him by name or mention anything related to Divel, he'll probably sleep through the rest of the holidays undisturbed. If the sleigh does get disturbed however, Divel-kun will probably wake up and beat the offenders senseless before going back to sleep, so just take it easy and enjoy the ride.

The Finest Xmas Dining Hotspot, formerly owned by some weird "V" Lady 100 CP

Is it normal to buy establishments up entirely? Well in many cases for the worlds we venture into, we make arrangements like that here and there. I've heard of folks who have accumulated quite a bit of real estate in their time across the multiverse. Nevertheless you're not here to listen to me talk, this is one of those establishments I was talking about. The former owner seemed to have left it behind for something a bit more extravagant.

This establishment specializes in preparing meat of all sorts. From top quality Wagyu Beef to esoteric Behemoth steaks to…well whatever meat you want to bring in. Be wary that the previous owner had a liking for eating things…"well prepared", so you might want to talk with the chefs beforehand so that they get to know your tastes and expectations.

A Zoo of Weird Xmas Creatures Bred by Jumpers 200 CP

If we're going to be getting some establishments though, there's no reason why you can't get something a little bigger than just a restaurant right? I mean, if it's going to be Xmas soon, why not take a visit down to our nearest ~~discarded animal sanctuary~~ petting zoo?

We have all sorts of wondrous creatures here adapted to the festive season. From spider dragons capable of hauling over 5t of Xmas presents, to shadow puppies that are bound to be the best gift for a child. (We advise you give them safety harnesses) Of course, this is a zoo, so naturally there are fences and such built in (to keep you safe from the wandering Tonberry Jedi Knight), but don't worry, you'll be able to see most of these creatures in their native environment, no problem.

Lunar ~~Calamity~~ Fireworks 200 CP

What's a festive season if you're not going to be launching some fireworks into the sky? Well…you know on second thought that does sound like a bit of a hassle. Maybe it would be better just to buy this and get it over with. It is, as you expected, a small moon that you can freely deploy. On the press of a button it explodes with a tremendous bang, and quicker than you can say "Moonshatter", there'll be fireworks everywhere across the night sky! Heck even if you do it in the daytime it'll still be visible enough to make out properly.

Uhh…it does take, some time for the Moon to come back together though, so unfortunately you're not going to be able to do this multiple times. Unless you want to buy multiple moons!

A Snowglobe Universe Made By Some Spiral Guy 300 CP

From time to time we get some very odd trinkets handed our way, and well, a portable mini universe just so happens to be one of them. You've heard stories of paintings sucking people in before, no? Well this is a bit similar to that – the world inside the snowglobe is even nice and festive, ensuring that you'll have a wonderful Xmas experience whether you're inside or out.

That being said, the snowglobe universe is a wonderful place if you're looking for eldritch calamities that have happily settled into a nice and bizarre lifestyle. For one thing, most of them seem to work at the local hot springs – yes, there is a fully function hot springs here.

If you're wondering how all of this works, I'd advise not to ever inquire into it, because like its creator, the explanation for the functions behind this intricate device is ridiculously convoluted and probably involves multiple universes tied together with string theory developed by the scientists at Atlantis after carefully consulting the various engineers of six Fate-verses over. In short – don't start and save yourself from the headache.

Worms in a Farm 300 CP

You might ask why a farm for worms happens to be one of the most expensive things on sale. But you need to understand, where we come from, worms are top quality, top tier ~~resources~~ assets, something that can provoke violent reactions from even the most stoic of Buddhas. If you're wondering though, these Worms aren't actually all that "worm-looking", frankly it is common opinion that they'll grow into the finest of waifus.

I'll freely admit that I'm not sure what a waifu is, but they're in pretty hot demand for this Xmas season.

[Can These Even Be Called Drawbacks?]

Look in the event that you somehow still don't have enough Christmas Points, I can help you out, if you're willing to let me toy around with your adventures a bit.

Bah Humbug +100 CP

Not everybody is in the festive mood you know, and frankly, this guy is a real bummer on the Xmas party. People don't seem to like being around him very much, but unfortunately he seems to have taken a real liking towards you – which won't really help you if you're looking to spend Xmas with a fair bunch of friends and other fair folks from across the realm. If only you had a way to seal his mouth permanently so he'd stop babbling…

Obfuscating Confusing Adventures +100 CP

It's only normal to be relatively confused at this point. Likely even more normal to be extremely confused. After all, this place isn't normal…I told you crossing the streams wouldn't be a good idea. Just like a certain individual's quiet adventures, you're not really all too sure what to expect here. Is there a deeper meaning behind Santa having draconic horns? Is there a reason why there's a reindeer called Sandra flying around?

Trust me, everything is going to be happening at a maddening pace, and getting a moment's rest is…well it's possible, but even if you're going to try and sleep it all away – this winter madness is likely to sweep you up anyways.

Excessive Waifu Syndrome +100 CP

It's the festive season, and of course we'd want to celebrate it with loved ones! Well, at least that was what they told me when they brought up the topic of waifus. Thing is, Xmas only comes one time a year and well…you've got a fair number of dates that are lined up – a lot of them with people that you've probably never even heard of.

How are you going to deal with this many stacked appointments? Heck that's your problem to figure out here, don't ask me!

Winter Writer's Block +200 CP

Look, sometimes we have moments when we can't make anything at all. Sometimes we have moments when making the effort to do anything at all is a bit too tedious to even consider. Winter is a season for relaxing, staying in-doors, and drinking eggnog right?

Of course that's right! In the worst case scenario you might find yourself willing to get out of harm's way, but for the most part this season, you'll be busy snuggling it up with your waifu and ignoring everything else that goes on in the world. Seriously, can this really be called a drawback? Well…maybe if you have more than one waifu…

What's a waifu by the way?

Cultural Differences +200 CP

It might be Xmas, but it doesn't mean people have to get along! Unfortunately this does seem to be the case wherever you go, considering people find it their obligation to stir up needless controversy and pointless drama despite the season. If you'd like, really, if you want, you can go about sorting them out one by one – but whether you succeed, or whether you even care to succeed in the first place, well that's up to you.

It does certainly spoil Christmas to have this many Grinches everywhere though.

In the Spirit of Xmas +200 CP

It's the spirit of Xmas! It also means that everybody will be dressing up as Santa, or Rudolph, or something festive. Recognizing them, well it'll be fairly difficult when everybody looks the same and acts the part. You should probably be particularly wary of the Grinches and the Misers who have decided to join in the festive mood, because they're pretty much everywhere, out to ruin the party.

Who the Hell is Jumpchan and Why is She Yandere for me? +300 CP

So, there's a matter of my employer. She goes by the moniker of Jumpchan.

Well, she's taken a liking to you, a very madly obsessive liking to you. Trust me, it's not exactly endearing. But the fact of the matter is that my boss here tends to obsess over people every now and then – and you're just so uhh…lucky.

If you were hoping for a calm and quiet Xmas, well I think you should really give up on that, because this Xmas she's hellbent on putting you through the ropes, and giving you a sense of what going on cosmic adventures is all about. You probably won't notice it at first, but sooner or later, odd things will start happening – like Pokemon showing up in your Xmas party of all things. With each year things will get more chaotic, as individuals from other locales start to pop up.

I'm not all too certain whether you want to survive through it all really, I mean the last time Jumpchan obsessed negatively over somebody like this…well, a lot of moons got blown up in the process. Things went south from there.

[In Conclusion]

We sincerely hope you have a Merry Xmas and enjoy your time doing whatever the hell it was that you're doing.

WAKING UP IN BED

Isn't this really the most cliché option that no one ever really takes? Well if you want, you'll wake up and it was all just an overnight dream.

ARE YOU A /CYOAG/ NATIVE?

Home sweet home is always the best isn't it?

OR ARE YOU A /JC/ NATIVE?

Hi if you're interested in jumping more there are actual universes that have jumps that are less crapshit than this rushed piece of work. But MERRY XMAS ALL THE SAME.

Notes

Merry Xmas cyoag