The Godfather

Introduction

My friend, come sit with me. I come to you today with an offer you cannot refuse. I have lived a long life, and in that life I have seen many things. I have seen men rise from nothing to command respect, families built on loyalty that withstands the storms of this world, and the careful balance of power that keeps the peace. You stand before me now, a stranger from beyond the veil of ordinary fates, and I look at you with the eyes of a father who has buried sons and buried enemies.

The Jumper, they call you. Tell me, do you wish to spend ten years in my world, walking the streets of New York where honor still means something and blood debts are paid in full?

There are paths open to a man of your potential. You may become one of La Famiglia, embraced as blood and sworn to our traditions, sharing in the prosperity and the burdens alike. Or you may rise as a Caporegime, leading your own crew with strength and cunning, commanding respect while answering only to those who have earned it. Perhaps you prefer to stand apart serving as Consigliere. An outsider whose counsel I would value highly, offering wisdom unclouded by the passions of the streets. Whichever road you choose, know that my offer is made with open hands and clear eyes.

The saddest thing about betrayal is that it never comes from your enemies. You start with 1000 Corleone Points.

The Godfather

Origins

La Famiglia

Let me tell you, Jumper, what it means to choose La Famiglia. When you enter my house as Family, you are no longer a stranger in the dark. You are one of my own. You share our table, our protection, our burdens, our enemies. You learn the old ways: respect, silence, and loyalty. In this life being La Famiglia means you carry my name on your shoulders, and in return I carry your troubles on mine.

But understand this: once you take this path, you do not walk away. Blood or not, you become part of something larger, something that demands devotion, discipline, and the courage to stand firm when the world tries to shake you. If you choose this origin, you choose a life where honor is your shield. And betrayal is a sin that cannot be forgiven.

Caporegime

Ah, my Jumper, to walk the path of a Caporegime is to carry the weight of true power upon your shoulders. You will lead your own crew of loyal soldiers, men who look to you for strength and guidance, just as I have guided my family through the shadows of this world. With cunning and respect you will command territory, settle disputes with iron will and measured words, and build an empire within the empire.

The Godfather

Answering only to those who have truly earned your loyalty. Ten years as my Caporegime will forge you into a leader feared by enemies and cherished by those under your protection, for in this life, a man is only as strong as the family he builds and the respect he commands.

It is a heavy mantle, but for those who can bear it. It is a position of honor.

Consigliere

My trusted friend, the role of Consigliere is a rare and honored position, one that demands a mind as sharp as any blade and a heart loyal to the Family above all else. This is not a role for a brute or a hothead. It is a place for a mind that sees further than others, a mind that understands people, politics, and the quiet art of persuasion.

As Consigliere, you are my most trusted advisor, the voice I listen to when the world grows loud. You stand outside the blood ties, yet closer to me than many who share my name. Your strength is not in muscle, but in judgment. Your ability to read a room, to weigh risks, to guide the Family through storms without ever raising your voice. You will see the moves before they are made, whisper truths that others fear to speak, and help guide the Family through treacherous waters with quiet strength and careful strategy.

For ten years you will serve as the voice of reason in a world of hot blood and old grudges, earning respect not through fear, but through the power of your insight. If you choose this origin, you choose a life where your words carry the weight of bullets. And your silence can save lives.

Location

The Corleone Compound in Long Beach is where you start your life in my world. Behind its tall stone walls and iron gates, you will find my home, my offices, my soldiers, and the quiet order that keeps the Family strong. It is a place of safety but also of duty.

From the moment you step inside you are part of something larger than yourself. And how you conduct your affairs here will decide the path your ten years will take.

The Godfather

Such is the nature of loyalty. When you honor the Family, the Family honors you.

The Godfather

When a man walks in my shadow the world treats him differently. With this perk, you gain an influence so profound that even the most stubborn men soften when you speak. Politicians return your calls, judges listen closely, and rivals hesitate before making enemies of you. You carry my reputation as if it were your own: calm, feared, respected. In any world you travel to, people sense that you are a man backed by something greater, something old and powerful. It is not loud power, it is the kind that bends the world quietly.

No matter the world you enter, people instinctively sense your history, your victories, your wisdom. Attempts to slander you fail, attempts to undermine you collapse, and even your enemies hesitate to strike fearing the consequences that follow. You are not merely respected, you are untouchable.

Blood Oath of Loyalty (100 CP - Caporegime)

They will protect you, fight for you, and keep your secrets as if their lives depend on it. Betrayal becomes rare, trust becomes a weapon, and your inner circle becomes unbreakable. In this life, loyalty is worth more than gold. And with this perk, you command it effortlessly.

The Godfather

The Unbroken Code (300 CP - Caporegime)

In my life, Jumper, I have seen men rise and fall because they forgot the old ways. Respect, honor, and silence. With this perk, you embody the purest form of omertà. Your discipline becomes legendary. You cannot be intimidated, bribed, or broken. Your presence inspires loyalty in others, and even your enemies recognize your integrity. You gain an inner strength that shields your mind from manipulation, fear, and doubt. Across every world you visit, you will be known as a person whose word is iron and whose resolve cannot be bent.

The Don of Dons (600 CP - Caporegime)

There comes a time when a man rises above titles, above ranks, and above the petty rivalries of lesser families. With this perk, you become a figure of absolute authority. Calm, immovable, and unquestioned. Any organization you join, any faction you touch, instinctively recognizes you as a natural leader. You command respect from kings, criminals, soldiers, and statesmen alike. Your presence alone can end wars, forge alliances, or silence entire rooms. You do not rule through fear, you rule through the quiet certainty that you are the one man everyone trusts to keep the world from falling apart.

The Godfather

The Silent Hand (100 CP - Consigliere)

In our world, Jumper, the strongest man is not the one who shouts or waves a gun. It is the one who moves unseen, who guides events without ever being noticed. With this perk, you gain mastery of subtle manipulation: whispers, suggestions, small gestures that change the course of a conversation or a man's decision. You can calm tempers, redirect suspicion, or plant ideas so gently that others believe they were their own. This is the power behind the throne and the hand that shapes destiny without ever being seen.

Master of the Five Families (300 CP - Consigliere)

To survive among the Five Families, Jumper, you must understand every man's ambition, every woman's fear, every secret that keeps the peace. With this perk, you gain an extraordinary instinct for criminal politics: alliances, betrayals, and hidden motives. You can read a room like a book, predict conflicts before they spark, and negotiate peace where others see only war. You become a strategist worthy of any throne, able to guide entire organizations with a steady hand. In any future world whether any faction or any power structure, you will understand it as if you were born inside it.

The Invisible Empire (600 CP - Consigliere)

Power is not in what people see, it is in what they never see. With this perk, you gain the ability to build networks: criminal, political, financial; that span continents and worlds, all without ever exposing your hand. You can create organizations that operate flawlessly even when you are absent, each branch loyal, efficient, and self-sustaining. Information flows to you effortlessly; secrets reveal themselves; threats are identified before they take shape. You become the architect of an empire that exists in whispers, in shadows, and in the quiet movements of men who never speak your name aloud. Yet obey you absolutely.

This is not a gang, this is an institution, a dynasty that grows with you, adapts to new worlds, and carries your name with pride. You become not just part of a Family; you become the head of one.

Drawbacks

Forgotten Plot (+100)

This burden strips you of every memory of the stories, the betrayals, the tragedies that shaped the Corleone Family. You enter this life blind with no knowledge of who rises, who falls, who betrays, who remains loyal. Every danger must be learned the hard way, every alliance earned without the comfort of foresight. You will move through this world as any outsider would, guided only by your instincts and the respect you can command. And remember Jumper, ignorance has a very heavy price. In our world, not knowing at the right moment can cost a man everything.

The Godfather

Locked Warehouse (+200)

The Locked Warehouse burden shuts you out of your own domain: the Jumper Warehouse, the vault of your strength, the place where your allies, your treasures, your comforts wait behind doors that will not open. No items, no companions, no followers may enter this world with you. You arrive alone, with empty hands, and every advantage must be earned the hard way. Through sweat, through danger, and through the quiet negotiations that make or break a man in Little Italy. Understand this, Jumper: in our world, a man who rises without support earns a different kind of respect.

Locked Perks (+300)

This burden seals away every advantage you gained in other worlds. No powers, no talents, no clever tricks from past jumps will answer your call here. You walk into the Corleone world with nothing but your natural wits, your courage, and whatever respect you can earn with your own voice and your own hands. Every challenge must be faced as any mortal man would face it. Every victory must be won the hard way. Understand that in a place like this, where loyalty and silence matter more than strength, being stripped of your old gifts may teach you what kind of man you truly are.

The following burdens are offered in tiers, each one heavier than the last. You may choose only one from each path, should you have the courage to walk it. Understand Jumper, that a man who accepts such challenges does not do so for glory. He does it because hardship, when faced with honor, builds character that no enemy can break.

The Godfather

Unending Mob Wars

Embers of Conflict (+100 CP)

You step into a world where the Five Families simmer with quiet hostility. A shot in the night, a whispered insult, a deal gone sour, and small sparks that never die. You are not yet a target, but you are never far from danger. Every street corner carries tension; every meeting demands caution. You walk among men who smile with their mouths and threaten with their eyes.

Streets on Fire (+300 CP)

The conflict no longer whispers, it now roars. The Families strike openly now, bullets in the alleys, ambushes at dawn, vendettas that spill into the homes of honest people. You are known Jumper, not as a friend, not as an enemy, but as a piece on the board. Every move you make is watched. Every ally you gain paints a target on your back. In this life, hesitation is a luxury you cannot afford.

A War That Never Ends (+600 CP)

You are thrown into the heart of the Five Families Conflict, where peace is a fantasy and death is a daily visitor. The Families wage war without restraint: bombings, betrayals, executions carried out in broad daylight. And you, Jumper, you are no bystander. You are a name spoken in back rooms, a force every Family seeks to use or destroy. No safe house, no quiet corner, no moment of rest. You must fight, negotiate, survive with nothing but your wits and the respect you can command. This is not a conflict; it is a storm that never stops.

The Godfather

Relentless Assassination Attempts

The First Threats (+100 CP)

You become a name whispered in the wrong circles. A few men, ambitious and foolish, decide that killing you might earn them favor. Their attempts are clumsy, rushed, born of desperation rather than skill. A shot from across the street, a knife in a dark hallway, these dangers that keep you alert, but not overwhelmed. Still, remember even a coward's bullet can kill a careless man.

The Hunters Close In (+300 CP)

Take this burden and the men who come for you are no amateurs. These are professionals, soldiers of the Five Families, these are men who do not miss nor do not hesitate. They study your habits, your routes, your allies. They strike with precision: a car bomb, a coordinated ambush, a sniper waiting on a rooftop. You are no longer a nuisance to be removed; you are now the prize. And every day, Jumper, you must earn your survival.

Death at Your Heels (+600 CP)

You are now placed at the center of a storm that never ends. Every Family, every rival, every ambitious young killer wants your head. They come in waves, day and night. Coordinated, ruthless, and relentless. Safehouses fail, allies fall, and every step you take must be calculated. You cannot rest, cannot trust, cannot breathe without wondering who is watching. This is not survival, it is endurance. And only a man of extraordinary will can walk through such fire and remain standing.

The Godfather

Virgil Sollozzo Insists

Little Steps Toward Dishonor (+100 CP)

With this burden Jumper, Sollozzo approaches you politely but firmly. He asks for small favors: messages, quiet errands, and introductions. You do not touch the narcotics yourself, but you stand close enough to smell the rot. I hear whispers of your involvement, and though I do not confront you, I feel disappointment. A man who walks near that trade walks near disgrace, and I will not forget such things.

The Turk's Shadow (+300 CP)

Take this and Sollozzo pulls you deeper into his dishonorable business. You help secure routes, negotiate with dangerous men, protect shipments that offend everything I stand for. My sons begin to watch you. Tom Hagen asks quiet questions. And I see your choices as a betrayal of the old ways. You are not yet condemned, but you walk a path where every step risks losing my respect forever.

A Betrayer in My Eyes (+600 CP)

Jumper, this burden binds you to Sollozzo completely. You become his confidant, his planner, his right hand in the narcotics empire he tries to force upon New York. You stand beside him as he plots against my Family. And I know. I hear your name, see your face, and believe you have chosen dishonor over tradition, greed over respect. You are marked. Every Corleone soldier watches you, every ally questions your loyalty, and every mistake risks bringing my full wrath upon you.

Understand this Jumper, working with Sollozzo is not merely dangerous. It is a sin against me, against my Family, and against the honor of our world.

The Godfather

Don Vito's High Expectations

Proving Yourself (+100 CP)

With this burden, Jumper, I give you difficult assignments: negotiations with stubborn men, delicate messages that must be delivered without insult, small disputes that require a steady hand. These tasks are dangerous, but not overwhelming. I will watch your performance closely. I expect competence, respect, and silence. A man who works for me must show he understands responsibility.

The Don's Chosen Troubleshooter (+300 CP)

I begin entrusting you with matters that could break lesser men. You handle volatile soldiers, negotiate with rival Families, and settle disputes that could erupt into violence. These are not errands. They are tests of loyalty, intelligence, and courage. My sons watch you. My caporegimes judge you. And I expect you to succeed.

Failure reflects poorly on a man who claims to serve my interests.

The Don's Most Dangerous Assignments (+600 CP)

Jumper, this burden places you at the center of my most perilous affairs. I send you to calm hot-headed soldiers ready to spill blood, to negotiate with men who have already decided to betray us, to walk into territories where the Corleone name is hated. You handle crises that could ignite wars. You face dangers that even seasoned men fear. And understand this: I expect perfection. I expect loyalty. I expect results.

A man who carries my trust must never falter, for the consequences reach far beyond himself.

The Godfather

Michael Corleone Wants You Dead

Seeds of Suspicion (+100 CP)

Jumper, with this burden, small lies and quiet conspiracies place you on Michael's bad side. A rival whispers that you betrayed a confidence, or that you spoke against the Family. Michael does not act immediately, but he watches you. He studies your movements, your associates, your habits. You feel his eyes on you even when he is not present. And understand, once Michael begins to doubt a man, that doubt never truly leaves

Marked for Elimination (+300 CP)

Take this burden, and the conspiracies grow darker. False evidence is planted, jealous men whisper poison into Michael's ear, and circumstances twist themselves against you. Michael becomes convinced you are a threat to the Family: dangerous, ambitious, disloyal. He assigns men to watch you, to test you, to corner you. Every meeting becomes tense, every street dangerous. You are not yet condemned, but Michael has already decided what must be done. He is simply waiting for the right moment.

The Final Judgment (+600 CP)

Jumper, this burden places you in the deadliest position a man can occupy. Michael Corleone believes without doubt and without hesitation, that you must die. Whether by conspiracy, jealousy, or lies fed by rival Families, he sees you as a mortal threat to everything he protects. He sends soldiers after you, quietly at first, then openly. Safehouses fail, allies fall, and every move you make is anticipated. Michael does not forgive. He does not reconsider. He does not relent.

You are hunted by a man who has outlived kings and crushed empires. And in his eyes Jumper, your death is already decided.

The Godfather

Conclusion

After ten long years in my world, you stand before me, I look at you not as a stranger nor as an outsider, but as a man who has endured trials that would have broken many others. You have walked through danger, betrayal, loyalty, and honor. You have seen the best and the worst of men. And through it all, you have earned my respect.

I do not give such respect lightly. Now your time here comes to its end.

You may choose to return home to the world you came from (+500 CP).

You may choose to remain here and continue the life you have built (+1000 CP).

Or you may choose to move on to whatever new world awaits you.

Whatever path you take Jumper, I wish you a life lived with honor. A life where your choices reflect the strength you have shown here. A life where respect is earned, loyalty is cherished, and your name carries the weight of a man who has faced the fire and remained standing.

Go now. And may your future, wherever it leads, be worthy of the man you have proven yourself to be.
