Ore no Imouto ga Konnani Kawaii Wake ga Nai!

By Valeria

Introduction

Oreimo! A normal world, with normal people and normal things. Quite a change from the usual fare isn't it? In nearly every way, this world is identical to the one in which you originally came from. Indeed, the only differences that may be found are a small set of characters in the city of Tokyo, Japan.

The light novel/anime series commonly known as Oreimo focuses on the life of the Kousaka family, specifically the brother and sister pair of Kyousuke and Kirino, estranged siblings. One day, Kyousuke finds out that his younger sister is a rabid otaku, propelling him into the world of anime in order to help out his sister and maybe repair their broken friendship from years past.

Take a load off here. A 1000 Choice Points (CP) are yours to help give you some things to make your life easier. You'll be here for the next ten years, so make sure to not stress yourself out too much.

Locations

There's only one place to be here player and that's Tokyo, the capital city of Japan. This is where all the stories of this world that are important take place, though those stories aren't really that important to the world. You can choose to start anywhere within the city of Tokyo. If you happen to be a high schooler, you'll be going to the same school as one Kousaka Kyousuke and if you're a middle schooler, you'll be in the same class as Kousaka Kirino.

Origins

The Average Guy
Graduate with passing grades, go to an alright university, get a steady and safe job, meet a woman and have 2.5 kids. The most basic life, the average path, that's where it's at. You're currently a high schooler with the ambition to be unambitious, perhaps because of a nasty incident in your past. You've got a few normal friends, have a normal part time job, a normal family…except for one person. A little sibling, a couple years below you, who seems to make it their job in life to excel at everything they do and constantly show you up. It might be bearable if they didn't constantly shove their achievements in your face. Why do they want your attention so badly when they're so rude to you?

The Model Woman
The world's not been laid out on a silver platter for you. You never had a special talent for anything growing up yet you never let that stop you from grabbing life by the balls and beating it until you got what you wanted. Hard work and perseverance has seen you become a star student at your middle school, a star athlete, an up and coming star at in your career industry and just an all-around starry person. It's like no one can bring themselves to dislike you…except for one person. Your big sibling who used to be your best friend started to become distant to you years ago and now they barely acknowledge your existence. Nothing you do seems to get that blockhead's eye, perhaps the only way would be to do something really crazy.

Otaku
It certainly isn't a hobby that gets you much respect, quite the opposite, but you know you'd never be able to give it up for anything. Anime is your passion, manga is your life. You can restrain yourself from showing it in public if you fear being ostracised for it at school but once you get some free time, it's too hard to resist spending all night playing games or taking a train over to Akihabara for the day. A while ago, you met a group of likeminded otaku and you all ended up forming a Circle to get together, have fun and maybe even create some new content of your own.

Actual Adult
Unlike those above, you're not going to school. With a full time career on your hands, you wouldn't have time for it anyway. You're a fully matured, serious adult and have been for quite some time. The fashions and trends of today's youth are a bit beyond you, especially with how creepy some of those Otaku seem. You focus a lot on your work, which could range from being an ordinary office drone to the life of a police officer, but you do have something of a family. Your wife passed away some time ago but she left you with two children, both of whom manage to inspire endless pride and frustration in you with each day.

You may choose to be a Drop In for any of these origins, retaining all discounts but removing your history here.

Your gender is whatever it was previously or it may be changed to anything you want for 50CP. Your age depends on your origin. The Average Guy origin rolls 15+1d3 to decide his age. The Model Woman rolls 12+1d3. The Otaku rolls 12+1d8. The Grown Up rolls 20+2d10. Any of these rolls may be changed to any rollable result for 50cp.

Perks

100cp perks are free for their respective origin and all other origin respective perks are discounted for that origin.

The Average Guy

Overly Desperate for Praise- 100

Doing good deeds for other people can often be its own reward, even if the person doesn't thank you, the knowledge that you helped them can be satisfying on its own. Still, it's not nearly as good as actually being thanked. At least when it comes to you, others will never take you for granted anymore. They'll always show their appreciation for nice things you do for them, even when expected of you, and you'll find that genuinely helping someone out will always make them friendlier towards you. You've even learnt how to keep yourself aware, through any sort of biases, of when other people do good things for you.

You Lovey Dovey Freaks- 200

Not everyone is lucky enough to meet their soul mate or have a happy family. Years of bitter envy at the sight of other happy couples have resulted in the discovery of ways to almost guarantee the destruction of those sort of loving bonds. You know just how to whisper into the ears of the unaware to put them on edge against their loved ones, how to set up accidents that cause arguments and fights between best friends and how to create a chain of events that will lead to all but the most intimate and trusting of lovers to come to hate each with a vile passion.

You're Some Kind of Scum- 400

True love conquers all, even the legal system falls before its might! Maybe. Really, it's not true love that has the effect here, you just seem to glide by little laws and social taboos that hold others back. People just accept it as something you and those around you are going to do and don't think too much on it. Walking to the second floor of a store to buy some eroge despite being obviously under aged, getting away with public drunkenness and indecency without even a slap on the wrist. Why, you could even get together with your own sister and not see a single disapproving frown. You pervert.

Wasted on Someone like you- 600

That average nature of yours hides some pretty surprising qualities. Turns out those career advisors really were right, you're squandering some incredible talents with this average ambition of yours. You've got at least some natural talent in just about anything you can think of, from sewing to cooking to sports to brawling. You'll have the basics of most things down in a flash and find yourself able to become competent with little instruction or effort. If you want to get any better, you'll need to learn to put in the same amount of effort or else be left behind by those willing to do the hard work.

The Model Woman

Good Girls Can Be a little Bad- 100

People are all too quick to judge a book by its cover and you know you can take advantage of that tendency. When people look at a polite, cute and refined young lady like yourself, they have trouble even imagining that you're the sort of fiend to lash out physically against people who piss you off or go for all night binges on an addiction. And because they have trouble believing it, they don't. The more you stick to the 'good girl/boy' stereotype, the more bad things people seem to overlook from you. If you're a model student at your school, you'll probably be able to leave your porn mags around the house or on your desk without anyone saying a word. If you're some sort of fairy tale princess look-alike, you'd be able to physically trample over the bodies of other people without a grumbled complaint. Surely, someone as charmingly innocent as you could not have meant to cause harm, right?

Idol Power- 200

Be it studying for that vital test the next morning or recalling some song you heard only once months ago, memory and memorisation remains one of the most useful skills that a young girl can have in her repertoire, especially if you're the grudge holding type. Through a mix of born talent and hard work, you now have a perfect memory buzzing around in your head. Even seeing or hearing something just once whilst distracted is enough for you to remember it forever, unless you forcefully erase that memory, a skill you learnt to prevent yourself losing focus on what the important things are. If you're not the type to remove things you've experienced, you've no need to worry about running out of space either. No matter how many songs you memorise or stories you engrave into your mind, you'll never run out of space in your noggin.

Behind You- 400

If you weren't there to watch out for your friends, who knows what sort of trouble they might get into? These days there's no end to the awful sorts of people just waiting around dark corners or even in the homes of your friends, masquerading as normal people when in reality they're just waiting to sate their freakish desires on your precious friends. But you are there and you've always been ever so skilled with knives. Big or small, sharp or jagged, you know how to hurt someone real bad with a knife and how to hide it from anyone's sight. You've got an impressive glare too, one that makes it look as if your eyes go blank with fury. And those you scare or threaten? They don't go running off screaming and causing trouble. They'll never call the authorities or seek outside help when you teach them a lesson. If you outright cut them up or otherwise harm them, they might call on some friends to help them, but in the end they'll be seemingly unable to deal with you in any way but on a personal level.

Because I Admired You- 600

Being born without talent is a difficult prospect, particularly when you are inevitably forced to compete against those blessed with more innate ability then you. The idea of catching up to them, when they are born with great skill in most things from the start, can seem impossible. You may not learn faster than anyone else but you are able to learn a great deal of things at once with no loss in speed. Somehow, through a mix of truly incredible scheduling and a bit of providence, you are able to learn up to ten different subjects simultaneously, as if you were wholly focused on each one individually. Spending a full day practicing five different sports will have you see results as if you spent a full day practicing with each individual sport, letting you master a great many things at once.

Otaku

There's Some Nasty Groups Out There- 100

Finding those who share the same interests as you, especially when those interests are what you obsess over right now, can be surprisingly difficult, at least if the friends you seek are the honest, upright and outgoing sorts. You could probably find some fellow hobbyists online in a few seconds but…well, they'd probably be a bit gross. Thankfully, you've turned out to be very lucky in this respect. It will never take you more than a day to find at least a few people who share your likes and hobbies, people who are both friendly and interesting and even safe to be around, though they might end up being a little over the top sometimes. You get along much better with people who you share a hobby with too, even if you're not bonding over your hobby at the moment.

Secretly a Princess- 200

A sight like you is pretty rare, even in a city as big as Tokyo. There's few people who could match your raw beauty, even if they use make up to artificially enhance themselves. You're always clean, fresh smelling and lovely to look upon. Times may come when you feel the desire or need to obscure that beauty however. That's as easy as slipping on a big t shirt, some jeans and a pair of oversized glasses. Even a simple disguise like this is enough to completely mask either your beauty or your ugliness, no matter how great either may be, and even make you seem like a different person entirely.

Those We Look Towards- 400

Role models, heroes, idols- just by being alive, they can inspire you to do better. But every kid's dream is to meet their heroes and be part of their lives, a dream rarely fulfilled in anything but the most superficial of ways. Rare is not never though and you constantly find yourself alongside the ones you idolise. Those you admire, respect or even worship will find themselves drawn to you by fate, in situations where the two of you will interact favourably and become much closer than you otherwise would. Depending on that person's personality, you may find yourselves able to become fast friends, teacher and student or even romantic partners. Particularly moody or unpleasant people may resist this but at least you'll be sure to have plenty of opportunities to meet and change their minds.

I Totally Know Kung Fu- 600

It's not uncommon for shut-ins to gain false beliefs about what they can and can't do. It can't be that hard to fire a gun right? Just watch a few videos or play some shooters and you'd obviously be as good as any trained marksman. Reality usually keeps the truth as a surprise for these deluded creeps but it seems to have forgotten to remind you of that truth, as you really do seem to be able to learn practical skills from games and anime and so on. Practicing in a game is, for you alone, as good as practicing in real life. Putting in hundreds of hours to a first-person shooter will see you every bit as skilled a gunman as if you put the same amount of time in at a firing range. It won't work for anything you have no ability to use, so you won't be becoming a wizard this way, but as long as you have the capability and a suitable fandom media, you'll be able to learn without ever leaving your home.

Actual Adult

That Scary Old Dude- 100
Just being a grown up can often make you seem unapproachable to those younger than you. Could be much younger teenagers or just your juniors at the workplace, the end result is that a certain distance remains between you and them. Attempts to cross this distance often make adults seem ridiculous and lose what respect they have from the younger generation. Something about you gets around this issue, as those younger than you have no problem getting along with you, whilst also maintaining any respect they may hold for you because of your age or position.

Head Hunting- 200
You spent a few years as a talent scout for some big business group a while back and the skills you learnt in your time there haven't faded one bit. It doesn't take you more than a few seconds of observation to be able to tell what a person is truly talented at, as well as areas that they find very difficult or troubling. You've also learned how to become very convincing about the benefits of switching sides, normally just for getting promising employees to jump ship from their current company but perhaps it could be applied to a broader scale as well.

Man of the House- 400
A man's home is his castle and the lord of a castle must remain aware of all that goes on in his castle to keep it safe. Whatever place you call home, so long as it is a building or structure of some defined boundary, grants you an unerring, incredible level of knowledge about the goings on that happen within it. You are somehow aware of all events and interactions that happen within your household, as well as the relationships of any resident of the household. No matter how much they try to hide it, you can see the truth with ease, though those that are merely guests at your home are unable to be read in this way. A side effect of this awareness is a perfect knowledge of the layout of your home, enough that you could navigate it at normal speed without sight. Any property you own may be designated as your 'home' after a few nights spent sleeping in that location, though only one location can be 'home' at a time.

Large and in Charge- 600
You were a born leader. People could tell you were meant to be in charge even back when you were just a child, leading around the other kids on whatever task you believed necessary at the time. Your forceful personality has only grown over the years since that time and these days, it is rare to see a man who won't lower their gaze when they meet your eyes. You're an intensely intimidating man, especially for those used to being followers, and you can easily command those sorts of people, even if you have no real authority over them. The more scared of you they are, the easier it is for you to command them, as they begin to see not doing as you say to be a much worse fate then whatever you want them to do might be. As an actual leader, whether in battle or in the workplace, you have unparalleled skills in getting everyone to work together as a well-oiled machine, as well as weeding out any slackers or weaknesses in the group.

Items

100cp items are free for their respective origin and all other origin respective items are discounted for that origin.

The Average Guy

Allowance- 100

Your parents were always big proponents of personal freedom and choice, so they decided to make sure you always had at least a bit of cash to survive on. They send you a few hundred each week, enough for you to live in relatively simple means and maybe have enough left over for a treat now and then. If you got a job, I'm sure they'd be very happy for you, but they'll keep sending support for you to show their love, even once you leave this world.

University Acceptance Letter- 200

You must have a friend in the system, since there's no way a guy like you could get so many acceptance letters for tertiary education when you've not even finished high school yet. So as to make it simple, they collected all the different forms into one fits-all acceptance letter that you can simply mail to the institute of education that you wish to study at and be accepted, regardless of whether you meet the requirements or not. Whether you can actually handle yourself once you're in? That's your problem. The catch all letter will reappear a year after you finish your education at your chosen institute, whether from graduating or dropping out.

Apartment Complex- 400

A distant uncle of yours died recently, deciding to leave the fruits of his career to a randomly chosen child of the family. You're the lucky one to inherit his small, two storey apartment building. A life that didn't yield many fruit, obviously. Still, it's yours and relatively easy to maintain, especially since it's always sure to bring in a fair amount of profit. It's placed on just the right location to make it hot property and there's always prospective tenants ready to shell out for a room. The tenants also happen to all be more than a little attractive and more than a little into their new landlord. What would your uncle say if he knew you were turning his old home into some sort of harem den of inequity?

The Model Woman

Fashion Closet- 100
The heart of any young ladies' home and a lot more than it looks on the outside, this closet has much more space on the inside then it seems from the outside. Within are stored hundreds of outfits, at least one for each day of each season and a good few dozen more for special occasions, hand crafted to fit your measurements. They all look fantastic on you and are laid out with accessories that will only serve to enhance the beauty of you and your clothing even more. You can store any items of clothing in here and more space will be made to accommodate them, but anything that isn't a piece of clothing will be expelled once you leave the wardrobe.

Girl's Best Friend- 200
Always best to come prepared, especially when you know you'll be around some pervert that might try to hurt you. They might look at you as some silly little girl but all you need to do is reach into a place they can't see, like inside a jacket or behind your back, and they'll see the glinting razor you always have with you. Long as it would fit in the unseen space you are reaching for, you can pull out any sort of knife or sharp implement you can imagine, from a pen knife to a butcher knife to some oversized combat blade. They're all normal knives however and you can only have one out at a time but by returning it to the same place you grabbed it from, you can make it disappear completely, hiding any evidence.

A New Brand- 400
It may not be big but, somehow, it is yours. Despite your young age, you've been hired as the core model of an up and coming modelling agency. It's not the biggest company by far but it's got a surprising amount of popularity so you'll find yourself with more than a small amount of fame to swing around and that money's quite good too. If you're an adult, or when you come of age, the previous owner of the company will see fit to pass it down to you and guide you towards becoming a successful leader of the fashion industry. The company will follow you to future worlds, either already owned by you or inherited by you when you come of age, and it'll retain growth to an extent. Even if you somehow bring it to dominate the global fashion industry, it'll never start out as being bigger than a major competitor in future lands.

Otaku

Eternal Convention Pass- 100
That twice yearly line up is just the worst, waiting hours in that sweltering heat only to enter a just as humid convention centre? Blegh. It's almost, only almost, enough to make you just stay home. In recognition of the level of your love for the con though, you got a special pass in the mail. This all-access, eternal pass will let you skip any lines to any sort of convention, event, concert, club and so on and not even have to pay any fee for entrance either. You can bring up to 8 others with you, also free of charge, and if the event you're going to has any booths or stalls for guests to set up or sell from, you'll always have one ready for you in the prime location too.

Otaku Apartment Heaven- 200
Living the Otaku lifestyle in the same house as your parents can get a little bit difficult, especially if they're the sorts to disapprove of your passions. A few friends and you got together to solve this problem and bought a spacious apartment, surprisingly affordable for a bunch of students. It's quickly been turned into something of an Otaku heaven on earth and it's all yours. Just about any sort of media related to your favourite hobby can be found here, even when the apartment seems to not have enough space for containing everything, and the various closets and shelves hold any sort of merchandise associated with your favourite properties, changing to the one you are looking for the moment you look away. It'll follow along with you to future worlds and update to add in any new forms of anime or manga or so on that weren't in previous worlds.

Ojou-San- 400
It's the hidden twist in your route that you were secretly a rich girl all along! Who could have guessed that you came from such a high-class family with the way you look and act. And high class they are indeed, since you never seem to be wanting for money, so long as you aren't trying to buy a fleet of luxury cars or something obscene like that. While your family is quite permissive and generally let you have however much money you desire from them, they'll also pressure you to help out the family every now and then, especially as you get older. Being wild and free in your youth is fine but once you become an adult, they'll start shopping around for a husband for you, one that will benefit the family regardless of whether they benefit you as a person. In future jumps, you can choose to have this apply to your existing family or to effectively be adopted into a similar family.

Actual Adult

Traditionally Comfy- 100
These fluffy grey robes and pair of feathery slippers may make you feel a bit foolish but good lord do they feel good. They relieve the stress from your body like you've just had a full body massage and they can clear your head of any emotional turbulence, just by the sheer comfiness of the clothing. Despite the looks, you won't be mocked or looked down on for wearing it anywhere either, even if they are essentially pyjamas.

A Castle to Call my Own-200
A home in the city, an actual home instead of some tiny apartment, costs a pretty penny to get hold of. It's worth it though, especially with a family to care for. Found in the suburbs of a major city, in future worlds being a city of your choice, this good sized home remains a comfortable, easy to maintain and well-defended location. It's got three bedrooms and two bathrooms, along with its own garage, luxuries in these tightly confined times. The house also has a surprising number of hidden nooks and crannies, good places to store some emergency weapons or embarrassing reading material. The house will always have water and electricity supplied to it, free of any bills, so you needn't worry about paying for those.

A Big Deal- 400
You already had a career, a good and stable one too, but now you're a real big shot. Buying this not only ensures that you always have the job in future worlds, either immediately or effortlessly gained upon reaching the necessary age for it, but that your career is important, influential and high paying. Instead of a Police officer, you may find yourself to be the Superintendent-General, head of all police in all of Tokyo's metropolitan area. A former office drone will instead be the CEO of a rapidly upcoming new enterprise, already making big waves on the business scene. You'll have the skills to perform your job well but if you stuff up enough, you could still get fired. It'd take quite a bit though and you'll always have the job back by the time you wake up in the next world.

Companions

Onii-chan- 200

Your very own big sibling. Despite the name, they're not limited to being a boy and can be just as easily a big sister. They're a few years older than you and how they feel about you can be either up to you or left to the whims of fate. In general, they're always going to be the sort who seeks to protect you and keep you safe, even if you don't need protection, and they've got an incredible level of willpower when it comes to such things. They look pretty similar to you and if you wish, can be an actual biological sibling of you as a jumper, sharing all the same inheritable biology and traits that any direct family member of yours would have. They also come with the entire The Average Guy perk line. If you want, you may also import a previous companion into this role/.

The Model Woman origin may take one Onii-chan for free but must follow certain conditions. Your older sibling is distant and pays little attention to you, something that causes you no small amount of distress and they can only be taken along as a companion if you manage to rekindle the spirit of older sibling protection they used to feel for you.

Little Sister- 200

A cute little sibling, just for you. They can be of either gender and will be a couple years younger then you. While their exact personality and relationship to you is either decided by you or relatively random, they'll always hold a deep admiration for you and believe the best of you, no matter how low you sink or how mean you act to them. You are their precious big sibling after all. As above, they can be an actual biological sibling of all that you are if you wish and will look like they are related to you. They come with the entire The Model Woman perk line and if you want, you may import a previous companion into this role.

The Average Guy origin may take one little Sister for free but must follow certain conditions. Your little sister is cold, mean and quite arrogant to you, as well as generally excelling at things you don't do well at. If you want to take them along as a companion, you'll need to work out whatever differences are keeping the two of you apart and reconcile.

Circle- 200

A Circle of friends, just for you. This options includes four people, each a heavy duty Otaku that styles themselves after one anime character archetype, either at random or of your choice. To some degree they are actually like this but each person also has a deeper side to them that they'll only show once you move beyond friends and become almost like family. They all have a wide range of interests, sharing at least one with you, and get along well with you. They each have the 100cp Otaku perk and 300cp to spend on other Otaku origin perks. They count as a single companion slot, though imports are either divided between them equally or given solely to one member of the Circle. If you want, you can import past companions into this option but they may not be combined into one slot, instead each being their own companion as normal.

The Otaku origin may take this option for free once by following this condition- in a few years' time, an event will happen which will threaten to tear apart your circle of friends. A violent argument that spins out of control and results in each member being unable to meet any of the others. The only one that could remain fair and open minded is you, so if you want to get your friends back together and take them along with you, you'll need to work out the problem between your friends and get them to make up with each other.

Children- 200
A son or a daughter, either way they're the fruit of your loins. Ew. They're your biological children in every way that matters. You can choose to either have them be very young children, only born a few years back, or already be in their teens. If the latter, you'll be able to decide or leave to chance what their personalities are like but overall, they'll often manage to find some way to inspire pride in you, as well as find ways to annoy and frustrate you. They have a free origin, except for Grown Up, and 600cp to spend on perks. If you like, you may import previous companions into these roles. You may also, for 100cp, import a previous companion to be their second biological parent.

The Grown Up origin may gain two Children, a son and a daughter, for free by following these conditions- both children are in their teenage years and seem hell bent on turning into the worst sorts of delinquents imaginable. If you don't give them proper guidance, they're all too likely to end up as some sort of violent, drugged up, incestuous couple and your wife would be rolling in her grave if you let that happen. To bring your two children along as companions, you need to ensure both of your kids have become respectable, skilled and virtuous young adults by the end of your time here.

Canon Companion- 100
They may not have any special powers but the people of this world can be just as interesting, caring and friendly as any other. If you're looking to bring someone that exists in this world along with you, by paying 100cp here you'll ensure that they can come if you can convince them to leave with you. Buying this option, which can be bought for multiple people, also ensures that you'll meet your chosen character many times in good conditions, to help you along the way to becoming friends with each other.

Drawbacks

Up to 600CP in drawbacks may be taken. More can be taken but will grant no points beyond 600.

Kousaka Jumper- +0

Rather than being born into a new or unrelated family, taking this option ensures that you're a direct relative of the Kousaka family, the central characters to the story of this world. Your last name is Kousaka now and there's a good chance that your first name also starts with a K too. If you're a kid, then you're the third child of the family but an adult would instead be the brother or sister of one of the adult members of the Kousaka family.

A Certain Cute Little Sister- +0

This normally normal world has suddenly become much less normal than it might normally appear to be. The world of Oreimo is normally just like our normal world, lacking any non-normal things like magic or super science. But a certain interpretation of this otherwise normal world sees it take place in the very, very not normal world as a certain totally normal high schooler with a special right hand. Taking this option makes the Ore no Imouto to Railgun Collaboration Project a reality, crossing over this world with the setting of Raildex.

Jumper Exposed- +100

They know player. All those nasty little secrets you have, the embarrassing hobbies and shameful likes, they'll all soon know. No matter how hard you try to hide it, the people you want most to not know about your most embarrassing, humiliating secrets will always manage to find out what they are and usually find out right in front of you too.

Love Shapes- +100

Having a heart as big and full of love as yours is certainly a blessing, if only all that love could go to someone that won't cause cringing. You keep finding yourself falling into relationships with people that cause a lot of raised eyebrows and questions, as well as finding that these sorts of people are also pursuing you too. Maybe they're decades older or just a little too many years younger, maybe you're related by blood or they've got some seriously overprotective family members. End result- a messy love network that will only get messier, without the most careful of handling.

Yan-Chan- +200

You and this nice young lady were childhood friends, or at least she seems under the impression of such. You actually do get along great and the two of you seem to share a fair deal of interests as the other. It sounds like quite a nice set up really, if she didn't have a habit of being a little too demanding that you act certain ways. See, she's a big proponent of how a young man or woman should act, very gentlemanly/ladylike, and what with you being oh so important to her, she's very eager to make sure you stay as perfect in reality as you are in her mind's eye. Follow her desires and you're likely to get much closer with this cute girlie but even a toe out of line and she'll start to show her more deranged side. Mess up bad or enough times and she may even decide to make some permanent scars to remind you how to be proper. If the two of you make it to the end of your time here alive, you'll be able to take her as a companion for free.

Bajeen-WHAT?- +200

That…that can't be your actual name, can it? With all the merchandise you seem to be wearing, I really wouldn't put it past you. Seems you've become about the most dedicated Otaku out there and you're very proud of it or at least act that way. Every bit of clothing you wear is taken directly from some anime or at least obviously branded goods. You'll act in the most over the top and weaboo like ways, even despite being actually Japanese, and in general be an all-around braggart about how much you love the series that you do. It'll be very difficult for anyone not into the same stuff to get along with you, if they don't outright ostracise you, and even fellow fans will find you to make them uncomfortable at times. You also can't stop yourself spending money on your hobby, so unless you've got a big source of cash, finding part time work that accepts your insanity is a high priority.

Up to No Good- +300
You get no trust. None. For whatever reason, the sight of you instantly makes people think of the worst kind of scum imaginable. You'll have everyone around you on constant look out for even the slightest hint of wrongdoing, even your own family won't cut you any breaks. Being too nice to a girl could be easily taken as you planning to stalk her. Borrowing a few coins from the emergency piggy bank will be seen as outright theft. You'll need to be an absolutely model citizen to not wind up in some really rough situations, even potential jail time, and you'll still find yourself shit on regularly for doing nice things.

Too Far! Too Far!- +300
Something about your face just drives people to go way over the top in the most negative ways. What might normally be just a minor argument or even a relatively calm debate between you and another girl will often end with a vicious slap to your face. An actual argument? They'll be trying to drive their fist into your face. It'll always be you that's blamed too, even by the authorities, so you'll be wanting to develop those ducking and weaving skills pretty fast,.

Ending

Time’s up! Did you enjoy your time in this world? It’s time to make the usual choice player.

Do you want to Stay in this world?

Do you want to Go Home to your original home world?

Do you want to Move On to your next big adventure?

Notes

If you take the crossover drawback, you cannot use the Canon Companion option on characters that didn't originate from the Oreimo side of the setting.