Forrest Gump

V 1.0 By Apocbox

Little Forrest Gump is... different. He's got an IQ of 75, and though his legs are strong, his back is extremely crooked, requiring him to get some leg braces. He, however, is cared for by his mother and will soon meet his first friend and later the love of his life Jenny. If things were to go as they are destined to be, he would become a star football player, a hero of the Vietnam War with a Congressional Medal of Honor, a national celebrity through his ping-pong skills, an owner of a large shrimping business, and later a man who just keeps on running across America, while Jenny continues to make a bad move after bad move due to her childhood trauma.

Take this 1000 points to spend. You enter this world the day Forrest gets his “first shoes," and can stay here for anywhere from 10 to 32 years.

ORIGINS

Choose your age and sex for free, any origin can be taken as a drop-in.

Runner

You live your life to the fullest, never running away from anything. And if you do decide to go on a little stroll? It was for no particular reason. Because why should there be one?

Runaway

Made it was something that happened to you as a child, or it's just how you are wired, but you are unable to sit in one place, always being on the move. Whether it's because you are trying to run away from your past or for some other reason, settling down feels pretty unrealistic.

Home Stayer

Whether you have already figured life out and decided to settle down or have had something happen to you and are now stuck, mentally, physically, or both, in one place, but you do not feel like going out into the wide world.

Perks

Perks are Discounted to their respective origins, perks worth 100 are free and the rest is 50% off. Free Perks are optional.

Runner

My Name Is Forrest, Forrest Gump - 100

First impressions and introductions are important. And sometimes just saying your name and being polite is all you need to make a friend for life. You have both talent for good first impressions as well as running into people who you just click with. Keeping all sorts of positive relationships is also far easier than before.

If I Was Going Somewhere, I Was Running! - 200

Miracles happen every day. Some people don't think so, but they do. How else can they explain your legs? It's not just that you can run fast, but you just don't stop. You are one of the fastest people on earth, and your stamina allows you to go on and on with barely any rest, to the point that you could run across America for more than two years and just feel somewhat tired after that.

What I Was Doing Seemed To Make Sense To People - 400

It's not that you are doing something special or saying something profound, but you do manage to make long-lasting positive impacts on people's lives. Whether it's just saying something that gives them an idea for a business opportunity or sharing some life experience to brighten their mood or just doing something simple that others find deep meaning and purpose in, you could easily make other people's lives better by simply being who you are and doing whatever you want to.

There's Only So Much Fortune A Man Really Needs - 600

If God exists and has a plan for everyone, then the one he got for you is something else. Your luck is ridiculous, from stumbling into important historical events on accident to surviving in highly dangerous situations while saving your brothers in arms to finding great opportunities to make large sums of money, fortune just keeps going your way. And the better, more wholesome, and just plain nice person you are, the luckier you get.

Runaway

She Was Like An Angel - 100

Well, they say that beauty is in the eye of the beholder, but it seems everyone can agree that you are quite a beauty. You are plain gorgeous and are capable of keeping your beauty even through the toughest moments of your life, remaining good-looking even after severe drug abuse or some other event that should have tarnished your looks.

I Think You Should Go Home To Greenbow. Alabama! - 200

Not only are people around you far less likely to treat you poorly, but even if they do, either your friend or some strangers are far more likely to be around to interfere and save you. Not only that but those that have done you harm feel bad about doing so. They can still get over those feelings and do something bad to you again, but that is unlikely.

And This Bird You Cannot Change - 400

Sometimes we do things. Bad things. The ones that will leave far-lasting impacts on us and that we will regret later in life. Whenever you are about to do such an action, you will have a bad feeling about it, and the worse the consequences of it would have been for you, the worse the feeling you would get.

I Was Messed Up For A Long Time - 600

It's just not fair. Why does a bad thing that happened to you in your childhood must loom over you for the rest of your life, defining your whole nature and decision-making process? You are not only immune to any and all trauma and mental disabilities of any sort but also find that as long as you desire to change to be a different person, you always have enough willpower to do so, and opportunities for a better life are far more likely to show up in such a case.

Home Stayer

There'll Be Another One Along Shortly - 100
Listening to someone tell their story isn't such a hard thing, yet many still fail to do so. Not only are you a great listener, being able to empathize with other people far easier, but you are also a great judge of character, always being able to tell if someone is telling the truth, or at the very least what they believe to be the truth.

Momma Always Had A Way Of Explaining Things - 200
Even though we are all equal, some of us are still a little different and require a somewhat altered approach. You are not only a great parent, always knowing what your children want, need, and troubles that they have, but you are also a master of conveying information, being able to explain and get across even the most complex ideas to even severely mentally challenged people.

You’re Still Lieutenant Dan Tyler - 400
Being a soldier is in your blood. It's your nature. You are in top-tier physical condition, one of the best shots in the world, and know a whole lot about strategy, tactics, and logistics. What's best is that you have good luck to stumble upon great comrades; whether it's through higher-ups sending you just the right people or you stumbling on someone who will make a good addition to your people, you are always surrounded by capable and loyal people.

We Sure Got You Straightened Out, Didn't We, Boy? - 600
To call you a miracle worker isn't really an understatement; it very much might be the truth. Not only are you an amazing doctor in general, always having up-to-date information from all the different medical fields in the world you are currently in, but you are also able to cure even what most other doctors would consider uncurable conditions through rather primitive means.

One Less Thing - 600

Well, I'll be damned! You've definitely got more money than the Davy Crockett.

Runaway

I Wish I Could Have Been There With You - 600

Mistake after mistake after mistake. You can try to do better, to change. to start over, but your past and your actions will still haunt you. Thankfully, you truly do have an opportunity for a better life. Once per jump, you can start everything over, rolling the time back to the point of entry while regaining all of your memories yet losing any sort of mental baggage, disorders, and traumas that you might have accumulated. Do better this time around, okay?

This is a rather large and nice house. It always has electricity, gas, heat, and water; never needs any sort of maintenance; and is extremely comfy. Oh, I'm Dizzy + 100

Not only do you have zero experience with sex, forgetting any such memories you have, but you are also extremely awkward with it and, in general, act as a virgin when it comes to it. Be careful on your first time; it will be over really quick.

One Day It Started Raining, And It Didn't Quit For Four Months + 100

Sometimes it feels like God is just pissing on you. Like, seriously, the amount of time you find yourself soaking in the rain is quite frankly absurd. You could be camping in the dessert and still get showered.

Coons Are Tryin' To Get Into School + 100

Your Boy's... Different + 200

You'll get some PTSD and possibly become physically disabled, with nothing being able to fix that, and your country will not give a shit about you.

For No Particular Reason, Somebody Shot That Nice Young President + 300

Did you do something to piss off the wrong people? Because every month there's an attempt at your life, with you nor anyone else being able to find the perpetrators nor anyone from the police, army, or government caring all that much about them. Even if they really should.

He Was A Very Lovin' Man + 300

Maybe it's already happened, or it will happen soon after you enter the jump, but something horrible went on in your life.
