

World of Lewd Elves

Version 1.0

Long ago this world was formed from the void by the efforts of a single goddess. However this goddess was not the benevolent and all loving creator god that many other worlds had, no this was the Goddess of pride, beauty, nature, and purity. Her intention in creating this world was to craft a race of perfect beings to worship her for all time. One long lived, beautiful, chaste, masters of whatever they choose to train in, and of course completely devoted to her, the elves. After she had crafted her precious children she also added other lesser races like orcs, monsters, and of course humans whose purpose in her world was to be enemies her children could easily defeat, proving their own superiority.

However when creating her beloved elves she made one huge mistake. Somehow in the process of making the elves she implanted a deep seated perversion within each of them, one that needs only a slight fanning to become an all consuming desire that they would tear apart their lives to satiate. No matter how prideful they are, how magically powerful or physically powerful they become compared to other races, or how much they struggle or create walls and defenses to keep other races out, they can not escape one simple fact.

Elves are lewd.

Have +1000 CP for the journey.

Locations (Choose one)

Deep Forest Village: One of the many settlements of forest elves that live isolated from the rest of elf kind. Due to a barrier blocking all entry from outside, this village has known peace from humans, monsters, and even other elves for countless years, with only the occasional adventurer that comes from this village proving its existence. Of course as a result of this peace the elves in this village have grown rather complacent and conceited, looking down at all those outside the village as unintelligent barbarians. If a human were to somehow infiltrate the village it's doubtful that the inhabitants would even recognize them as a human to begin with, much less raise an alarm if they had less than pure intentions for the village's inhabitants. If you're an elf you can likely peacefully live out your ten years in this village with no issues.

City of Slaves: The former capital of an elven kingdom, one day some human noble conquered the place (with the help of a corrupted elf archmage) and turned the city into his own personal fiefdom. Now, having become the biggest slave markets in the world, you can find all manner of slave prostitutes lining the streets and in brothels, from the city's former inhabitants, their half-elf children, to even quite a few humans as well. If pleasure of the flesh is what you seek, you'll find it here for a rather cheap price. Of course, if monetary gain is your concern the slavers are always willing to pay top dollar for fresh full blooded elves, and the city is uniquely situated close to the borders of many elven territories. As an elf you could be one of the many slaves of the city, a magical infiltrator of nearby elves keeping an eye on any organized raids the humans do, or a poor soul trying to track down a relative that more than likely has completely been broken by pleasure.

Oddly enough the most famous brothel in the city is actually run by a former elf slave of all people, who has carefully captured and breed a whole slew of full elves to ensure that the slave stock in her shop retains enough elf blood in their veins to gain all the benefits that full elves have and keep customers paying a premium for the 'new blood'. Although the prostitutes in her brothel are treated remarkably better than the slaves on the streets, so perhaps it's not all bad.

Elf Kingdom: One of the stronger kingdoms in all the land, it has long served as a symbol of both authority and of elven prosperity and might. The ruling line have been blessed by the goddess with extended lifespans similar to her High Elves, and the current queen has ruled her land wisely and justly for thousands of years. You yourself arrive in the kingdom's capital city, a crown jewel home the largest amount of elves in the world. One very notable thing about this city is the sheer amount of magical enchantments woven within the city at nearly every level, from enhancing the cities buildings and walls to be nearly unbreakable, automatically wiping away any dirt and trash to make the city pristinely clean, or just magically pumping water anywhere an elf wants in a facsimile of modern water infrastructure.

The royal family itself is composed of the queen, her daughter and heir, a renowned military general, fighter, and politician along with a handful of younger sisters. The king, not descending from the royal line, has long since passed away. The queen of course has made every effort to appear beyond his death, even though it's rumored that the millennia of lust accumulated in her and her guards if pressed will mention that they hear moaning loudly every night in the royal bedchamber.

There are whispers that some elves keep human bed slaves hidden away, but I'm sure there is no truth to these claims

Ancient Divine Tree: Considered one of the most sacred places in the world by elves around the world, this tree was said to have been the first of the Divine Trees and the place where the goddess herself is felt in all the surroundings. It also serves as a training ground and resting place for high elves across the world, and in fact has a higher concentration of high elves than anywhere else. Of course this also means that the magical protections and defenses in this tree are incredibly high, and even other elves are viewed with heavy suspicion, making any sort of infiltration not done by a High Elf nearly impossible. Although if a human were to ever secretly corrupt a high elf, perhaps she can infiltrate the tree for him and help them get access to all those trainee High Elf maidens. An elf, especially a High Elf, will find a welcoming land filled to the brim with the goddess's divine energy. A human, on the other hand, would be killed on sight, so, unless you are packing some serious power, I'd advise you to run or hide away quickly lest you wish a swift end to your chain.

The oldest high elf in existence, and most favored child of the goddess, resides in the center of this tree, sequestered away from all but the most important of visitors or other high elves. Although elves who met her say that despite her age she still possesses beauty with few rivals.

The Underdark: A split off from elven society at large, this hidden underground city is home to many grey skinned elves named the Drow. Unlike their more prudish overground counterparts the elves of the underground actively embrace their sexuality, where the rest of elf kind shun it. Of course by 'embrace their sexuality' it really means they kidnap humans and elves from the surface and turn them into slaves, both of the normal and sexual variety. As an elf you can choose to become one of the Drow masters of this city, but humans and non drow elves would likely be nothing more than fresh slaves taken from the surface.

There are rumors that the beautiful queen of the Underdark has a particular fetish for breaking in defiant humans herself, so perhaps a newly arrived slave will find an opportunity to turn their own fortunes around closer than they think.

Border Region: Located on the outskirts of both humans and elven territory, this area is noticeable for the simple fact that the elves and humans that have settled here actually have a stable and positive relationship with one another. Tension between the races is pretty low and even human and elf relationships with each other are common and accepted.

That's not to say that all is well. Out of towners, with less than pure motives, are a semi-frequent sight in this place. Human slavers trying to sneak in and steal the more human friendly local elves or high elf travelers trying to rile up the local populace into throwing the humans out of 'their' land. But for the most part things are peaceful. If one would desire to settle down with a loving elf waifu or a caring human husbando then this would be the place.

Origins

Human: One of the many lesser races that dot the world. The goddess made your race for the sole purpose of being sidelined or shown up by her precious children. With a shorter lifespan, no innate magical power, and the average human generally appearing far less attractive than the average elf, humans are commonly regarded as inferior. However, there is one thing that humans excel at that elves are absolutely hopeless in, sex. As a result of this most elves regard humans as a chaotic and base race that takes what they want with little regard for the consequences and copulates with the same vigor as lowly beasts. Let's face it though, you'll probably prove them right.

Pick any age after 16 to become. You can choose to be a standard human with a history or take this origin as a Drop-In instead. Given the theme of the world humans can switch to male (or futa) for free.

Elf: The direct creation of the goddess and the greatest, most noble, graceful, and virtuous race (at least according to themselves). Long lived, magically powerful, and possessing great beauty, these long eared individuals have long reigned as one of the world's most powerful races. Unfortunately while your race may be strong it suffers from species wide perversion that more often than not, leads to your elven brethren succumbing to pleasure.

Comes in all forms from the isolationist forest dwellers, the scattered but martial dark elves, to elves that form large towns and cities just like humans (but with tons of magical enchantments), to even more rare types of elves like a tribe of sadistic grey skinned tunnel dwellers, the charitable shortstack elves that live comfortably in the frost and snow, and, the most rare type of all, the high elves who serve as the sages and priestesses of the entire elven race.

Elves normally live in the hundred of years, so choose an age to corresponds appropriately to the amount of experience your perks should grant you. Given the theme of this world Elves can switch to female for free.

Perks

Human

Human Dic-plomancy (100CP): For all the elves' mistrust of humanity, you'd be surprised how often the two species interact. Human and elven adventurers form parties (and orgies), human merchants buy and sell goods to elf villages (slaves and aphrodisiacs), and human kingdoms send diplomats over to help smooth relations with their elf counterparts (and seduce the queens and princesses). Elves seem to have a blindspot to your lewd intentions, and are far more welcoming than they really should be, with many regarding you more as a curiosity than a potential threat to their wives and daughters. You could probably walk through an all elf town or city and experience nothing more than some surprised stares and maybe an elf guard or two telling you to behave yourself. Of course any protection goes away the moment you're caught fucking around, so try to be a bit more subtle.

As a side effect of this you seem to be able to befriend other species like elves much more easily.

BHC (100 CP): There of course are (true) rumors that the men of other species have penises that dwarf their elf counterparts, but frankly yours is rather excessive. Any elf that gets a look at your D would blink and think that they are seeing things, up until the point where you are jackhammering in and out of her. Luckily you seem to have all the hentai positives of having a huge dick, such as filling up an elf more than she ever has been in her life or cumming literal gallons, and none of the drawbacks like cumming too quickly, not fitting, or splitting some unprepared elf girl in half. Expect a lot of (unconscious) hungry stares from some very thirsty elf women. It seems your cum has been enhanced to be particularly tasty to elves who drink it, and an unprepared elf could quickly find themselves becoming addicted to the taste.

As a side bonus you seem to have gained great sexual stamina, enough to leave any elf (or even whole groups of them) well satisfied after a passionate night out.

Elf Trainer (200 CP): Okay so hear me out, you broke down some elf noble into a devoted sex slave and turned her into a maid for irony's sake, but then she, as a sheltered aristocrat, sucks at her new job and can't clean anything (even if she looks damn good in a maid outfit). Or when you want to turn a pure elven maiden into a sex slave, but since she never once did anything sexual in her life her ability to please you is 'limited'. While individual elves can reach ridiculous heights in whatever talents they specialize in, their race's sluggish learning capabilities mean that it takes years to learn what a human could in months.

Luckily with this perk it seems that elves you break seem to gain a heightened ability to learn new things, almost like your own human nature has rubbed off on them, or maybe being broken in and having their own life completely shaken has caused them to reevaluate their own abilities. An elf that never once had held a sword in her life could quickly become a noticeably skilled warrior, or a pure elf maiden could learn skills in bed that match even the most veteran of prostitutes in only a few weeks of training.

I suppose you could also use this and become a renowned elf slave trader....but why would you give up an elf after you put so much effort training her?

Lewder Elves (200 CP): The majority of elves believe that they are pure and chaste beings, beyond the rutting of beasts - unlike other races. You know the truth, however, that behind even the most innocent elf maiden there is a degenerate pervert just waiting for proper guidance to be unleashed. In fact the more you expose them to the sex they looked down upon the more lewd they will become. Have sex with an elf enough and their body will eventually throb for your return, fuck her mouth or breasts a few dozen times and they will become as sensitive as her genitals, And as their body changes so to will their minds become lewder and lewder. Eventually sexual acts that would be inconceivable to them previously like inviting a 'lesser' species to plow them like an animal or dirty talking to make their partners as aroused as possible, would be like second nature to them.

Sharp Minds, Captured Hearts (400 CP): Well, breaking a haughty elf into your personal meat toilet is nice and all, but it loses its charm when you realize you actually lost a valuable ally in favor of a glorified stress reliever. At least you won't have to deal with those troubles anymore, now the 'victims' of your 'love' retain their physical and mental faculties even after being broken into your loyal toys. Sure a warrior might constantly fantasize about being pierced by your 'sword' but she will be just as skilled in fighting and training than as if you hadn't fucked her into submission and a noble would be just as sharp witted and clever as ever, even if she would happily stop whatever plot she is working on to suck you off under the table. As an added bonus those you turn into loyal sex slaves seem to become really good at acting as if nothing has changed, even an attentive boyfriend would think absolutely nothing is wrong even when his 'loyal' girlfriend was cheerfully fucking you behind his back and a whole city would be capable of fooling most outsiders that everything is normal and that you haven't made it into a sexual paradise.

You can still choose to make them nothing but sexblobs if you want though.

Elven 'Unity' (400 CP): Elves are remarkably social creatures despite, or possibly because of their immense pride. Elven tribes and kingdoms stand as the strongest lands in the world largely due to the firm social bonds among these keenly empathic people.

Of course you could use this empathy against them. Elves you corrupt with pleasure feel the need to 'share' the pleasure with the rest of their race. An Elf MILF would gladly help 'teach' her family the value of being a slave to you and raise her daughters 'right', while a Princess would betray her family and help you turn her nation into your sex tools.

From now on whenever you break an elf, you also induce a fetish in them to also watch and help you fuck and break other elves. The rampant jealousy that seems to define the petty large harems of human women is a thing of the past, instead elves are just happy that others got to know of the pleasure you bring about and in fact can become very well satiated watching you plow other elves, just be sure to hold a few public orgies or ‘shows’ every week to keep everyone content.

THIS IS WHY THE ELF WOMEN ARE GOING TO HUMAN MEN LUTHANDRIEL! (600 CP): Elven courting rituals can last for years or even decades. To elves, who have the time to slowly feel out their partner, there is no real need to rush through romance. Humans, on the other hand, rush through such things like they do through life, going from flirting, to dating, to fucking in what elves would consider the blink of an eye. Slow and thorough for elves, and quick and passionate for humans. You’d think that such a drastic difference in romance would be unattractive to elves, but it seems to be the reverse, at least with you. The purity and intensity of your desire seems to awaken their womanly instincts and they can’t help but respond in kind. However it's not just lust that seems to be enhanced, in fact you will find that all positive emotions elves have towards you are amplified by a heavy amount.

An elf MILF that you stole from her husband would feel greater love and affection for you in days of constant lovemaking than in the years she spent in marriage to her husband, an elf priestess would feel a greater religious fervor serving you than she ever did with the goddess, and a elf warrior would feel greater loyalty serving you than she ever did serving her country. In general spending time with you or even just being around you brings them incomparable pleasure and satisfaction.

As a side effect this perk also makes elves you seduce more resistant to other beings seducing them as well.

Elf Eroge Protagonist (600 CP): You are an existence that the Goddess despises the most, you hentai protagonist. It's as if fate itself bends to help you get in lewd situations as much as possible. Scenarios that you get yourself in to can be as simple as “some elf innkeeper offering to let you stay the night for free, as long as you don’t mind sharing the bed with her”, to as complex as “a novice elf magician was practicing a sense enhancing spell close to where you were jacking off, and instantly got addicted to the smell and taste of your cum.” Let’s just say that you won’t be lacking somebody to warm your bed every night if you so desire. As a side bonus petty things that would get in the way of your elf fucking spree seem to fail at a gratifying rate. Powerful magic barriers created to keep you out by elf mages would fizzle out and leave the elf mage weak and ripe for fun, and elves almost never seem to actually try to kill you, but only incapacitate you and take you prisoner, giving you ample time to turn the tables on them.

Of course this perk doesn’t just give luck alone, your natural affinity with elves also grants you enhanced prowess when bedding an elf. Just roughly fondling some elven girl’s chest, genitals, or ears would provoke a cascade of orgasms. Even a complete novice in bed could give any elf a night to remember, and with enough experience you will forever carve yourself into the hearts of even the most hardened soldier, devoted wife or purest maiden with only a single night.

Elf

The Ageless (100 Restricted Elf): One of the greatest advantages that elves have over humans is their increased lifespan, measuring centuries where a human would have decades. By the time a human would be dirt in the ground an elf would be considered just barely a juvenile. Of course, how an elf ages tends to be dependent on their own wishes. There are stories of truly ancient elves having the appearance of a young girl, while other elves choose to age similarly to humans until they reach adulthood.

As an elf you can choose when you stop physically aging, appearing as a young girl, an adult in their prime of their life, or as a MILF/DILF that has aged like fine wine. Don't worry about how these changes would affect your body, as you can be assured that your sexual development will always be at the ready regardless of what appearance you choose to take. Also an added natural trait of elves is that anything that would normally mar their beauty such as scars or obesity, seem to have little effect. Deep scars fade away enough that they only serve to enhance your appearance, and of course any excess carbs that an elf eats goes straight to their chest or butt rather than form anything like a flabby stomach.

Elven Pleasure (100 CP): One of the many advantages that Elves have over humans is their exceptionally long lives, many elves have lived for centuries and a few even for a millenia. You'd think that living for so long would lead to dull lives as every day bleeds into each other, but you'd be wrong. It seems that elves, through some spiritual quirk which comes from their exceedingly long lives, are incredibly resistant to the rigors of old age, the bore of repeating something over and over again, and the loss of wonder and excitement from experiencing new things.

.....What does this do for sex? Well I suppose an elf would never get bored of it, that each time she gets fucked would be as if they had never had sex before. An elf that has been a person's sex slave for a decade would feel the same sense of pleasure, lust, and love as if they were broken in only days ago..... but why would a noble elf do something as undignified as that?

Usagi Beauty (200 CP):Damn, the elven race is naturally beautiful, but you seem to have been blessed by the goddess herself in the looks department. Whatever physical appearance you have chosen has been enhanced to what can be considered a pinnacle of beauty. Those who favor a more younger appearance will become incredibly cute, while those who look as adults will look jaw-droppingly sexy beyond what most human women could ever dream of becoming. It's almost as if your body was sculpted by the goddess herself. Of course you have more than just physical beauty, your movements are so incredibly graceful and fluid and your voice is melodious and beautiful to hear.

As a side effect, you can gain whatever unique hair color you desire. From the common blond, light green, or white, to rare hair colors like purple or red.

Elven Pride (200 CP): If there is one trait common to all elves it's pride. The ones that aren't outright arrogant tend to still be rather smug due to their superiority over the common human. With this however you won't run into any negative consequences from your inflated ego. Those around you would justify your..hard to get along with personality, after all it's not your fault that you are arrogant, that's just how elves are. As a side bonus you will also gain an increase in your abilities dependent on how prideful you are, with confidence seeing a slight boost and overwhelming arrogance boosting up your power and skills by quite a bit.

Of course there is a point where even the most tolerant of individuals will have enough of your shit and try to 'teach' you your place. So I hope you actually have the abilities to back up that ego of yours.

Ageless Talent (400 CP): Much of a younger elf's life is spent meticulously mastering a skill, focusing every day for years on improving their performance with an intensity that would baffle most humans. But such diligence pays off well as many elves are considered to be the undisputed masters in whatever field they study in. Choose a skill that you have studied and practiced for most of your lifetime to the point of mastery. An elven alchemist would have a vast knowledge of potions and medicines with a countless variety of effects. An elven archer could hit perfect bullseye at ranges that a normal human would balk at, while an elf swordmaster could fight many foes at once with a grace and lethality that would baffle the average fighter.

A Noble Blessing (400 CP): You weren't born to be just a common elf, but one who stands above other elves as a dominating presence. In the past it was common practice for famous elven heroines and commanders to receive a blessing from the goddess herself, one which made other elves instinctively feel them to be more charismatic and important compared to themselves. As a result many elves feel compelled to follow their orders and leadership and through this smoothly formed the first elven kingdoms. This blessing was passed down to all children these new monarchs and nobles had and serves as the basis of power for many of the elven nobility and royalty of today.

You can choose to either become the princess (or prince) of a smaller elvish kingdom, or become the child of an important noble in one of the greater elf kingdoms. Either position grants you greater resources than what a mere commoner could possess as well as the knowledge on how to lead and govern in your society, and since elf society tends to be rather static you'll have no worry about being removed from your current position of influence.

Some elves whisper that a corrupted elf queen once ordered her town to submit themselves to an invading force of orcs, and that the guard of the town rather than fight unconsciously dropped their weapons, but that's (probably) just hearsay.

High Elf (600 CP): When the goddess was making an elf kind she paid special attention when crafting the High Elves, whose purpose is to serve her as guardians of their kind and priestesses of her will. As a result High Elves have a slew of powerful traits and abilities that have them stand out from normal elves. Your bloodline, in addition to granting you a powerful raw talent in magic and a lifespan measured in millenia instead of centuries, also allows you to sense the flow of the world's magic around you, detecting any irregularities so that they can be corrected. The most potent ability of the High Elves however, is that they each are born with a divine connection to the goddess, and through that connection can cast potent 'miracles' that she channels through your body. While many of these miracles are of a more minor note, such as healing the sick or restoring the stamina of an exhausted elven warrior, occasionally she even deigns to grant powerful boons to her chosen, allowing them to call down vicious storms or arouse the spirits of nature to attack your enemies. Additionally, since they share a direct connection with the Goddess, other elves were spiritually programmed to treat them and their words with religious reverence that exceeds even the authority of elven monarchs, so you have a lot more social leeway and influence for whatever tasks you need done. As an added bonus, since the Goddess desired her chosen to stand above other elves, you are surprisingly tall too and possess much longer (and more sensitive) ears than the common elf. While High Elves are uniformly female, I'll allow you to become one as a male if you so wish.

The miracles the goddess grants you are especially potent if you are bathed in her divine mana near the Divine Trees. Be careful though as the farther you go from the Divine Trees (and the mana of the goddess) the weaker your miracles will get. If say, some random humans were to knock you out and bring you back to one of their cities or a magically warded area you'd be vulnerable to whatever deviant desires they may have. Any High Elf who finds themselves in this situation will find the voice of the goddess oddly silent to their pleas for help.

Oddly enough the few lust corrupted High Elves that exist claim that the Goddess has not abandoned them, instead gazing over in the perversions they are committing to the point where the High Elf can feel the intensity of her presence. One of these High Elves even went so far as to say that they heard a soft moaning on the other side of their connection to the Goddess. But that's probably just falsehoods they use to justify their debauchery.

Can Beat the D (600 CP): For countless millennia the Goddess has worked desperately to try to remove the spark of lust within her children, but no matter what she did or how she tried to tweak the mind and souls of the elves she created it persistently remained, in fact her meddling around occasionally caused some generations of elves to feel their lust even stronger than the generations before. Is this maybe because the lust originates not from the elves themselves, but from their creator? Why of course not, why would a perfect being like herself ever stoop to the level of fantasizing about fornicating like beasts. Obviously the lesser races are tainting her magic by their existence, or this section of the multiverse forces certain properties on her children that are out of her control, or a thousand other justifications and excuses she has come up with rather than ever admitting any imperfection on her part.

Which is why when you were born without the same spark of lust, she felt completely overjoyed, believing she had finally succeeded in her millennia long goal (only to her displeasure finding she could not copy over whatever trait you had to other elves). It seems that you are the only elf in this world's history who has resistance to lewdness, preventing you from being mind broken or corrupted like countless other elves. In fact you react with actual disgust instead of the 'disgust' that most other elves have about the idea of getting raped, and someone whose dick has made countless elven maiden submit would simply get an indifferent scoff from you, no matter what intense sexual torture he puts you through. You can choose whether this just makes it so that you're utterly asexual or just only get 'in the mood' when you choose to.

As an added bonus you also enjoy a blanket immunity to any and all forms of aphrodisiacs, mind control, or magic designed to inflame your lust, just in case some petty human alchemist tries to get 'clever'.

General Perks

Lewd World, Lewd Body, and Lewd Minds (Free/100 CP): Although that uptight goddess refuses to admit it, this world that she has created follows a common theme. Suppressed, or not so suppressed, perversions are rampant with almost every elven woman finding no comfort in the low sex drives of their male counterparts and becoming easy prey for other species with the sexual desire and stamina to satisfy them like men or orcs. Yet despite this the world is also host to the standard hentai tropes like people being able to orgasm multiple times in a row, certain ridiculously large ‘objects’ being able to fit inside genitalia and cause only pleasure instead of pain, and just generally everyone in the world is more focused on sex. Even a virgin elf, who never once thought about something lewd her entire long lifetime, would have a surprising affinity for the sexual arts.

For the standard 100 CP surcharge you can apply similar effects to future worlds. If the world you are entering has any elf population, or similar enough species, you will find them to be just as much a lustful parody of their ‘normal’ behavior as this world’s elves are.

Full Blooded Half Child (200 CP): In elven society the act of giving birth to a half elf is considered a huge cultural taboo. In places where the child isn’t just killed and the mother executed, they tend instead tend to face horrible discrimination. Also for a human, it can be really annoying, when the elf you impregnated promises to raise their daughter to be a ‘daddy’s girl’ and due to your human blood the elven daughter is not lewd, or the child is a son. Luckily with this perk those days are long gone. At will whenever you impregnate a girl or you yourself get pregnant, you can freely decide as well as the gender of the child and whether they are the father’s race or the mother’s race.

Interestingly enough, perhaps due to the more magical nature of elves superseding human biology, children born of incest who possess elven blood seem to be immune to the negative effects of inbreeding. Could be useful if you intend on encouraging family ‘bonding’.

Items

Fake Ears (100 CP Free Human): ...are these plastic? It seems that you have in your possession a pair of what looks like put on elf ears from a modern world. Looks can be deceiving however, as by wearing these cheap knock offs you seem to genuinely fool any elf that looks at you into believing that you are one of them. You can walk safely into any elf villages or cities and draw nothing but a few curious stares.

Of course be careful, while these ears may make you physically appear like an elf, many important elven locations, such as Divine Trees or royal palaces, are protected by magical sensors as well as physical guards, which will quickly mark you out for what you really are.

Elf Brothel (200 CP Discount Human): A high quality elf brothel, likely located in the City of Slaves. This palace of pleasure has likely been passed down in your family for quite a while, started first by your ancestor who broke down many of the elves who serve as prostitutes in the brothel today. Luckily, unlike many of the prospective slave owners, your ancestor took a few elven men to ensure that every once in a while he could replenish his stock of fresh full elves rather than being stuck with the used up and completely mindbroken full elves or their children who are increasingly having their own elven blood bred out through generations of interbreeding with pure humans. This makes the full elves you have here quite the commodity, allowing the brothel to earn you quite the tidy sum.

The actual administration of the brothel you can safely leave up to the Brothel's madam. A full elf, who was a young girl when the fall of her city happened, your ancestor took pity on her and took her in to save her from being used till her mind breaks like the rest of her city's elves. This made her very loyal to his family line, and she has endeavored to pay him back by ensuring the smooth running of the brothel for all his descendents. She actually is a pretty decent administrator and manager, ensuring the relative comfort of the prostitutes while also keeping the money flowing. Although she does take a perverted glee in breaking in new elves or watching the elf prostitutes at work, so maybe it's not entirely out of loyalty that she's managing the brothel.

While the brothel is capable of producing some full elves given enough time, you could also 'supply' them with new blood from your own little adventures.

“Mysterious” Magical Mirror (400 CP Discount Human): A long time ago, an infamous elven archmage betrayed her species, working with a long forgotten human noble to destroy the magical defenses that kept humans out, and leave countless elves vulnerable to their perversions. Even now, the vast majority of elven slaves in human territory are either a product or a result of this one archmage's actions (and many are descendants of the noble himself who gleefully took to the 'spoils' of war). Eventually however the elven archmage was struck down by an elven heroine, and the Goddess, once she received her soul, punished her personally by trapping her in a magic mirror, one that deprives all sensation to those trapped within it, a horrible fate for one who was so enthralled with the pleasure of the flesh. Thus she served as a lesson taught to all elves about embracing pleasure and betraying the goddess. As for the mirror itself, it was stashed away in some hidden place never to see the light of day again. Well that is until you stumbled on it while exploring some old elven ruins.

Rather overjoyed at finally having someone to interact with after being isolated for years, she immediately went into her pitch. Yes she is, unfortunately, trapped in this mirror with her magic sealed away and unable to interact with the world at large. She still, however, is one of the greatest mages in the world and if you help her out with her little situation she'll 'help' you too. The archmage possesses a large amount of lewd spells whose variety and intensity is matched only by her own perversions. Everything from simple spells that can multiply an elf's sexual sensitivity, to spells that allow you to temporarily clone yourself to indulge in gangbangs, to even creating large ritual areas that inflame the lust of all elves within it. While you may not possess magic yourself, she knows a host of rituals that will allow you to sap magic energy from either nature or other 'willing' elves. Although she has spent so long creating lewd spells she kind of only knows a few weak magics that can actually be used for combat, which probably explains how she was killed in the first place.

In return for allowing you to use her grand magical knowledge, all she asks for is your help in getting her freedom. You see in her captivity she has devised a spell which she believes can allow her to temporarily escape the mirror, all she needs is for you to capture another elf and use her body as a vessel for the archmage's soul. The elf's own soul will then take her place in the mirror and can do nothing but watch as her body is used for whatever perverted whims the archmage has. The swap lasts for a few weeks before the mirror switches her back forcibly, but the archmage has many 'ideas' about how to put that time to good use. She always wanted to act as a innocent elven wife gleefully cheating on her husband with a human's dick, or a loyal elven handmaiden that turns her noble master into a cocksleeve, or a wise queen who gleefully betrays her people by letting someone have free reign over her body in public, or.... Well you get the idea. Of course, after she had her 'fun' and when they are switched back the original elf is now stuck in the body that has been lewdly trained by the archmage and yourself, with who knows how many 'fun' spells attached to ensure they sink right back into depravity.

She's actually a decent enough actor that most elves don't pick up on that their 'friends' body is being possessed. Although she does have a habit of using illusion magic to hide the mirror and letting the trapped elf get a full view of whatever degrading acts the archmage is having her body do. Unfortunately if the mirror ever gets destroyed the arch mage's souls will go up along with it, so I'd advise you to be really careful when handling it.

Amazonian Elf Forest (600 CP Discount Human): There are countless elf villages hidden away in forests, so many that it is said even the goddess herself has lost track. Due to their isolation a good amount of the villages tend to develop certain 'odd' traditions or cultures. But this abnormally large village is particularly crazy. First off, the elves here don't worship the goddess at all, which is virtually unheard of in even the most remote of elven villages, in fact they seem to resent her and chase out any traveling High Elf priestess that wishes to convert them. Secondly there seems to be no mages or magic users anywhere in the village as if magic has been taken away from them. Third and finally, perhaps to compensate for the lack of magic, the elves in this village have formed a very martial oriented society. Every single elf in the village is trained to be at least competent in fighting, and their soldiers are particularly elite.

Of course while the village might have been strong in battle, they had no defense when ten years ago a sickness struck their village. Weirdly the sickness seemed to have struck down all of the men of the village while the women escaped relatively unscathed. Of course, without any men around and the village disliking outsider elves, this left the women in the village in with a bit of a conundrum. Which was happily solved when you just walked into the village and were immediately jumped by its various thirsty inhabitants.

While you're plowing the chieftess in the village council room she says she is willing to cut you a deal. If you were to become the village's breeding stud then you can use this village for whatever you want. Everything from turning the people here into your own personal elf broodmares, having them sneak out and kidnap other elves for your own pleasure, or just rallying them to fight if you ever needed a small army.

Oddly enough this village seems to have some sort of field around it that greatly weakens any magic used within it while also preventing magical means of scrying out its location or finding anyone hidden within it, meaning that if you were to ever to capture some sort of magically powerful individual, like say a High Elf, this village is the perfect place to imprison them for training.

Elf

Traditional Elven Outfits (100 CP Free Elf): The elves in this world are known for their excellent craftsmanship and these magically enchanted clothes are no exception. Your choice of voluminous or skimpy. Not only do these clothes look good and fit you well, but they also are super comfy and magically enchanted to provide protection from the elements as well as remain maintained and pristine even in the dirtiest of environments.

Lambas Bread (200 CP Discount Elf): With the high prevalence of magic among the elf race, it's no surprise that they have found ways to enchant many common items, for instance, food and drink. In particular you have here a month's worth of some of the highest quality magic bread within all of the elven kingdoms. The magic in the bread, not only preserves the food perfectly no matter what environmental conditions it may be exposed too, but also adds needed nutrients within it that lets it act as a substitute for normal rations. A common traveling food among elves, it is said that a small bite is enough to satiate an adult for the whole day. You have enough to keep you well fed for a month long trip, and know the recipe to make more.

Though most elves would normally never share this bread with a human, on a few rare occasions it seems that consuming this bread also increases the sexual stamina of other races, which is odd as it seems to do no such thing for elves. Maybe the lingering elven magic is the cause of such an odd reaction?

Sacred Barrier Shield (400 CP Discount Elf): After a strong elf kingdom fell to human conquerors a century ago you can appreciate that the sense of safety elves had nurtured for millennia has been ruptured. In response to potential future incursions by human invaders, many elven enchanters started creating a device that would project powerful barrier magic to surround elf territory to prevent humans from entering. Of course such devices vary in effectiveness, with some perfectly keeping any intruders out while others are able to prevent armies but not single individuals from slipping in.

This powerful enchanted shield is one of the better ones though, and when active projects a barrier around wherever it's set up that blocks any non elf from entering the area. The actual specifics of the barrier are up to you, it can range from trapping human intruders in an illusion that leads them out, to compelling unauthorized individuals to leave immediately, to just being an invisible wall. It would require some strong magic to bypass or break your barrier. Of course if you ever need to, you can 'invite' humans or others into the barrier, though I can't imagine what for.

Post jump you can adjust the barrier to keep out everyone except those you allow in.

Divine Tree Seed (600 CP Discount Elf): The divine trees are a symbol of both the Goddess's power and the prosperity of the elven race as a whole. When in full maturity these trees are a huge fountain of magical energy. The surrounding environment around the tree becomes fertile and full of life, while elves will brim with vigor, life, and become much stronger mentally, making them much more resistant to being mind broken or seduced by the first human who walks here expecting an easy target. Traditionally a High Elf caretaker is assigned to watch over the tree and use its vast power over nature to protect its elven inhabitants. The trees also act as both sacred religious ground to the elves and an area where High Elves can commune with the goddess herself through visions and feelings, and sometimes even direct blessings. The only problem with these trees is their growth rate, just like how it takes an elf many centuries to grow into what can be considered an 'elder' so too do these trees take a millennium to grow into adulthood.

However you seem to have got your hands on a special seed blessed by the goddess herself. Coming to maturity supernaturally quick after being planted. The elven goddess can also use this tree and a channel to reach into whatever dimension you plant the tree in. While she is separated from the majority of her worshippers and weakened she still is capable of providing useful blessings upon her beloved elven children.

Companions

Another Traveler (50/300 CP): Perhaps you have friends who wish to join you on your elf lewding adventures, or maybe you have a certain lewd elf in mind you wish to create for yourself. Well for 50 CP a pop you can either import or create a companion who gains an origin and 600 CP to spend on perks and items. For a deal I'll even give you a whole 8 companions under the same option for only 300 CP instead.

Elf Slave Harem (100 CP): You likely are going to get more than your fair share of devoted elves that won't be able to live without you, at that point wouldn't it just be cruel to abandon them? Well for 100 CP I'll allow you to take any number of willing elves on your trips across the multiverse. I hope you have somewhere to keep them all. Each elf counts as a follower, but you can choose to import some as companions if you have favorites.

OC Companions: Perhaps you want some faces and personalities to pad out the elf masses you will be seducing. Well this is a list of potential gals you might be interested in. These companion options assume you have taken the Human origin, but feel free to make up your own story about how you recruited them if you are an elf.

Tier 1 (One Free/50 CP for all)

Elf Christmas Cake: Nearly 900 years old yet still single, this green haired elf is well past the age where other elves consider searching for a spouse to be disgraceful. Which is unfortunate, as all that time has aged her like fine wine. Having been barred from finding a husband among elven men, her thoughts naturally turned to the men of other races instead. After all, she heard that humans go after all elves regardless of age, perhaps she can nab herself a human husbando instead. Of course on her travels she bumped into you and it was love at first sight. By the end of the day she was so head over heels for you that she proposed right there and then. Assuming of course you'd accept she would become absolutely overjoyed, and immediately move in to wherever you were staying or tagging along with you if you are traveling.

While she is pretty useless in a fight, she has been studying the household arts for all of her long life making her skills as a housewife legendary. Cooking absolutely perfect meals, cleaning with a precision and focus closer to that of a machine, and she's even very good at taking care of kids, ensuring any children you have between her or other elves are content and happy.

Personality wise she prefers to play the part of a doting older sister to you, always fussing over you and injecting plenty of teasing into the conversation. There are times where her true age shows and gives out surprisingly wise advice to yourself and others. Of course she is also very enthusiastic about starting your honeymoon, and after a while will start to wear more suggestive clothing and create lewd situations between the two of you until you get the hint. Of course once you finally take her to bed she has centuries of accumulated lust she wants to get out of her system. She's also surprisingly dominant in bed.

Dark Elf Guard: STOP RIGHT THERE! This dark elf knows exactly what a lecherous human like you is planning, and that is fucking any elven maiden you come across with no regard for decency. Well not on her watch, although she knows you plan on drenching her with your sticky white stuff so that she can only think about your cock, she has no choice but to use her body as a shield to protect the public! Never mind the fact that she thinks literally everything you do has some perverted purpose. Never mind that for a supposed guard the moment she sees you she drops everything to fuck you. She also is quite free telling you any ‘secure’ information while you are fucking her brains out.

She also has the weirdest luck with getting hired as a guard around your location no matter where you might go.

NTR'D Elf Family (Incompatible with Monogendered): This happy mother, father, and daughter trio is the epitome of a happy and traditional elf family. After a few decades of chaste courtship they got married, and after a few more decades had their first child, a beautiful and compassionate daughter. While the elf mother dearly wished to have more children the father refused believing that one child is enough. So the mother gave up her dream to raise her daughter with love and care, while burying her own rising lust for years, and years, and years... One day, however, the daughter brought back someone unexpected, a stray human who had wandered into their village, you. While the daughter cheerfully got to know her “new best friend” the mother was more suspicious, she has heard many tales about the depraved lust of human men and she wondered if you had similar perverted plans for her family, and before she knew it she felt her womb quiver and the lust she restrained for decades coming back in full force.

The moment that even the slightest hint of perversion starts to show in you, even something as minor as a quick glance at her and her daughter's curves, is the moment she takes you aside and makes a deal. She and her husband dearly wish for their daughter to follow normal elf traditions, one of which is to remain a virgin before her marriage to another elf. However, she knows that as a human you can't help but crave to dominate nubile elven bodies with ill intent, so in order to protect her daughter she will 'sacrifice' her body to satiate your lust. This is just to help her daughter, she tells herself, there is no way that she'd come to enjoy you fucking her behind her husband and daughter's back or have her thoughts filled less and less about taking care and loving her husband and more and more about you. Her corruption will start small at first, like accidentally calling you honey, or leaving her husband to spend more time with you, but will gradually accumulate until she willingly drags you into her and her husband's marriage bed, at which she has completely fallen to you.

If you hint at it, the Mother will be all too happy to integrate her beloved daughter into the new family dynamics. The daughter loves her mother dearly, but she was a bit saddened that her new human best friend seemed to be spending more time with her mother than herself. So when her mother invited the daughter to play some new 'games' with you two she was overjoyed. She especially likes the new game where you insert your 'horn' into her and thrust in and out quickly while her mother roughly gropes her chest and whispers dirty things in her ear that makes her feel hot. Her mother is even helping her get better at these games like switching her wardrobe into more revealing or form fitting outfits and teaching her new fun words to say to help make you happy. She will try her best to follow her mom's advice because she wants to be the best daughter and friend she can be! Though she is a bit confused when 'playing' her mother pleads for you to give her "another daughter to train, and a granddaughter to spoil".

Of course during this whole process the Father remains in the dark about the gradual corruption of his family. He's heard bad things about humans but seeing how happy his wife and daughter are around you obviously you are one of the good ones. You can stay at his house as long as you need, and he'll even let you take his bed while he stays on the couch so long as you don't mind his wife sleeping beside you. The Mother seems to take a perverse joy in having riskier and more public lewd acts around him, like 'accidentally' dropping a utensil during dinner and then enjoying a salty desert, or having a polite conversation with her husband while you are pounding her hard just out of his sight. The Father is dense enough to never catch it on his own, but if you were to nudge events a bit for him to discover you his wife would give a lengthy speech which basically amounts to "elven men are inferior to humans" while embracing you passionately. Though oddly enough he seems to never bring this up afterwards, although you can swear that when your having sex with the Mother or Daughter that someone is watching you.

Once her family is all sorted out the Mother will become very content, although she does wonder if perhaps she should help her fellow elven families experience the joy her family received from you as well....

Half Elf Outcast: Half Elves tend to get a raw deal in this world, as usually they are either killed as 'rape' babies, raised to be a slut just like their mother, or cast aside by lust maddened elves. This unfortunate girl was one of the latter cases, her father being some human mercenary who, after she was born, got bored and left and the mother being some dark elf barmaid who took the line "I can't live without your cock" a bit too literally and killed herself after he left. As soon as she could take care of herself the rest of her family kicked her out to fend for herself, which given that humans hate elves for arrogance and don't accept half bloods and elves despise the idea of any of their species being 'defiled' by a filthy human, meant a rather abusive and desperate childhood.

Despite all of this trauma, the girl seems to be remarkably cheerful and positive with the ability to warm anyone's heart and get them to drop their guard. She greatly longs for friendship and family that has been denied to her and if you show even the slightest bit of compassion for her she will immediately latch onto you as a substitute father. You'll find that her time fending for herself has left her rather street smart, making her quick on the uptake, and a fast learner. She will try her absolute hardest to be the best daughter ever for you. Of course while she has a daddy now, she also longs for a real huge family as well, something she will try to push you into making during your travels. Maybe a couple of dozen elf mommies to spoil her and a hundred little sisters for her to play with will fill the void in her heart?

Tier 2 (One Free/50 CP each)

Elf Alchemist: It's commonly believed among elves that those who delve into the greater mysteries of alchemy beyond just healing tend to be...unstable. Whether those rumors are true or not this elf, possessing a mane of dark red hair and a rather startling gleam in her green eyes, is doing little to prove them wrong. She has done countless tests and trials on the bodies of many species, elves being the first among them. The results of her tests have led to a rather startling conclusion for her, the entire elf race was created by the goddess not to be the masters of the world like the rest of the elves believe, but rather to act as loyal slaves and sex relief to other species.

While other elves may have been horrified by this revelation or deny it outright, this alchemist simply accepted the idea and walked calmly back to her bed so that she could masturbate furiously over the idea in peace. As an unbiased advancer of progress, she decided, it was her duty to 'correct' the current elf attitude and help them accept their purpose as sex toys. Over the years she has created a vast stockhouse full of potions and alchemic brews, all for the purpose of restoring the elven race to its proper form. All she needed now was a proper human stud to put her plans into motion, and when she saw you she knew it was time to start.

While normally elf senses are capable of picking up on aphrodisiacs and other such contaminants put into their food and drink, the alchemist has created a potent aphrodisiac that even the most cautious of elves can't sense until they feel their whole body alight with lust. She has also designed a potent sexual enhancer that can make her stud into an even more outrageous beast that could conquer a whole kingdom's worth of elves in a night. It's not just aphrodisiacs she has in stock though, she has many more potions she wants to try out. A gender change potion to ensure that the elven men can join their wives and daughters in serving you, an age changing potion that can turn an elf's physical appearance into whatever age they desire, a potion that causes a massive increase in curves, and many, many more. Unfortunately while she can make great potions and magical brews she can't cook actual food to save her life, something she is really sensitive about.

Taking advantage of her alchemist prowess she seems to delight in changing her own body everyday into a new form for you to dominate, going from acting like an innocent young elf girl just helping her 'big brother' one day, and into a voluptuous adult whose every movement oozes sensuality, the next.

Elf Adventurer: Considering how boring a younger elf's life tends to be, it's no surprise that many of them strike out as adventurers. Many elf adventurers lose the disdain that usually defines their race, as they interact with others. Of course, given how this world is, the majority of the time these elves either get addicted to pleasure and turn into prostitutes, or become the sex slaves of one of their party members. This elf adventurer who seems determined to form a party with you is different however, despite this common trend she still retains the idea that "Elves are a proud and noble race, we are not lewd."

She does have the skills to back up her claim however, being a talented wizard who can easily explode monsters, and also is a good cook. Just don't taunt her about becoming the party's cocksleeves, as you'll never hear the end of it with her protests. Of course beneath that 'dignified' exterior is a secret. The reason why her magic is so strong is because she practices forbidden magic of olden times that draws on the natural lewdness of elves to manifest far greater power than a mage could normally. Of course using such power comes at a perverted cost, her lust will build up and eventually explode leaving her sex crazed for days and needing satisfaction now. After you "helped" her once on an adventure during an episode when it went out of control she seems to have calmed down a bit and actually feels a bit more loyalty to the party and affection for you. She still insists that she is not lewd, but given her 'episodes' she usually proves the opposite.

Dark Elf Maid: Dark elves becoming mercenaries is not that uncommon a thing, many of them are used to being more martially inclined than a normal elf and they lack the forest communities or cities that other elf species have. This large-chested dark elf mercenary, however, committed some grievous act against her previous employer who wanted to have revenge against her. Trading her armor and sword for a skimpy maid costume and feather duster and forcing her under a magical contract to become the slave of the first person they came across on their travels, you.

Of course moving from a talented bodyguard and warrior to a mere maid is rather shocking to her, and she especially balks at the idea of serving something as weak as a human. Her first couple of weeks under you are going to be fraught with failure as she will likely mess up on even the most basic of tasks out of sheer ignorance, while also taking any chance she can to disparage you. Of course you will find a turning point in this relationship the moment you start enforcing discipline through sex. At first of course, she will feel great disgust as a being she considers a lower life form defiles her body, however something that both of you will notice is that a crest will come into existence over her womb the moment your cum goes into her.

It seems that her previous employer was not content with just enslaving her, they also wanted to degrade her as much as possible. This handy little crest has two handy little effects, the first being that she will feel great pleasure whenever she is submissive to you, and second her sense of smell and taste have been enhanced when tasting or being around you and/or your cum finding both to be intoxicatingly good. The crest is also self-reinforcing, gradually increasing in size and power until she has completely given her heart, mind, and soul to you. She will of course resist at first, but gradually as the pleasure starts building up she will find herself actively enjoying submitting to you. Eventually she will completely give in, and swear to live the rest of her life as “your loyal dark elf sex maid”.

After practicing enough, you will actually find her to be rather talented in the housework duties she failed completely in before. Of course whenever you are around she eagerly does her best to provoke you into sex, ‘innocently’ leaning over to give you a full view of her cleavage when serving your meals or bending over and showing off her ass whenever she needs to do some cleaning. She also seems to have developed a deep seated fetish for your cum, relishing in getting back to work with a full load on her face, chest, or in herself. However, don’t take her radical change to submissive maid as meaning she has given up on fighting, in fact after obtaining someone she wants to protect even with her life she has thrown herself into training with an outstanding vigor. Now always having quite a few knives tucked away in her uniform the moment you’re threatened she will leap into action and ‘take out the trash’.

She’s also a real big glutton, although in true hentai fashion all the carbs go to all the right places. Of course once she submits she will tone it down to more properly serve you, but she now feels the need to coat her own meals with your cum “as a delicious and filling sauce”.

Elf Sisters: Usually humans tend to avoid the heavily forested areas of the world as most elves do not take kindly to their presence, and usually give a swift death to or drive off intruders. However, this pair of elven sisters had a different plan when they saw you trespassing. You see, their village has had a population issue for quite some time, most of the males elves of their village just don't seem to care about reproducing, and the few that do might as well not even bother for the amount of times they do it per year. But even the most remote of elven maidens have heard stories about the great perversions and sexual endurance of a human man. So they come to you with a heartfelt plea, please would you breed with them in order to repopulate their village. They will help you with anything you need and allow you to satisfy your lusts, however you want, with their bodies so long as you impregnate them and allow them to send their children back to their village.

Of course spend long enough around the two and you'll begin to notice some distinct differences between the two. The Older sister, while a proficient archer and hunter, is... lewd. You're fairly certain if she could spend the entire day being wildly fucked by you she would, and she has no shame in saying whatever filthy things you want to get you in the mood. Meanwhile the younger sister, who in contrast to her sister is a skilled swordfighter, is a bit more standoffish, always taking the chance before sex to say that she's only doing this to repopulate her village and its not like she likes you or anything. Don't mistake this talk for reluctance however, because in the heat of passion she is just as lewd, if not more so, as her sister.

Before coming with you they both participated in a ritual under their divine tree to help boost their own fertility and ensure that the children they have would be full elves and not half, but it seems that really went all out on granting this request. Both sisters seem to have drastically reduced pregnancy time, giving birth in only a month rather than a year as is normal with elves. Let's just say that if you are diligent in your 'job' the village won't have to worry about dying out anytime soon. Problems with repeat births are no problem at all.

Tier 3 (One Free/100 CP each)

Half Elf Hypnotist: Purpled haired and voluptuous, this half elf was abandoned by her mage father and high elf mother when she was a young child, raising herself alone, subjected to hatred and discrimination by the elves of her home country, and as a result has come up with a rather perverted revenge plan. She decided the best way to fix life for other half elves was to increase their numbers and start up their own nation. To that end she created a new form of magic, hypnosis and brainwashing, to allow her to easily ‘convince’ the stuck up elves that looked down on her to donate their bodies to this endeavor. And if she finds personal enjoyment in seeing them fucked silly by a human that they so looked down upon before... well that’s just a happy coincidence. All she needs now is a human stud to put her plans into action, a stud she found in you.

She will provide as many elf fucktoys as you desire, and all she asks in return is for you to impregnate as many of them as possible to give birth to a new generation of half elves. A proactive force in increasing your harem, her hypnosis magic is a bit in the early stages right now, being restricted to only affecting one person per cast and only partially being able to control them through modifying their common sense. She hopes, however, to gain enough experience through rigorous ‘tests’ on other elves to eventually be able to project a large wave that can brainwash a whole kingdom of elves, from the greatest high elves to the lowest elven housewife, into instantly becoming your loyal slaves.

As you can guess she is quite enthusiastic about degrading the full elves into being sex slaves, but is also very empathetic to other half elves like herself or other victims of prejudice.

High Elf Priestess: Black haired and wearing some fetishized nun outfit that she fills out very well, this elf is...odd. Originally a pious priestess of the goddess like most high elves, while sequestered away in prayer one day she received a powerful prophetic vision. It was her, in the throes of passion leading a congregation of similarly ecstatic elves as a divine figure moved between each one bestowing his 'blessing' upon them. Young elf or old, full blooded or half, commoner or noble, none of that mattered as elves were all united under the pleasure this divine figure brought. Even long after the vision passed she remained obsessed with making it a reality, so when she met you and sensed the same 'divine' light she felt so ecstatic she immediately threw herself at your feet in submission begging you to take her just like how you did in the vision. Ever since she has followed you around loyally, attempting to draw as many other elves as she can into her 'congregation'.

Her sermons seem to revolve around propping you up as some grand sexual figure and encouraging other elves to be the best devotees (slaves) they can be for you, which is surprisingly effective in drawing in elf converts. Though given how sexually repressed elves tend to be and her knack for spinning a story from existing religions and goddess worship into messages about the need for elves to submit to you, perhaps it's not that surprising. The innate sense of sacredness that other elves instinctually attribute to High Elves making even her more perverted monologues seem deeply profound, doesn't hurt either.

The oddest thing about this elf, is that somehow her faith in you has installed in her the ability to grant perversions of the blessings and powers that the goddess bestows on her followers, despite not drawing energy from the goddess anymore (or you if you don't have any perks to bestow power upon followers). Some of her 'holy' powers include shooting ropes of light that restrain and tease captured elves in lewd ways, blessing elven women with improved fertility and safe births (and increased sex drives), and even granting church followers divine 'revelations' like her own (really just lewd dreams that increase their obsession with you). She also has crafted a ritual, which basically consists of the three of you participating in a kinky night of sex where the elf swears her soul to you, where she ascends a particularly faithful elf into a priestess like her as well. After the ritual the elf will receive the ability to use holy magic similar to the priestesses' own, although their strength in it depends on their faith towards you. Now if only they could wipe the ahegaos off their faces when using it...

As a side, she also is a quite skilled tailor able to make all sorts of outfits with a precision and pace that others would envy. She is very happy making outfits for others, and even happier when you defile them in these outfits too.

Elf Heroine: This regal and charismatic blond haired elf is an ancient and well respected elf heroine. Over the course of her long life she has fought off countless monster and human attacks on elf villages, fighting with such fierceness that it is rumored she could face 100 soldiers by herself. Heroic speeches come naturally to her, and she cares deeply about the safety of elves everywhere. Of course hidden behind her heroic appearance lies a much darker side, one that sees the pleasure in those she 'saves' and fantasizes about not only embracing it for herself, but using her vast strength to help enslave the rest of the elves as well. Of course she would never admit the desire out loud, and does her absolute best to push that down into the dark corners of her mind.

Somewhere along her way she saw you however, and those desires rushed back directly to her brain. Before she knew what she was doing, she offered you to be her squire, despite the normal elf prejudice, and she seems perfectly okay with following whatever your travel plans were. She'll talk a noble game about "protecting innocent elf maidens from perverted humans" but the moment she sees you fucking some elven girl she will immediately hide away and pleasure herself to the sight.

Fuck enough elves under her watch, and her lust and perversion will build up to the point where eventually at camp she will offer her body to satisfy your lust to 'protect her people', and if she gets off on the idea of you treating a noble elf hero like her as a common whore or fantasises about you fucking her in full view of the elven people who believed in her while declaring her loyalty to your dick, well that's completely inconsequential.

If you however, were to command her to bring you one of the pure elven maidens she offered her body to 'protect' you will see a profound change come over her. She will of course meekly try to refuse, but put only the tiniest bit of pressure in her and her facade crumbles in an instant. In fact when she brings your target to you she will take to helping you 'tame' her with a shocking enthusiasm, firmly coaxing her to "accept her natural place as your fuck toy". At this point, not only does she have no reservations about her previous duty, but she actively enjoys betraying her people to you and will take to capturing the targets of your desires and destroying all who oppose you with glee. If she ever were to encounter a young elf heroine with a lot of potential like herself, she will take immense satisfaction in training her into a perverted fallen heroine loyal to you just like herself.

On a less lewd note, for some reason, she just loves to make magic related puns when fighting. Frost and foremost, she uses ice magic solely so she can tell the whole list of bad ice puns whenever she gets into a fight. Post-corruption her puns will get even worse, and she will include a lewd innuendo in nearly every fight she gets into.

Elf Princess: Although this princess is young (by elven standards), she is also a natural prodigy both as a leader and as a military commander. She is well loved by the elven people and has cultivated many friendships among both nobility and commoners alike, while many human raiders or slavers (or really any human unlucky enough to stray too close to the kingdom's borders) has met their end by her sword.

She often wondered what drives humans to keep on throwing their short lives away by attacking elf territory. She, of course, had heard the courtly gossip about your kind, that duchess sleeps with her human 'attendant' rather than her husband, another young elven noble eloped with a human slave before her arranged marriage, and much more. She dismissed such talk though, why would any elf ever downgrade themselves to being a human's wife, or even worse in her eyes a human's fuckslave, when they can instead enjoy a centuries long marriage with another elf. A cold, passionless marriage where according to the goddess's teachings elves must avoid all physical intimacy except for what is necessary and that any pleasure you feel when your body is wrapped with another is sinful.... Her curiosity pushed her to kidnap you while sleeping to psychologically analyze how a species as emotional as humans actually behaved.

Of course then you awoke, pinned her down and had your way with her. The rush of emotions she felt for you, lust and pleasure, and that she felt from you completely overwhelmed her. She felt greater joy with a few minutes of wild lovemaking with you, then in the years of navigating the empty plots and schemes of the elven noble court. Her curiosity turned into infatuation with you, and she very quickly cleared you as a human servant for her just so that she could keep you close by and come back to you again and again. She tries to act like she's the dominant one in the relationship, but just as her infatuation turns into an addiction, you could very easily turn the tables on her and have her declare herself your servant instead.

However, the passion you bring to her isn't something she wants to feel alone, her fellow nobles too caught up in their schemes and the monotony of the court to truly appreciate life, her sisters and friends trapped in their own loveless arranged marriages, and even her own mother stressed running the whole kingdom, she wants to share your love with them all. She is more than willing to use her influence as the kingdom's princess, her knowledge about its strengths and weaknesses, and her connections with any significant elves you need to 'convince' to your side to take apart her kingdom from the top down and help them all become the loyal elven concubines they were born to be. It's fine if she has to use shady means to help you 'secure' their loyalty, after all, sharing you with everyone is for the good of the elven race. Under her guidance you could quickly turn her noble elven kingdom from an example of purity and devotion into your own personal pleasure land. It is also kind of impressive how quickly she can switch from a patriotic and dignified elven princess to your loyal elven cocksleeve whenever it's required of her.

Outside of directly helping you dominate her targets, she seems to have taken it upon herself to organize your 'conquests' into an efficient and proper harem to ensure your happiness and comfort. She is rather skilled in making sure that you are always being waited on hand and foot by many eager elves, while also including enough variety in her 'selection' that you will never get bored. Wake up in the morning and a lovely elf maid will be there to serve you a luxurious breakfast, and a side of her own body. Then perhaps afterwards she has the Dark Elf captain of the royal guard meet you for 'training' while her soldiers watch eagerly, or perhaps you'd rather help 'improve' relations with a visiting foreign dignitary? And for the evening maybe you'd like to have herself, her mother, and her sisters for a royal 'feast'?

Scenarios

Corruption of the Goddess

Perhaps you are a human aiming big, or an elf who believes the puritan tyranny of your creator must end. No matter who you are, by taking this scenario you wish to challenge the goddess of the elves herself. In order to do so you must 'convince' the majority of the elves in this world to worship the goddess in a new form, free from the ideals of purity she taught them. Of course corrupting the goddess through the elves is easier said than done, as the concepts of purity and repression have been so thoroughly engraved into the elven public that trying to change it would be incredibly difficult, even with their suppressed perversions. Not to mention that if the Goddess catches wind of what you are doing she will desperately try to stop it. Luckily for you, while she can act indirectly such as having her High Elves convince the elven nations to raise armies against you or try to smite you with their miracles, the goddess herself can not directly intervene by some sort of ancient law she is bound by. However, in order to ensure your victory you are likely going to need to target the High Elves and either eliminate them or 'convert' them, lest the goddess use them as a counterbalance to whatever actions you are trying to achieve.

To achieve victory you need to convince more than half of the elves of the world to believe in your own version of the goddess, and worship her in the appropriate ways. Perhaps convincing elves to reverse rape the many species that want to have sex with them, or in reverse convincing them that elves find happiness submitting themselves sexually to other species. Either way, once you have gained enough 'faithful' followers you can enact a ritual to give the goddess an avatar in the world. More specifically though, you will use the elves' corrupted faith to conjure a body shaped by their collective perversions and force the goddess into it by overpowering the wishes of her non corrupted followers. Once in the body the goddess will find her mind overpowered by the wishes of the elves, and will be weak and disoriented enough for you to make the 'kill' on her. Once she gives in, her mind and soul will be transformed, turning her godly domains of pride, beauty, nature, and purity into whatever you convince the elves to worship her as.

Reward: As thanks for showing her the ‘light’ the newly reborn elven goddess will follow you on your multiversal travels, helping teach the elves throughout many worlds the lessons you have now engraved on her soul. Even in other worlds she still retains her authority as the goddess of elves and as such shares a powerful spiritual connection with every elf in the world.

As such they will gradually start to find themselves physically and mentally shift into what the goddess now believes is the ‘ideal’ elf. This can range from elves acting no different from succubi, elves feeling an instinctual need to submit and serve other races as housewives or just as servants and slaves, or just turning every elf into a lust starved bimbo willing to fuck literally everything. Although the speed in which they transform is dependent on their own power in comparison to how much the goddess has stored up, a sufficiently powerful elf could potentially resist the transformation or get another god to interfere if they become aware of it. Fortunately for the goddess she also retains the ability to create elves, and even use a large amount of power to ‘ascend’ any elf, created or otherwise, into a new High Elf to act as priestesses to spread her power and message to all of elf kind. Buyer’s remorse is in full effect so make sure that whatever you transform the goddess into is something you would really enjoy.

Drawbacks

World of Elves (+0 CP): When the Elven Goddess created this world she thought “why include any other lesser race at all?” So as a result, no humans, orcs, or any race other than elves exist. This of course means that as a non elf you’d be a unique existence and as a regular elf you’d be a lot safer from being seduced/cucked by the other races.

On the other hand the different elven groups are a lot more hostile to each other, with many groups causing infighting and wars among their species no different then humanity. If you take this option and come in as a human, other elves will be unaware of your true nature and, of course, since the elves also greatly suffer from species wide sexual frustration with no plausible alternatives or prejudices they are much easier to seduce.

This option of course removes the existence of half elves, so any companions that are a half elf can not be recruited.

Monogendered (+0 CP): The Goddess had another thought, why include any elven men at all? Sex is the absolute filthiest act an elf can do, so why not remove the need for it completely? So with a wave of her hand the elven race was made all women. From now on, whenever an elf wants or needs a child they can take a pilgrimage to a Divine Tree and be blessed with a child there.

Recently however there has been some trouble with this system. The Divine Trees have been unable to grant children to those who desire them, leaving many in the elf race cautious and uncertain about their future. Perhaps the key to their races survival lies in the men of other races, who they seemingly can crossbreed with. Of course the goddess would never condone such acts, but you will find quite a few elves willing Honey Traps (+0 CP Incompatible with Monogendered): Wait a minute I thought the option to turn all elves into girls was above this? Why does it seem that whenever you enter an elf town it's crawling with girls? Well, you see jumper, a good portion of the 'females' you see happen to have some extra equipment packed on. In this world elven men are incredibly feminine, to the point where many could be mistaken for flat chested girls. This little transformation also applies the same innate lewdness that elf females have to their male counterparts as well, just in case you wanted to have some 'fun' with them too. Oddly enough the more they give in to other males the more feminine they become, even potentially coming to the point where they'd become fully female themselves if 'broken in' enough.

By taking this you can also change the gender of the offered OC companions to male if you prefer.

Filthy Beast (+0 CP/+100 CP Required Human Origin): Of course humans aren't the only creatures that can 'prey' on elf-kind, for no added surcharge I'll turn you into a hulking orc instead. As an orc you get a boost in strength but unfortunately your orc brethren are as sharp as a dull knife and most races consider your kind to be fit for nothing but extermination. You could always rally them and go on a raping spree or just strike out alone. There could be quite a few female elves that would be very interested in 'befriending' you. You can also choose to become the much weaker part of the horde, the goblins, for an extra 100 CP for yourself.

In the case of this option, just replace any mention of human with your chosen race instead.

Elves Are Lewd (+0 CP Required Elf): and now so are you. The elves of this world all share a similar weakness which they inherited from the goddess herself. To put it plainly, your thoughts tend to get dyed pink with a much greater ease, the moment anything sexual comes up expect you to become easily flustered and distracted, and one glance at an unveiled dick can easily send you into heat. Of course, the intensity of your own pleasure has been amplified as well, and even your ears act as a pseudo erogenous zone.

Strangely enough you also seem to have become much more attracted to races other than elves, almost as if you can sense their worth as superior males. These impulses can be resisted easily enough, but the more you give into pleasure, the harder it is to stop.

If you are a male elf and haven't taken Honey Traps then instead you have a much more subdued sex drive in comparison to your female counterpart, the point where one would question if you have one at all. You can go at it, maybe once every decade.

A Friendly Jumper's Daily Life (+0 CP): Can you say 'reverse rape' jumper? Because that is what is happening all across this world. The Goddess, having completely given up trying to curb the elves' excessive lustful nature, has commanded the elves across the world that 'rather than being dominated, you should dominate the other creatures instead'. A command that was followed all throughout the elven world with gusto.

The specifics are up to you, but essentially the 'elves being dominated by humans' flavor of the jump has been replaced by 'elves dominating the human'.

Elves Are Quick To Recognize Lewdness (+100 CP Human only): and they see right through you. Elves having recognized their grand history of being the sex toys of other races are much more paranoid about creatures from the other races, not even considering meeting diplomats and attacking and driving off or killing any intruders in elven territory. Don't expect to have the benefit of things like stealth or subtlety in your elf lewding quest, as any elf you meet can tell right away the sexual desire waiving off of you (even if you don't have any).

Half-Elf (+100 CP Requires Elf, Incompatible with World of Elves): What a sad being you are Jumper, to be caught between both worlds and universally looked down upon. You are the child between a human and an elf of your chosen race and thus are considered to be a cursed birth by the rest of elf kind. Besides a slightly decreased lifespan, many of the benefits that normal elves get, like beauty, are still alive and well in you, but for other elves you might as well be a human with elf ears for how poorly they treat you. Don't expect to make many friends among your fellow elves as they can somehow sense your human blood, and humans are more likely to try to enslave you then welcome you in their own lands, or violently take their frustration about elves out on your hide.

Elven Arrogance (+100 CP): You have an ego to match even the most conceited of gods. Not just the filthy lesser races like the humans and orcs, but you even look down on your elven brethren as being beneath you. Not even counting how much this will kill your social life, the dangers of constantly overestimating yourself and underestimating your enemies goes without saying.

Purest Elf Around (+100 CP): Despite being lewd, elves are a remarkably chaste race, with many of them avoiding sexual intercourse until much later in their life, and even then they tend to do it sparingly, only with their beloved husbands in order to have children. That is not the case anymore as it seems that the species wide lewdness of elves has made them much more open about sex. Not only is it generally expected for female elves to have gone through a few elven men before adulthood, but they also have captured or created numerous creatures to act as sex slaves to satisfy their own desires. As a result of this, expect any elf you get into bed with to have more than her fair share of past lovers, and to be much less impressed about what you're packing or your own sexual skills.

Turbo Lewd (+100 CP): Most elves are able to bury away their perverted tendencies to the point where one wonders if they have those thoughts at all. Not you though, you are, to put it plainly, an open sex addict. If you are an elf then considering how important chastity and purity is to elven culture, elves who more openly embrace their perverted side are, at best, shunned and exiled, meaning this is not a particularly good attitude to have. Don't think you'll get off scot free if you're human either, as it's probably not a good idea to tell that elven mage, who could blow you up with a gesture, about your perverted plans to dominate her before you actually are doing it.

Orc Plague (+100 CP Incompatible with Filthy Beast): Humans aren't the only threat the elves face after all, these large green skinned barbarians have one reason for existing, to satiate their lusts for battle, conquest, and women. To put it simply they want to fuck you and/or steal all your waifus. Be careful as each of them have very big Dic-...muscles and thus can overpower even normal elves and humans with brute strength alone. Of course they have no magical talent or defenses to speak of and could likely be easily overwhelmed by proper magic, not to mention they're rather unintelligent and disorganized. Still they have numbers and determination on their side, and it seems like whenever you put an end to one horde, another appears a few months later around you.

Each orc can be considered to have the perk BHC (although for orcs it would be more like BOC).

-Orc Warlord (+100 CP): You know how I said the orcs were unintelligent, disorganized, and have no magic to speak off? Well it seems that it was a lie. One powerful orc magician, both smarter and more viciously cunning than his fellows, has taken the mantle of an orc king to try to lead his kind to conquer the world. The orcs have all become a unified horde, and they have traded in their weak clubs and shitty or nonexistent armor, for proper maces and platemail that seems to be resistant to magic. On the bright side if some hero manages to slay the king, the orcs will immediately lose their steam and devolve into infighting.

Weight of the Ages (+200 CP): Elves are not a species known for their quick learning skills, it takes years for an elf to learn a skill that a human could take months, and that's not even getting into the traditionalist among elves who balk at the elf race learning anything new. Unfortunately, elf or not, your ability to learn anything new has been severely handicapped. A skill that would take an ordinary human a few weeks to learn might take you years, and you can forget about your own creativity as it too has been severely weakened as well leading you to usually go for the most basic solutions to everything.

Of course any perks you might have that help your learning have been disabled for the duration of the jump.

Lewd but Competent/Lewd and Incompetent (+200 CP): If you are a human then sadly you can no longer expect to just substitute sexual skill for actual skill in combat. Trained soldiers/mages can and will fight through the pleasure and punch you in the face. You have to either be stronger than the elf (very unlikely for a normal human), get another elf slave to beat them, or break them in a more subtle way outside of trying to force yourself on her or on the battlefield. Be warned that even outside of battle elves are going to be a lot more cautious and paranoid, making it much more difficult to try to pull anything on them.

If you are an elf then this drawback instead does the opposite of the above. Your fellow elves seem to near universally be on the edge, and the slightest hint of pleasure will render even the greatest of mages or soldiers completely useless. Even outside of battle they tend to fall for the most obvious of traps or ploys, like a elf princess going off to a human kingdom alone to negotiate a treaty, never once thinking that the humans will just capture her and turn her into a sex slave instead. Don't expect your elf 'allies' to be of all that much help.

Naive Fool (+200 CP): You know how in hentai doujins they have the characters act like complete dunces who screw up and are easily taken advantage of by the human/orc/monster that wants to conquer them. Well I'm afraid that character is now you. By taking this drawback your intelligence and wisdom have both taken a sharp nosedive, letting you easily fall for even the most basic traps or tricks and allowing a smart enough enemy to run circles around you.

World's Longest Escort Quest (+200 CP): Congratulations Jumper, you have a wonderful traveling companion now. This busty elven maiden wants to see the world and you have been granted the 'noble' duty of guarding her in this pursuit. Of course, by 'guard' it really means that you have to stop any wandering human or beast from turning her into a cocksleeve while she is wandering the world. A job that isn't helped by the fact that she is also painfully naive and a bit dumb, trusting obviously amorous humans or thinking a place called 'tentacle forest' would be a nice place to go for a walk. Luckily you don't have to defend her chastity so much as ensure her mind remains unbroken, so you have around an hour to 'rescue' her before her mind completely goes out the window and you have failed the jump. Though it might be a good idea to try to defend her chastity, as the more 'encounters' she has, the lewder she becomes.

...What about yourself? Silly Jumper, the whole reason why you are guarding her is to ensure she remains pure for her wedding at the decades end. Of course you can't lay your hands on her.

Human Plague (+200 CP Incompatible with World of Elves): Ordinarily the majority of humanity would be hiding in the human kingdoms, meekly believing that after failing to conquer outside of the territory in the City of Slaves, they could never match against the Elves' superiority. With this drawback, that is no longer the case. Some humans, who now possess the full perklines of the Human origin, have ventured out from the human kingdoms, intent on carving up elven kingdoms for themselves or just to satisfy their libido. If you're an elf then it seems an inordinate amount will be coming for you and your friends and if you're not then they instead see you as competition and seek to have you killed and your own elves conquered by them.

Goddesses's Wrath (+300 CP): The Goddess has sensed your arrival and fearing the untold damage (or 'damage') you could cause among her beloved children she has sounded the alarm. Throughout all elven territory High Elves received visions of you causing the destruction of the elf race, and as such warned every elf around them of your threat. Any elf kingdom that spots you will gather their armies and kill you no questions asked, and if you prove to be enough of a threat there is a possibility that the entire might of the elvish race might come down on your head.

A Pathetic Human (+300 CP Can't be taken if this is the First Jump): What wonderful powers you must have gained over the course of your travels among the multiverse. Strength that can bring low any monster, magic power that could overcome any god, or technological might beyond any beings comprehension. Not for the duration of this jump though, the goddess looks down on any creature that would dare try to overshadow her beloved elves. By choosing this all out of jump powers, items, and companions have been taken away from you.

She Who Thirsts (+300 CP): ... Huh, it seems that the goddess had a real reason beyond just vanity to put such a ban on sex for the elves. You see hidden beneath the fabric of reality is a powerful entity, one that feeds off excess emotions. This creature found the elves of this world to be an absolute delectable treat and from then on whenever any elf experiences an overwhelming amount of emotion at once, such as pleasure, they will find their souls ripped out of their body and into its maw. Yes, that includes you if you took the elf origin yourself, or any elf companions or slaves you try to make this jump.

After Ten Years...

Stay Here: Perhaps you grew to enjoy being waited on hand on foot, on dick, by countless lewd elves of the land. Or maybe you want to stay with your elven sisters to guide them on a less lewd (or more lewd) path.

Go Home: Perhaps visiting this fetishized world was way too much for you, or maybe you have already realized all you wanted out of a chain by lewding the elves of the world.

Move On: I'm certain there would be some interesting reactions across the multiverse if you show the elves off this world in more 'normal' settings.

Notes

Version 1.0 (I made the OC companions too long Edition)

Created by Pucelle with help from the various people of QQ and anons.

Perks that affect elves also affect half-elves in a similar way as well as anyone with a bit of elven blood (although the less elf blood in them the weaker the effect).

You can choose if the elves in the Amazonian Elf Forest look like normal looking elves or, on average, take on a taller and more muscular appearance instead.

If you purchase Sacred Barrier Shield as a human then rather than possessing the shield yourself you instead will meet the barrier maiden of an important area, like a divine tree or the palace of an elf queen. She is rather naive and has little issue with allowing you through as long as you ‘promise to be on your best behavior.’ You can also seduce her, conquer the area, and have her invert the barrier so that it keeps out other elves while you enjoy your new slaves in peace. Post Jump she becomes a follower and carries the shield with her to deploy it wherever you want.

Purchasing Divine Tree Seed as a Human nets you a Fake divine tree seed instead. To elves the divine tree made from this seed seems to work just like the one that elves get and as a result it is bound to attract plentiful elf settlers to its roots. However in actuality the seed was corrupted by lewd energies long ago and the tree sprouted from it is a perversion of one of the Goddess’s Divine Trees. Rather than being a conduit for the Goddess’s divine energy the tree instead mimics the energy but actually infuses the elves with its own perverted energies. Elves that are exposed for too long become noticeably lewder and weaker to seduction instead of more mentally resistant. Additionally whenever a High Elf tries to use the tree to commune with the goddess the tree instead redirects them to yourself, allowing you to give useful or perverted commandments instead which most High Elves would blindly follow. Of course the more a High Elf communes with you and acts as a channel for the tree, the more perverted they are going to get.

Post jump both Divine Tree Items after planting seem to follow you in your travels and plant themselves close to whatever location you show up in.

Purchasing the OC companions as an Elf alters the flavor of them a bit. Maybe instead of a nymphomaniac high elf priestess you instead get a noble adherent to the goddesses's teachings, or maybe instead you were one of her 'converters.' Fanwank as necessary.

Presumably by taking drawbacks, or scenarios that massively affect the world, such as completely removing humans, making the elves monogendered, or turning all the elves into doms some of the jumps text which takes such things for granted can no longer apply. In this case just substitute the world changes as needed.

The Elf goddess domains influence the elves linked up to her. If you complete the scenario and change how she is worshipped then you can alter the domains as you wish, although she herself would be capped out at only four. So if she is worshipped as a goddess of strength the elves would all naturally become more stronger and amazonian, fertility would increase their birth rates and make them more baby happy, magic would make all elves more magically powerful and better scholars etc. The more concentrated the domain the stronger the boost.

The Goddess herself gains a boost in whatever domain she specialized in. Which is also why the 'miracles' described in the High Elf perk tended towards healing (purity) and nature (storms/using nature to attack her enemies). So strength would give her the ability to buff up chosen elves to be really stronk, fertility would allow her make nature/agriculture flourish, magic would allow miracles that increase magical power/spell duration etc. etc.