Shokugeki No Soma

Welcome, Jumper, to the world of Food Wars: Shokugeki no Soma! In this world there exists the fabled Tōtsuki Academy, a school designed to produce some of the greatest chefs in the world through a process of eliminating the weak and tossing the strong into matches against one another known as Shokugeki's. These matches test the skills of the chefs against one another while also doubling as the primary way that students participate in arguments and debate, with each chef able to challenge the other under specific terms up to and including their expulsion form the academy. Should both sides accept, they will be pitted against each other in a match of cooking, where their meals will be presented to 3 judges who will then determine the victor. Beyond this, the academy itself is also controlled by the Elite 10, a group of ten students who possess the greatest cooking abilities within the entire academy. You will begin at the start of the series, when the protagonist Yukihira Soma is sent to the academy by his father. It is here that he meets Nakira Erina, a haughty noble girl who is also the holder of God's Tongue, an ability that makes her the perfect taste tester, as well as the tenth seat of the Elite 10, as well as his future friends at Polar Star Academy such as Tadokoro Megumi. It is also here that he will learn that the pride in his cooking skills is misplaced, as he is thrown into a world of cooking that even he cannot compete with. You will begin the jump on the day of admissions directly after you have passed the entrance exam, and will start the academy at the age of 15. To help you compete with the talent of this world, here is 1000 choice points to help you.

Origins:

Drop In

You have stepped foot into the world of high class cooking, a world filled with delicious morsels and dishes of every variety. Each and every bit of food here has been painstakingly studied, created, recreated, and improved, all using a set process and all for the purpose of creating the best dishes in the world. You however, like Yukihira Soma, are an unknown factor, transferring into the academy as a first-year student after passing your cooking exam.

Elite Gourmet

In the world of gourmet cooking, there is an order to things. A line, separating the extravagant and refined from the puerile mish-mash of the masses, has been set, and you come from the former. Drilled into you from childhood, you have learned that true food is borne from order, precision, class, and a finely tuned taste for the exquisite only available to the elites of society. You have been within Tōtsuki walls since middle school and have learned the skills necessary to begin your venture towards the epitome of haute cooking.

Family Restaurant

The quality of food is barely the beginning of cooking. When people are hungry, they expect food to be abundant and they expect to have it now. A family restaurant is the perfect breeding ground for a chef that can do this, requiring its members to cook as much food as possible as quickly as possible. You, who have been born in the midst of the kitchen, exemplify these skills, working together with those around you to provide quality food in desirable quantities. However, here at Tōtsuki your position is often looked down upon, even during middle school, which has created an urge to prove yourself amongst your peers.

Hard Life Chef

The life of a chef is fraught with difficulty and harsh critics, no more so than at Tōtsuki Academy where even a single failed dish could mean expulsion. But you have lived through an even harsher life, one filled with criticism of your entire self and your meaning. Beaten and ignored, and finally given a chance to excel at something, you pour all of yourself into your cooking, intent on perfecting yourself alongside your skill. Finally, having been brought to Tōtsuki Academy, you hope to discover all there is to your own cooking, as well as yourself.

Perks:

100cp perks are free to all with further purchases discounted to their origin, other perks are 50% off for their origin

General

Visualization - Free: In this world cooking has reach a new level. A level where the food itself brings about a sensation similar to a visualization of the food, its ingredients, and even the chef's intention when making said food. A simple spring roll might bring about the visage of spring itself, a hamburger might bring about the sensation of riding a bull. All this and more are possible, with exceptional chefs being able to define the images and sensations experience by their customers. The power of these images also increases with the pleasure of eating your food, and food that is of high enough level will even give them (figurative) orgasms that seem to encompass their entire body with your cooking. Also comes with cooking skills necessary to attend Tōtsuki Academy High School.

Culinary Brainwashing 300cp: While Tōtsuki Academy is known for bringing individual style to the surface in its student's cooking, pushing them through harsh exams, events, and Shokugeki's to improve upon themselves time and time again, there exists another method of teaching. This method, used by Nakiri Azami, involves beating into the minds of chefs the proper techniques to accomplish a very specific style of cooking. His style. While this method extinguishes creativity on the part of the learner, it is the superior method in raising their skills in the kitchen. There's just one major downside. The meals they make are indubitably filled with the essence of the original chef. Having this ability allows you to impart your culinary knowledge and skills to others quite easily, allowing them to learn your recipes and quickly rise to your level far faster than would be possible otherwise. However, the this comes at the cost of their individual uniqueness, with your students unable to surpass you with the taught methods alone and their meals and dishes shall always taste as if they had been created from you alone.

Drop In

Regional Specialty 100cp: Cooking across the globe has been sectioned off by region, with each culture partaking in its own style of food. The French, the Chinese, the Italians, and far more all have their own food, each made in their own way, each bringing to the surface a different quality or flavor. You, too, have your own style inherited from a region of the world. Choose a single region of the world, and the skill to make that regions food will be yours. You will know how to create a variety of their foods and will find your skill in that area seems to grow faster than others, truly making it into your specialty. May be purchased more than once.

Impactful Taste 200cp: A meal without taste can barely be called a meal at all. The priority of a chef is to create food that is, in essence, palatable, with more overwhelmingly delicious food often considered the best. With your cooking, this essence of intense taste can be felt from the first bite. You understand the impact of taste, and within each of the dishes you make you can force the taste to the surface. This doesn't necessarily mean that your food is heavy or overwhelming, but rather that it has a sort of pleasant impact that signifies just how tasty and flavorful it really is.

Shokugeki Learner 400cp: The basis for Tōtsuki Academy is none other than the infamous Shokugeki. The term is derived from the Japanese kanji 食, meaning food, and 戟, meaning Ji, which is a specific Chinese polearm. The two combined, in essence, mean Food Wars, a staple event of the academy necessary to further one's skills and to join the Elite 10. While the event is often prefaced with difficulties between the participants, each intent on settling a score, for you it is something greater. Your ability to learn through these battles is tremendous, allowing you to learn from your opponent and expand your own skills far faster than you would be able to on your own just by cooking against them.

The Young Asura 600cp: Yukihira Soma's father, Saiba Jōichirō, was nicknamed the Demon due to his skill in cooking, as well as his unusual penchant for creating new and untested dishes during Shokugeki's. His son has followed closely in his footsteps, and many of Jōichirō's former friends and acquaintances could see the resemblance in features and personality, not to mention skill in the kitchen and his unfathomable perseverance and hard work towards bettering himself. With this, you too shall be seen as a Young Asura on par with Yukihira Soma, though if you lag behind in effort you will never match him. Your skill in cooking is bolstered to a tremendous degree, allowing you to create dish after dish of near indescribably tasty morsels. More than that, however, is that your cooking will forever continue to evolve through your experiences, becoming newer and better as you experience new food and adventures. Truly, one day you may earn the full title of Asura.

Elite Gourmet

Tools Make the Chef 100cp: A chef is nothing without his tools. Rather, a tool is nothing without a skilled chef to wield it. In the world of high-end cooking there exists innumerable ways to prepare and create food, ranging from smoking food to bring out its flavor, using a convection oven properly to bring out its juiciness, or even using a fire to bring about a nice, crunchy surface to the food. Even outside of heating there exists a multitude of methods, such as using a centrifuge to separate the glutamate from a tomato or using a mezzaluna to chop vegetables. There is a variety of tools to be used by a chef, and each one must specialize. Choose any tool to specialize in, whether it be a type of knife or type of freezer or oven does not matter as long as it is beyond the norm. You will be especially skilled in the use of said tool and will, in time, become a master of its use to such a degree as to be mind boggling. May be purchased more than once.

Picky Eater 200cp: While a decent meal can be made from subpar ingredients, and in some cases they may be required, it is generally optimal to use the freshest ingredients available. After all, the crispy crunch of fresh lettuce combined with the juicy, umami taste of a tomato is splendid. But in order to create optimal meals with optimal ingredients requires a vast degree of knowledge of said ingredients. Knowledge you happen to have. You know of nearly every variety of vegetable, fruit, or root available, when they are fresh, where to get them, and even the proper way to prepare them and a nigh-perfect sense for which ingredients go well with each other.

Gastronomy 400cp: At Tōtsuki Academy during the middle school years the students are taught the very beginnings of gastronomy, a topic so vast it would be ill spoken to give only a single definition. However, to put it simply gastronomy is the study of food and its interactions with the world, on both a cultural and scientific level. Where the food comes from, how it gets its taste, what effects it has on the body, and so many more complicated topics are contained underneath this singe word. For you, your education of the gastronomical from Tōtsuki Academy has given you a great deal of knowledge about all of the listed traits. More than that, you have also learned the art of medicinal food to an extent, allowing you to create dishes that ease the stomach and rejuvenate the energy of the body, making even the deathly ill or the elderly feel young and healthy. There are even rumors that such techniques, when mastered, can truly heal the body as well, but whether this is truth or mere superstition is for you to find out.

God's Tongue 600cp: Nakiri Erina, possessor of the famous God's Tongue, said to have come from God himself. With it, she was capable of discerning not only every ingredient within a dish, but also how fresh they were, the method used to cook it, for how long, and more. The side effect of this, however, was that she not only had zero preferences for the type of food, but also that her standard for food began at a level unreachable for the average chef and, in fact, most skilled chefs as well. You, too, have been born with God's Tongue, allowing you to discern nearly everything there is that composes a meal. What's more, you will always know how to improve upon the dish in some way, to make it greater than it was before. Should this be combined with sufficient knowledge of cooking methods and ingredients, you would truly have the perfect method of improvement. After all, only the finest of meals will satisfy.

Family Restaurant

Kitchen Basics 100cp: A chef needs experience in the kitchen. However, it isn't as simple as that. A chef at your average diner, even if he had the basic cooking skills, wouldn't be able to work at a high-class French restaurant and vice versa. The same is also true for chefs that cook at a hibachi not being able to translate their skills to other locations, as each one has its own set of skills necessary to succeed. In a diner speed is key, while in a French restaurant skill is king, and a hibachi chef needs to remain entertaining. Choose any type of restaurant. You have the necessary skills to work efficiently at said restaurant without issue, and can more easily train yourself to cook in a manner similar to what you have picked. May be purchased more than once.

Chopping Speed 200cp: Working at a restaurant requires the ability to prepare ingredients for cooking quickly and precisely. The vegetables need to cut and chopped in a certain manner, and within a certain time, so as to be ready for the grill, oven, or whatever else. Thankfully, your years of experience have given you the speed and skill necessary to prepare your ingredients incredibly quickly and precisely, allowing you to chop up onions, peel carrots or potatoes, shred cheese, or anything else that needs to be done in preparation.

Perfect Trace 400cp: Psychological warfare has made its way to the table with Mimasaka Subaru's ability. By sufficiently analyzing his opponents, Mimasaka was capable of entering a state of mind where he "became" his opponent, allowing him to predict what they were going to cook during a Shokugeki and even create the same dish as them in the same exact way. He beat them, however, by taking the duplicated dish and improving upon it in some way, bringing out more of the dish's strengths while extinguishing its weaknesses. You, too, now have this ability, allowing you, after studying your opponent and learning enough about them, to enter a state where you "become" them, giving you access to their knowledge and allowing you to predict their next move. Whether you capitalize on improving their meal or not, or whether you can improve it enough, is up to you.

Style Fusion 600cp: Takumi Aldini, as well as his brother Isami, were an Italian and Japanese mix, and on several occasions used their Italian and Japanese ethnic and cooking roots to create a fusion between the two. During the Autumn Election they both made use of this ability to create different fusion dishes, a curry bread calzone that fused together the idea of curry and that of a calzone, as well as a napolitan curry fettucine, a dish that fused the ideas of napolitan and fettucine pasta together with curry. Each instance was a near perfect example of crossing different cultural foods, a skill you have also acquired. Whatever your chosen regional specialty, you have the ability to fuse it with a different cultural base, such as French and Chinses or Russian and Latin American, all without losing that special bit that makes each variant unique from one another. With this, the dishes you make will show true skill and understanding of your cooking heritage as well as your own versatility as a cook.

Hard Life Chef

I'll Order a Pizza 100cp: Food comes in many varieties. There are soups and noodles, steaks and burgers, cake and fish, the list goes on. But usually a chef has a best dish that they can make. Maybe they can bring out the tenderness and umami of a steak, or make a cake that is soft and sweet with a spongy in texture. Regardless, it is what they excel at, more than any other kind of food. Choose a type of food as your specialty. Your skill with the chosen specialty is a cut above the rest of your skills, being more easily made, improvised, improved, and what have you. In time, expect to be known as a master of your specialty, and possibly even a moniker such as Master of Noodles.

Choice Cuts 200cp: Slicing and dicing apart meat is customary for a great deal of dishes in order to make easily handled and cooked bite-sized pieces. This is especially done for things like fish, which can tend to have a great number of tiny bones that can create choking hazards when consumed. As such, the ability to cut the meat from the source with speed and proficiency is a highly desired trait, one that has manifested within you. You are able to cut meat and select the best parts of it for a specific dish in an incredibly short time, with enough skill to butcher animals such as the goosefish near flawlessly, a fish known for its difficulty during butchering due to the requirement that it must be hanging.

Images of Jumper 400cp: The food of a chef, especially at Tōtsuki, must be unique. More than that, however, it must have a taste that is uniquely "you". When eaten, those eating it must be able to envision the chef in question, as if the food itself was made from their own essence and qualities as a chef. While many have difficulty achieving this, there are some who have little difficulty at all, such Hayama Akira, who was able to put as much of himself into his meals as he could due to his past history and how much cooking meant to him as a person. You, like him, are able to put yourself into your cooking, making it uniquely you and identifiable to all who eat it. More than that, you are able to innovate with your meals in such a way that they can only be described as novel, and are overwhelmingly only meals that you alone could make.

Godly Fragrance 600cp: Taste is not the end all, be all of food. In fact, one of the most important aspects of food is also its smell and fragrance, as the concept of flavor is a combination between the two. Although many are unaware of this simple fact, people like Hayama utilize this concept to the extreme, making it as much a part of their cooking as the taste and texture. While seemingly unique in this manner, Hayama is now rivaled by another. You. Like him, you have not only a godlike nose capable of picking out the best fish from a fish market but also the ability to bring out the fragrance of your dishes, making them so fragrant as to set an entire crowd's mouths watering with desire. This fragrance, while nice, will have the added effect of enhancing the flavor of your cooking, accentuating whatever taste it has and skyrocketing it to a new level of deliciousness.

Items:

100cp items are free to their origin, all others are 50% of to their origin

Drop In

Headband 100cp: While most high class chefs don't use something as simple as this, some skilled students such as Yukihira Soma and Kurokiba Ryo wear a headband or bandana when cooking, and in Kurokiba Ryo's case the simple act of placing it upon his head is enough to drastically alter his personality, changing him from his soft-spoken and gloomy norm to a much more aggressive and boisterous mood. While this change in personality won't occur with you, by wearing your signature head piece, which may take the form of a hat, headband, bandana, or other accessory, you will gain a slight boost not only to cooking ability, but also to your passion for cooking.

Shokugeki Schedule 200cp: The Shokugeki is a match between chefs that upholds their ideals through the strength of their cooking. And they happen with a great deal of regularity here at Tōtsuki. As such, a schedule has been created to keep track of all future Shokugeki to occur at the academy, however due to the spontaneity of their creation it can only list those scheduled throughout the current week, although it will also list the participants, the time of the event as well as the location. You are in possession of this schedule, which will update weekly, and should you get in contact with the participants in time you may join the Shokugeki, making it into a three-way battle. Post jump this will merely list cooking competitions that you may enter.

Shokugeki Ticket 400cp: The basic tenants of the Shokugeki is that it is used to settle an argument between chefs, must be validated by someone who holds authority at the academy such as a staff member, and both participants must agree to the match. With this ticket you may now ignore the final requirement, allowing you to force anyone you present the ticket to into a Shokugeki match and allowing you to name any condition should you win the match, with the exception of having them do anything that would lead to them leaving the academy. The drawback, however, is that they can still request for your expulsion if they wish, and that this ticket may only be used once per month. Use it wisely. Post jump this will allow you to challenge people to a cooking match once per month with the same restrictions as above.

Elite Gourmet

Chef's Uniform 100cp: The outfit of a chef, a white double-breasted jacket and white pants. The material is thick, protecting the chef from the heat of stoves and splattering oil from the frying pan. This one in particular is fitted perfectly to your body, allowing a free range of motion and offering considerable comfort while performing its intended purpose. Immune to stains, it is the perfect outfit for the kitchen. If you would like it to, you may also have an outfit like Yukihira Soma's or something completely different, so long as it is designed to be used in the kitchen.

Endless Vegetables 200cp: Vegetables. Roots. Fruits. Nuts. This and more is available at your beck and call, as within your grasp is a list of contacts that will deliver the freshest and best of all of the above and more, right to your location a mere day after ordering and free of charge. Post jump this will manifest as a door in the warehouse leading to a market of sorts that provides everything in the highest quality and still free of charge.

High Tech Cooking 400cp: In your kitchen exists the highest tech cooking technology available in the world, ranging from a convection oven allowing you to fully control the heat, humidity, and timing to a centrifuge that can separate pieces of fruit into its various ingredients. You have a full suite of high end equipment for nearly any need and if anything is ever broken it will be replaced within a day.

Family Restaurant

Sharpest Tools in the Shed 100cp: A knife so sharp it cuts through potatoes as if it were warm butter. Well, it doesn't have to be a knife. Choose any handheld utensil used in modern day cooking. You have an indestructible version of said utensil of the highest quality that just seems to work better than others of its kind.

Confectionary Wonders 200cp: Who needs vegetables when you've got pounds of frosting just waiting to be slathered over a cake? Or pints of ice cream ready to be turned into a milkshake or other dish? And don't forget the candy. During this jump you will have contacts that will provide for you, free of charge and delivered within a day, nearly any form of what could be considered a sweet food or confectionary, as well as the ingredients to make them, such as candy, cupcakes, ice cream, frosting, and more. Post jump this will manifest as a room in your warehouse that has all of the items ready for your use and of perfect quality. If purchase with Endless Vegetables the rooms will be combined.

Jumper's Restaurant 400cp: This is it. The thing every chef strives for. Name pending, you have your very own restaurant that will follow you between worlds, inserting itself into each setting as a setting appropriate variation. It is always stocked with local recipes and will have customers nearly every day, regardless of location. For the duration of the jump this will be run by family/friends until you reach adulthood.

Hard Life Chef

Season of Seasoning 100cp: In your warehouse is a cabinet filled to the brim with spices and other types of seasoning, each one of the highest quality. When opened, it seems to show the best spices for whatever dish it is you have in mind, and when reopened seems to create even more if you had taken some out.

The Choicest Cuts 200cp: You're a meat eater, a predator. The savory finish to every bite is a powerful craving, one that this option helps quench. During this jump you will have contacts that will provide the highest quality meat of any kind to you in nearly any situation, with the meat taking only a day after being ordered to arrive, free of charge of course, to your location. Post jump this will manifest as a door in your warehouse leading to a butcher shop that will have any and every type of meat available, of all qualities and always as fresh as you need it to be. Will share a room with Endless Vegetables or Confectionary Wonders if also purchased.

Polar Star Dorm 400cp: At Tōtsuki Academy there is only a single dormitory, the one known as Polar Star. At one point in the past it had been lived in by some of the greatest chefs at the academy, a time known as the golden age of Polar Star Dorm. Now, in its present state, it is lived in by Yukihira Soma and his friends. Despite the name, I will not be giving you the dorm until post jump, although you will be free to stay there if you wish. Post jump the dorm itself, although none of the people, will follow you from world to world, inserting itself in a relatively remote location. It has many rooms, a large kitchen, and comes with well-maintained gardens, although you'll need to pick up the work if you wish to see it thrive.

Companions:

Import 50cp/300cp: What is cooking without friends and competition? For 50cp you may import a single companion into any origin, granting them that origins free perks and items as well as 800cp to spend on perks and items. For 300cp, you may instead import 8 companions under the same conditions.

Canon Companion 50cp: Want to drag someone along? You may instead take a character from the series along with you on your journeys for 50cp. They will also gain 800cp as imported companions do, however they may not receive any discounts or free items/perks.

Drawbacks:

No limits of drawbacks, take as many as you like

Not Enough Spices +100cp: Anyone who tastes your food will always have incredibly harsh criticism about its taste, texture, appearance, and more, regardless of how good it is, though they will still vote for it during Shokugeki's as normal. This criticism will never be helpful or positive, and it will hurt you emotionally a small bit each time.

Rising to Perfection +100cp: You will be obsessed with attaining a spot in the Elite 10 of Tōtsuki, specifically the first spot. You will constantly badger its members for Shokugeki's, even when you know you aren't capable of winning, and each loss will hurt you emotionally a great deal. If you do reach the top spot, you'll be challenged to a Shokugeki for the position daily and you'll accept a challenge every time, even if it hurts your schedule.

Uninspired Chef +100cp: For the duration of your stay in this world you will lack any and all passion that would normally go into cooking, treating it as merely a chore and not the adventure that it is. This will, in turn, effect your dishes as well, as they will often lack originality regardless of their taste.

Entrance Exam +200cp: Normally you would start after the entrance exam to Tōtsuki Academy and begin as a high school student. Things have changed. You must now test your skills during an entrance exam making a meal for the esteemed Nakiri Erina, the holder of God's Tongue. She doesn't have to like it, it just needs to be acceptable. Of course, her standards for acceptable are higher than most. If you fail you will be forbidden from entering Tōtsuki Academy at all, even as a guest.

Meat is King +200cp: You've become obsessed with a specific ingredient, such as bear meat or tomatoes, which you will now always attempt to incorporate into your meals, even when it doesn't make sense or will obviously worsen the dish. While skill may save you from one or two bad dishes, expect your odd choice of ingredient to negatively affect your dishes more often than not.

Battle for Your Home +400cp: Every month you will be challenged to a Shokugeki with your attendance at Tōtsuki on the line. You must accept each time, and for each one you beat the next one will be significantly better. In order to remain at this academy you must improve yourself continuously, but in your case you must also do it quickly, or else the new chefs will quickly outpace you. You also receive nothing for winning these Shokugekis.

I Taste Nothing +400cp: Your time as a chef is over. Any food you cook will be absolutely flavorless and have a bad texture, regardless of appearance. Expect to flunk out almost immediately.

The Ultimate Shokugeki +600cp: At the end of your 10 years you will face Saiba Jōichirō to a Shokugeki. This isn't the normal Saiba Jōichirō, however, as he has since completely mastered the art of cooking, having incorporated nearly every regional cooking style, food type, tools, and more into his repertoire, and he will present to the judge his greatest dish, the greatest dish ever made. In order to win, you will need to do the same as he and incorporate nearly every human cooking skill into a single dish, and then make it better than before. Should you fail at this final test your chain is over, and you're going home.

The End

It is the end of your cooking journey, at least in this world. Now, shall you go home and share your newfound cooking abilities with the world you left oh so long ago? Or shall you travel onwards to new horizons, intent on furthering your craft in a way that mere mortals cannot accomplish? Or perhaps I was wrong, and you will stay in this world, spending your days competing against the best chefs it has to offer?
