

Ane Naru Mono / The Elder Sister Like One

Jumpchain By Cthulhu Fartagn

The Story Thus Far

In this world, there exist beings that defy human comprehension. Gods, demons, and many more from mighty dragons to simple spirits. Every tale has a grain of truth, and there are many tales. But the details of this world are sparse, because they simply don't matter.

There exists a young child. His parents died when he was five, and his relatives have passed him around, speaking badly of him behind his back and sometimes not so secretly. Eventually, he landed in the hands of his uncle. It should say something about the others that simply ignoring him as the uncle did was likely the kindest welcome the child had received.

However, the uncle soon had some form of mental breakdown, and the child was left alone. At this point, he did the one thing the uncle asked him not to do, and entered the old shed… and found the secret passageway into its basement.

And accidentally summoned an outer god and promptly asked her to act as his elder sister. Don't ask me how he got away with it. Regardless, the two of them now live together in relative peace. And when it comes time to pay her price… Well. She is the mother of a thousand young.

Origins

Summoner

Young child or old man, it makes little difference. What matters is that you called up something from the deep dark and got away with it. Now? Well, I'd call it marital bliss but you're probably a bit young for that. While this origin is based around the child, Yuu, you will also find small parts of it coming from the uncle. By all accounts, he had a demon of his own.

Your age is 1d8+12, and your gender is the same as last jump or free swap to male. Your location is a small town not quite in the middle of nowhere. By default it's in japan, but for 50 cp you can change that to another country if it strikes your fancy.

Demon

And of course, to pair with the caller we have the one who was called. While likely not on the same level as Chiyo, you are a moderately powerful demon. Stronger, faster, more durable… And likely not as well educated. By default you are as strong as Haru, the stray dog - enough to defeat practically all of the local spirits, and vastly weaker than Chiyo.

Your age is visually 2d8+18, though in actuality you're likely to be much much older. Gender is the same as last jump, or free swap to female. Your location is the same small town in japan, though you can also pay the same 50 cp to change that.

Perks

Summoner

100 cp - Ara Ara!

I suppose we should go ahead and get this one out of the way, since it's practically one of this universe's foundations. You are an exceptionally cute child. Simple, I know. Trust me, it gets better. You see, not only are you cute, but there are certain kinds of people to whom you are extra cute. Elder sisters mostly, though you may find a mother or two falling for you every now and then. God forbid they actually be a shotacon.

100 cp - Let's Make A Deal

Calling up something from the abyss is rarely a safe or sane course of action. Doing anything but sending it away is even more so. That said, you seem to have a great deal of luck when it comes to supernatural deals. An air of innocence, perhaps? Regardless, those who would normally be inclined to scam you for everything you're worth and a bit more besides will be a bit more inclined to not do that.

100 cp - Please Stop Crying!

Women can be so tempermental sometimes, crying at the drop of a hat. And then you say one simple thing and they're utterly furious with you! ...I think she might be drunk. Anyways, you've got something women love in a man - the ability to empathize with them and figure out why they're sad and or angry. Not exactly a powerful skill, but when her getting angry means that she's going to go murder a school for someone tripping you it's best to defuse her fast.

200 cp - I'll Leave You Alone

I don't think I can honestly call this a kindness, not even when compared to Yuu's other relatives. Regardless, I'll give you something similar to his situation. If you so wish, you'll find the adults and the authority simply ignoring you for the most part. So what if your supposed caregiver is in the hospital? Everything will be fine. All you have to do is go to school on time - or similar tasks, depending on your situation - and they won't care that you're home alone.

200 cp - What Is Not There

In this world, there are monsters. And, interestingly enough, most people simply cannot see them. You however… Well, it's both a blessing and a curse. After all, it makes you interesting to them, and to most creatures that makes you dinner. So, I'll give you two gifts. First, you can see past the masquerade, whatever that may be. Secondly? If, for example, there were some sort of alarm system that detected those who could see past the masquerade, it would fail to go off for you until you intentionally interact with the hidden world.

200 cp - Endless Summer
Yuu found Chiyo in the first days of summer, and they have been living together ever since in peace. Bar one or two incidents, but even then they ended quickly. Pick your favorite season. That season will now bend ever so slightly to accommodate you. Nothing major, simply more beautiful. The flowers bloom while you are there to watch, the leaves fall in a beautiful dance that somehow misses your yard, and the clouds get out of the way when you want to watch the moon. Idyllic, peaceful days.

400 cp - Daily Life With Lovecraft
For a thousand year old demon, blending into the modern world can be… difficult. Thankfully, they have you to help them. Talent at teaching, a level of kindness and patience… everything you need to slowly introduce an outdated person to the newest inventions of the 21st century. What's more, you can also teach them humanity - such creatures are usually missing an emotion or two, unable to think of humans as anything but ants. Simply be kind to them as you teach them about the world and you might just teach them to understand humanity - and to act like one.

400 cp - Respect My Age!
I told you the world was rooted in lust, did I not? It should come as no surprise that once Chiyo was given permission to extract her payment, she did so often. Several times a day. And in many positions, sometimes while cosplaying. Anyways, you now have the ability to simply shut down any sexual situation. All you have to do is point out how wrong it is - currently, you're likely underage after all. Later, maybe 'we might get caught' in order to rein in her exhibitionist tendencies? If she has those.

400 cp - Can't Stay Mad
Or maybe you'd rather force the situation instead of end it? People are far more forgiving of you being perverse than they would normally be. A sidelong glance is not so much your fault as it is them showing off. They're the one who forgot to close the door after all. Normally, if you were to walk in on them pleasuring themselves, they would likely murder you out of embarrassment. With this, you end up invited. That nice hard cock of yours is their fault after all, and it probably feels better than cold plastic. There are rarely any long term consequences for your lust.

600 cp - Lucky Bastard
The first perk I gave you was attraction from your sister and mother. Now? I give you attraction from gods and devils. Supernatural creatures find you interesting, as more than just their next meal. Maybe you smell nice, maybe you talk in such a way they find pleasant to hear, maybe you accidentally had a conversation with them about their favorite topic. You're new and exciting, and certainly not for eating. If something did try to eat you, they might even defend you! How dare that lowly monster try to eat their human!

600 cp - Last Days Of Summer
While my knowledge of the timeline is a bit fuzzy, by my reckoning Yuu and Chiyo only lived together for a single month before they became lovers. And when they did, it wasn't too long before Chiyo fell head over heels for his taste, his feel, his… girth. Don't you think that's a little fast? Much like their relationship, you'll find your own relationships advancing at a truly astounding rate, months of flirting and wooing passing by in weeks if not days. Of course, that's what we'll refer to as passive. You know, just hanging out and getting to know each other. If you're actively attempting to use this power to enhance your relationship you might be able to condense years into that week. It might be a bit quick, but nothing stands in the way of true love for very long.

600 cp - Crazy Man
This is an odd one out. You see, you are apparently utterly crazy - after all, who would genuinely believe in gods and demons, let alone try to call them down and bind them? Maybe you're a cultist, maybe a scientist of the occult. Either way, you have enough knowledge of the supernatural to walk among them - and to create rituals meant to bind them to you, or seal them away. It's a dangerous game, and it might just cost you your mind, but a wish from a god might just be worth it.

Demon

100 cp - Condensed Form

Being a demon is all well and good, but sometimes you might find yourself needing to hide in plain sight or pass unnoticed. That's why you've learned how to condense yourself into human form. Your more monstrous traits will simply decrease until they are a little odd, but not particularly strange. Canines are a bit sharper than the norm, maybe some 'fake' nails instead of claws, that sort of thing.

100 cp - Innocently Lewd

A demon doesn't know how to act human, mostly because they aren't one. It really should come as a surprise then, that a demon is capable of stoking lusts into raging fires with little effort… by accident. Well, humanity has always wanted what it can't have. Regardless, you have a simple switch in your head. When it's on, every move you make, every word you say, every breath you take becomes excruciatingly sexy. When it's off, you're back to normal. Beautiful still, but not so much that they pop a boner just from looking at you.

100 cp - What Is A Demon

Well, it's certainly not an outer god from one of lovecraft's works. How strange that she would describe herself as a simple demon, if she were an outer god. Thus, she isn't one? Humans and their myths can be so strange sometimes. Regardless, if you so wish you can create a persona of sorts, jumper the god of lust, bane of virgins, father of the mountains, etc all. This myth will echo into other worlds, creating your legend. You can have it echo your real feats, or you could… embellish it. Exaggerate it just a bit. Try not to make a claim you can't back up though - other gods might take offense.

200 cp - Motherly

When you set yourself to a task, you gain an incredible amount of insight into what needs to be done. There are a thousand and one things in a house to clean, and you now know all of them! ...What you don't know is how to clean though. At least, not without breaking everything. Regardless, once you've decided what role to take, you know the do's and don'ts of that role. Actually being good at it is another thing entirely.

200 cp - Inhumanity

Your condensed form is wonderful for hiding, but it's not very… You. That would be the purpose I guess. Anyways, stop holding back just a tad and you'll find yourself in what I can only call a human form 'decorated' with various monster bits from your real self. However, this form is far more expressive. As a human, you were wearing a necklace. As a monster, the necklace is akin to a crown of bones. As a monster, and utterly furious? The necklace will suddenly grow eyes. And yes, you can see out of them. Well, maybe it's something other than eyes. You get the gist of it though, right?

200 cp - I Screwed Up!
...That's a huge mess you've gone and made. But, it's fine, it's fine! You're still learning, and you're allowed to make mistakes. At least, that's what people say to you more often than not. As long as you aren't doing it on purpose, people are far more willing to forgive you for said mistakes, as well as help you clean up after then. Just try to learn from them okay? And stop cutting the cutting board in half!

400 cp - Elder Sister
Chiyo stayed at the uncle's house for about two weeks before she went into town and interacted with a human other than Yuu. And of course, not a single person questioned her status as his elder sister. With that in mind, you can simply insert yourself into a person's life as a family member (elder sibling by default), and pretty much no one will question it, not even your new sibling or parents. There's only one requirement for this to work - you have to be invited in. A simple 'I wish we were related' will do, though I'm afraid you can't simply take them over and force it out - that's you inviting yourself in, not them.

400 cp - Stray Dog
A stray by definition, has no home. What a sad state to be in. On the other hand, your new nature affords you a rather unique method of movement. Much like the hounds born from the angles of time, you are capable of an unusual form of teleportation. All you need is a sharp angle to walk into - 120 degrees is ideal - and from there you can go practically anywhere. Well, anywhere there is another angle to go out of. On top of that, you can also move forwards or backwards up to one week along the timeline, though you are limited to that two week period. Lastly, your sense of smell is great enough to track someone even if the scent is years old - especially if they travelled through time.

400 cp - Show Me Your Face
Ah. Strictly speaking, this is a beauty perk. But, with you being so far above humanity, and their own tendencies with things they do not understand… Simply put, when they look at you, their senses are magnified. So beautiful it hurts to look at you. Your gentle caress the best they've ever felt. Your love is so good it drives them crazy. You could dial this back with condensed form, or drive it even higher and take over their mind for a short while.

600 cp - Black Goat of the Woods
As before, there are beings in this world with power. There was a group of rats that wielded a small amount of magic, a large number of yokai that Yuu hid from, and his uncle's dog that defended him from one of them. And atop them all was Chiyo. And now, you are her equal. To be clear, you are not a proper lovecraftian being, if only because they seem not to exist. But nonetheless, you are on par with Chiyo, though I'm afraid you'll find yourself nowhere near as skilled, bar one specific area. The black goat of the woods with a thousand young is a life that inherently creates life, something that shines through whenever Chiyo draws, with those same drawings coming to life and leaping off the page. Additionally, while it might seem loosely related, she quickly learns to care for her child - or, brother, as the case may be. In your case, simply pick a being from the works of Lovecraft, pick one of its many titles, and you'll find yourself with a single overpowering skill based on that name.

600 cp - Angel Off Your Shoulder
The you from before you began to learn about humanity, and the you after… It's like they're completely different people! Wait, did you just split in half? Anyways, you can now split yourself into two people - for now. One of them encompasses your humanity, and the other your monstrous nature. As you continue on to other worlds, you may find yourself with a third race and therefore a third self. Now, you are not a hivemind. Each of you is separate from the others, though they are all but completely identical, with only a small change in personality and maybe style of dress to differentiate them. If you're paranoid about the idea, each version of you is incapable of harming the others.

600 cp - What Is Your Wish?
One might wonder what Chiyo was doing in Yuu's basement. Was she sealed away? Did he accidentally call up some latent magical potential and summon her? I suppose it doesn't matter. However, what does matter is that you now have a ritual of sorts. Oh, it's not the kind of thing that you yourself use - it's for those who want to summon you and ask for favors and wishes, small fragments of your power. Hidden in the dark corners of the world for the mad and obsessed to find and call you with. Normally you'd be trapped or bound somehow, but, well… Mortals ought to know better than to use a ritual they didn't design. If you want to eviscerate them on the spot, feel free to do so. Regardless, this also comes with the option to allow certain legends about you to enter into the world and into the past, to create a suitable legend for you.

Items

Summoner

100 cp - Travel Bag

A simple bag of some kind. A bookbag, or maybe a duffle bag? The exact design doesn't matter. What does matter is that inside the bag is basic comforts - a week's worth of clothes, some snacks, a book or two or maybe a game to pass the time with, your bathroom essentials, all that jazz. Basically, if you were to unpack it, you'd have your entire bedroom ready to move into. Nevermind the fact that it shouldn't all fit in there - clearly Chiyo gave it an upgrade.

100 cp - Insurance Card

This item is exactly what it says on the tin, your insurance. You need never worry about someone scratching your car, an expensive surgery, or a tree falling on your house ever again. All of those things are simply handled for you. Additionally, while not impossible to lose or have stolen, the card will semi randomly move itself to a more convenient location if you leave it alone for too long. The inside of your wallet seems like an obvious place, though it may also lay itself on your desk, if you get into the habit of spending all your time there.

200 cp - Yuutube

Ah, the puns. Wonderful. Moving on. This album is a recollection of happier times. A photograph from when you were five, a video of you riding a bicycle, maybe a bit of paperwork that your parents were particularly proud of. Even things that were never recorded properly can be found here - a video of you and your sister cooking dinner, even though there was no one there to hold the camera, perhaps? If you wish, the collection can also spark your memory, allowing you to briefly relive the moments contained within.

400 cp - Home Alone

Strictly speaking this is your parents' (or uncle's, as the case may be) house and not yours, but no one is here right now, so… Well, that's depressing. Anyways, it's a lovely house nestled right on the edge of a rather scenic woods. It's far larger than one man needs - or even a family of eight - though not quite large enough to call it a mansion. The bills are completely paid by whoever 'actually' owns it, though you're unlikely to ever see them, and they're unlikely to ever come and visit. There's even a decent allowance for groceries and other things. All you really have to do is keep it relatively clean.

600 cp - Secret Basement

And behind that mansion, if you happened to have purchased it, is an old shed full of rusty tools and broken equipment. It also has a hidden staircase, if you can find it. And underneath that is a tunnel, and a large but simple room. Simply put, it's a madman's laboratory. Books on the occult, unusual materials (did that jar of eyes just look at you?), strange circular designs carved into the ground, and a very heavy door to keep it locked away. Simply put, it's everything you need to try and summon a demon. Better yet, that circle carved into the ground is the best binding circle in existence. If you can get something supernatural inside it, it's not coming out until you let it.

Demon

100 cp - Curb Ones Boredom

Immortality is a very long time. So, you need something to keep you entertained! This library card will automatically check out and summon a handful of books for you to peruse at your leisure before automatically returning them once due. Additionally, there is a small television which only ever seems to play 'educational' shows, as well as the weather and local news. The better to help you learn about the world with, right?

100 cp - Special Meal

This is… Well, I suppose it's appropriate for a demon like you. Just don't try and feed it to any normal humans, alright? Pick one particular thing. One disgusting, special, insane, delicious thing. You now have a small supply of it, most likely harvested and handed to you by cultists that are trying to earn you favor. Don't question where it's coming from if you don't have any right now. Just… Enjoy your wonderful meal of still beating hearts or fresh liver.

200 cp - Setting The Mood

I'm not 100% sure how or why a demon has these, but you have a small closet full of cosplay outfits. That said, they're magic. Wearing these naughty outfits will automatically make you more skilled at your so-called job - the naughty nurse might suddenly know a few basic medical skills, though only for as long as she wore the outfit. But, more importantly is that wearing the outfits helps you act in a manner befitting that outfit… well, in a perverse parody of itself.

400 cp - Chiyo's Notebook

Strictly speaking the only notable thing about this book is that it was once held by an outer god. That said, for some reason when you draw something in it's pages, they will quickly leap off the page and run about. Now, this does require some power on your end. A normal human would be lucky to get an inanimate object, while a minor demon might be able to make a few pieces of fruit. Something more powerful could draw out enough fish to feed a person for a few weeks. A word of warning, getting them to go back in is nigh impossible.

600 cp - Ryuu's Rats

Well, maybe not his rats, but they're certainly living in his cellar. Regardless, this swarm of rats has somehow been made into your familiar. Strictly speaking, the rats are capable of using magic. That said, they're rats. Dumb as bricks. Anyways, they're about as strong and fast and whatnot as a good sized dog, and there's a few hundred of them. The real cool part is their teeth. See, as the rats chew holes in the walls for their nests, to get at food, or to get away from noisy humans, they aren't just chewing the walls. It just so happens that the walls of reality are also degrading somewhat as they do. In shorthand, an area they inhabit for any length of time will quickly become 'haunted', drawing in spirits and other nasty sorts… from both sides of the wall. Similarly, summoning spells will be a bit cheaper to use, eventually reaching the point where they might just summon themselves. Might want to stop the rats before then.

Companions

100 cp - Housemate (one free)
This companion option is rather multipurpose, as it is both the canon companion and the companion import option, as well as allowing for the creation of OC's. Option one, you can import a companion with 600 into the jump. You get one of these for free, though they are automatically assigned to the origin you didn't take. Similarly, you can take a companion of your opposite origin for free, potentially creating an OC given the lack of canon characters.

200 cp - Yasaka
Who exactly is this girl? A friend of Chiyo's, apparently? Regardless, this silver haired girl seems to love two things in life more than anything else. Her spunky younger brother (presumably this is you) with whom she fell in love with at first sight, and... Kamen Rider? That can't be right. Anyways, While Chiyo has some lovely tentacles, Yasaka is an utter master at shapeshifting. Imouto, Onee-Chan, Milf, tentacles, absolute and tantalizing control over every single muscle in her 'secret place'. Her hair in her 'ordinary' form matches Chiyo's combat tentacles. Hell, she's so damn good at shapeshifting that she can make a few changes to you. Oh! I get it, it's the transformations! That explains the Kamen Rider.

200 cp - Abigail
Another friend of Chiyo's? How many eldritch onee-chans can there be? Well, whatever, let me introduce you. This blond bombshell is a bit on the gothic side, but she's no less dedicated to being your elder sister. While Chiyo is an all rounder and Yasaka is very physical, Abigail is a more social creature, if only barely. She's not exactly fond of others, but her idea of a nice relaxing day is to sneak the two of you onto a cruise ship and have the five star staff cook your lunch. Don't ask me why her closet door leads to a cruise ship. Or why one of the kitchen cabinets goes to disneyland. Look, long story short - it doesn't matter how expensive, if the two of you can go together, she'll take you.

200 cp - Ino
Ino isn't actually this girl's name, but when prompted she dodges the question and generally refuses to answer. Given enough persistence, the rather plain looking girl with brown hair will spit out a simple 'call me Ino'. As for her unique quirk? Her domain seems to include all things relating to water. From simple things like going fishing and cooking that fish, to pulling galleons full of pirate gold out from beneath the waves in an attempt to impress you, or controlling the fish and waves in some eldritch mockery of a disney princess. No tentacles herself, but she knows where to find some if you're into that. She also really likes going to the beach and would love to get a tan and fuck you in her swimsuit.

200 cp - Alice
If Abigail is a get out and go kind of person, then Alice is her exact opposite. Why would she ever want to go anywhere when the modern era can arrange for everything interesting about the world to be delivered to your doorstep? And in a complete turn of events for Chiyo and her ilk, Alice actually seems to have a deep enough grasp on modern conveniences that she can basically make computers do whatever the hell she wants. Don't ask how you're getting groceries, gunpla, and other goodies delivered by the truckload, or how she's managing to afford it. And as you might imagine, this orange haired girl would consider all these things worthless if she can't enjoy them with you.

Drawbacks

+100 cp - Simple Phobia
Everybody is afraid of something. Height isn't uncommon. Social interaction, lightning, getting stabbed - I mean shots at the doctors… All relatively common. Not true phobias, but common. Please pick one common thing to be afraid of - not common in the sense i've just described, but more like 'if you go a week without seeing it it's probably not common'. Dogs is the canonical example. Anyways, when said phobia is triggered you simply can't do much of anything due to your overwhelming fear. Maybe a kind Onee-Chan will come and rescue you?

+100 cp - Passed Over
Not in the egyptian sense, thank god. Or no, wait, that was a good thing? Well, for you what it means is that your family doesn't seem to give a crap about you. Least favorite child, always making problems, let someone else deal with him. You may or may not have dead parents and a bunch of aunts/uncles who constantly play hot potato with your custody. Thankfully being passed over means they aren't paying enough attention to be abusive, but that doesn't mean they won't complain about being forced to put up with you, where you can hear them.

+100 cp - Dark Magnet
Much like Yuu, you can see ghosts and similar creatures. Also like Yuu, you have somehow caught their attention. This… is generally not a good thing. For creatures of immense power, you're an unusual fascination. For the multitude of weaker ones, you're the next meal. Did you know that in japan, the yokai known as Futakuchi is created when a woman eats so little that she nearly starves to death? Stories like that account for an unfortunate number of those who will be stalking you.

+200 cp - San Loss
Chiyo's immense power is mentioned but rarely seen. Oh yeah, she can do this thing. And that other one. Never do we see any sort of fallout to these abilities. And given that she is the kind of being that causes insanity just by looking at her, it really is a surprise that Yuu is fine. Regardless, you now have what I can only call an allergic reaction to the magical, mystical, and spiritual. Your lovely elder sister being sexy is well and fine - her using her tentacles to drive you crazy… will drive you crazy, natch.

+200 cp - Expanded Universe
So far, Yuu has encountered exactly three creatures of myth, though it's implies that he has seen far more in his youth. However, later one Chiyo would claim that she had no idea if the gods were real. Hell, despite Chiyo being Shub-Niggurath, there is no evidence that she is anything but powerful - does the Cthulhu Mythos exist as anything other than stories and coincidence? For the time being however, yes. Yes it does. And this is really not a good thing. In fact, all myths are true.

+100/200/300 cp - Overactive Sex Drive
What? A healthy young male has a decent sex drive, especially with an Onee-Chan this sexy. Well, then again this isn't exactly 'decent'. I'm sure it will make her happy though. See, your sex drive is wildly out of control. At the lower end, it'll feel like your balls will burst after only a day or two without sex. At the worse end of the spectrum, you all but can't say no when offered, and are unlikely to accept a refusal. Not quite as bad but still worse than the blueballs, a good portion of your daily life is devoted to getting laid, usually to the detriment of things like homework, chores, and mealtimes.

+100/200/300 cp - The More Of A Fool
“The more dangerously superior a god is, the more of a fool, ignorant of the world, they are”. Such a phrase encapsulates you completely. Your ignorance of mortal affairs scales in proportion to your overall power. Should you be only a bit more than human, you might become ignorant of minor details like how medical insurance and taxes work, but should you be a powerful demon, concepts like writing and appropriate clothing slip your mind...and with godlike power, your superiority over mortals might cause you to forget that people die when they are killed. Mice, mosquitoes, dogs and people would all more or less be the same to you.

If you need a hard metric, less than five jumps is +100, more than five or having been a non-human before is +200, and twenty five jumps or having been some form of god is +300.

Ending

Congratulations on surviving here for the full ten years.

Dawn - Next Jump
Mid Day - Stay Here
Dusk - Go Home

Notes

Stray Dog is a high skill low power perk, which apparently includes pocket dimensions and or storing your shit outside of time.

Black Goat on the other hand is high power low skill deal. You've got a very narrow theme to work with, but you can do damn near anything inside of it.

Angel off your shoulder is tied to races - picking up two more human altforms won't get you another body, but being a saiyan or a kryptonian would.

Black Goat is not based on titles as in entries to the mythos, but literally titles as in 'The Black Goat of the Woods with a Thousand Young'.